"Human Nature."

Curses do not always land where they are sent.

One who never forgives an enemy, often forgets a friend.

The sweetest songs are those heard when you were a child.

A woman never tires of being told that she is loved.

Concealment in love may be prudence and not deceit.

To look back on a happy youth is to live twice, then and now.

It is never good form for a man to pose as too innocent.

A man proposes, woman supposes, that is if she thinks she will.

The man that is perfectly contented with the world is too good for it.

Every century prides itself that it is better than all other centuries.

The pessimist admits himself a failure.

A performance today is cash in hand; a promise of tomorrow is only a note of hand.

The shortest road to happiness is to be content where you are and with what you have.

When people love you they cheat you; when they fear you they let you cheat them.

The people that we come in contact with during our every day lives influence our thoughts to greater extent than most people are willing to admit.

All centuries until the nineteenth belonged to man. The nineteenth century was woman's. The twentieth century is children's century as well as the thought century.

Man has three creators, God, himself and his fellows. Few realize the extent to which we are made by the great mass of humanity of which we are part.

A fairly large nose is a sign of an active, progressive disposition; one that "gets ahead" in the world, and is a good sign, if not too pronounced. A long straight nose denotes a fine, high spirited nature, and a small nose is indicative of lack of energy and temperament.

Wake up, Mr Merchant.

The great bulk of retail business now going to the city is exclusive evidence that the country merchants have gone to dream land and during their "snooze" the wide awake mail order houses, like a thief at midnight, through the intelligent use of printers ink have stolen the jewel and are now enjoying the fruits of their intelligence at the expense of the country towns. Through our neglect the city's exerting an influence over the country that is sapping the very life blood out of home enterprises, killing off the allurement of country life and destroying rural advantages. We know of two young women from Yadkinville who only a few days ago went to the city and spent near one hundred dollars for merchandise, while the home merchant keeps his goods on the shelf apparently unaware of the flow of money from the country to the city. It is up to the merchants of the smaller towns to wake up, use a little printers ink, take a part in community affairs and encourage the rebuilding of that which leads to the betterment of our surroundings.—Yadkinville Ripple.

Minister Spoke on Street Fined $50.

In Bowling Green Kentucky, Rev. Wm. R. Roberts has been assessed a fine of $50.00 which with the cost makes a total of $60.45 and he has been informed that he must either pay the full amount or work it out at hard labor because he dared to speak on the streets of that city without a permit from the mayor. This is an example of the curb that is being put on free speech in many municipalities. Rome is continually, under one pretense and another seeking the enactment of censorship ordinances in city and towns and the use to which she puts them is demonstrated in the case of the Rev Mr Roberts, who when he speaks on Romanism at all, sees fit to expose the machinations of the papa's machine.

Had Mr Roberts exercised free speech without the mayor's permit in praise of some priest or some papal politician it would be interesting to know whether or not the ordinance would have been so rigidly enforced. Those cities and towns which have not already established such a censorship as has been established in Bowling Green should remember that free speech is one of the most vital safeguards of this republic and should resist every effort to establish any such measures for they cannot fail to be out of harmony with the spirit of our constitution, and derogatory to the best interests of the republic.—The Menace.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY

An Ambition and a Record

THE needs of the South are identical with the needs of the Southern Railway; the growth and success of one means the upbuilding of the other.

The Southern Railway asks no favors—no special privilege not accorded to others.

The ambition of the Southern Railway Company is to see that unity of interest that is born of co-operation between the public and the railroads; to see perfected that fair and frank policy in the management of railroads which invites the confidence of governmental agencies; to realize that liberality of treatment which will enable it to obtain the additional capital needed for the acquisition of better and enlarged facilities incident to the demand for increased and better service; and, finally—

To take its niche in the body politic of the South alongside of other great industries, with no more, but with equal liberties, equal rights and equal opportunities.

"The Southern Serves the South."
