That North Carolina must be self-sustaining. There must, he says, be a "conscription and mobilization," of all idle acres that can be made to produce food and feed. On almost every farm there are "idle patches" enough to plant special food crops that will be of vast importance in making the farm products equal to the demand in this state. Every tenant should be given rent free, enough land to grow the vegetables for his family.

The Governor believes there are probably idle farms in numbers of the counties that could be cultivated by county chaingangs and made to furnish the supplies for their maintenance. Mobilizing State's Idle Acres.

The mobilization and utilization of every idle acre in North Carolina for May 1. the production of food supplies is contemplated by Governor T. W. Bickett in the appointment of a Food Conservation Commission. By this step, the first plans are made for a state-wide campaign which is expected to make city back yards as well as rural stubfood for man and beast.

The commission is composed of Governor Bickett, chairman; Major W. A. Riddick, President of the State College of Agriculture and Engineering; C. R. Hudson, State Demonstration Agent; J. Paul Lucas, President of the State Farmers Convention; Dr. H. Q. Alexander, President of the State Farmers' Union. The first meeting is calldoon, April 17.

Women's Part in Fire Prevention. An earnest appeal is being made by Col. James R. Young, insurance commissioner, to women in North Carolina to help in the fight against fire. The fire waste in this state involves not only a great loss of property, but of lives also. Some women may feel that it is strange that this appeal should be made to them, but they are more deeply interested than any other class and they can accomplish as much, if not more, in stopping this loss of life and property. It is an encouragement to make this appeal, as a woman is not liable to fail to heed calls of this kind, especially when the appeal is so strong and urgent. It affects her home and her children and their safety.

To give you an idea of this toll, remember that every great city in the old world, from Carthage up to the present day, has on one or more occasions been destroyed by fire, and practically every large city in America has had its destructive fire. The annual fire loss in the United States and Canada approximates $250,000,000, and in our own state this destruction, not counting the loss of life, amounts to nearly four million dollars a year.

Many people had gathered, not only for Jesus' sake, but that they might see Lazarus also. He drew people because of what Jesus had done for him, yet he drew them to Jesus. This brought him also under condemnation, for we must share the bitterness of the foes of Jesus.
