Gen. Julian S. Carr and Major day evening for a short while. J. W. Hamilton, of Durham, had a little fleticuff Saturday over arrangements for the old soldiers' parade Saturday. They soon made up however.

We think the editors who always have a long string of things for the community to do have lost their calling. They could more appropriately be engaged at cowpunching.

The report of the grand jury for the February term of the Rowan Superior Court was received culars. and ordered filed. The report of the May term will be treated like-Watch and wait.

No amount of washing, polishing and doctering will change sap stone to good, hard, durable granite, and no amount of subtorfuges will help the King Lumber Com-pany to get off with the cash without giving us a first-class court

Last week a member of the grand jury spent the night in the city lock up for being drunk on the streets. How honorable it is to take an oath to report all violations of the law, etc., and then take a high dive in the slough of despond. Yes, Salisbury is THE

It sounds strange to hear men, who knew what the Democratic party stood for in the way of tariff, talking as though the country was going to the bow-wows if the party attempts to fulfil its promises. Why brethren, by a re-duction of the tariff the people will be benefited instead of the trusts and bloated bondholders. How often have you been told Oh ye of little faith.

The attention of the Statesville Landmark is called to the fact that Judge B. F. Long, who is holding court here this week, did not arrive here Monday until noon and that the grand jury, petit jury, witnesses, lawyers and others interested, were kept waiting almost a half day. We have not yet heard of the Judge entering a fine for his tardiness. This is a chance for the Landmark to hit at one who is in reach.

The county commissioners have brought it all on themselves They were cautioned and importuned to put a reliable disinterested inspector on the job, but would not. THE WATCHMAN has published time and again the conditions that existed but they hardened their hearts, stiffened their necks and went head-long appearently without wishing any one to head them off. Take your medicir e, gentlemen.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Talbort went to Winston last week to look for Will Gardner, who was suspicioned of doing the stealing act with a pole on Chestnut Hill Gardner was found and he had a portion of the money and several pair of the stolen pants with him. Gardner was also wanted in Winston for a similar offense, but was brought here and jailed to await the action of the court. Gardner is thought to be the man who robbed W A Lyerly some time ago, at any rate he had Mr. Lyerly's atore k. y and gold watch. On examination of Gardner's room here quite a number of stolen articles were found and a bunch of 79 keys. It is believed he has been doing a big business in his line in this section of the State.
