GO ON YOUR VACATION PROPERLY.

So Valuable Information Concerning What to Do For Insect Bites and Poisons, Etc.

Everybody going on country trips or to the woods this summer should know what to do for insect bites, especially those who intend camping out. Besides, it's not a bad thing to know if you stay at home. The most common bites or stings are those of the bee, wasp, yellow jacket, spider, horsefly, yellow fly, red bug, or chigger, flea, mosquito and bedbug.

In case of a sting of any kind, the first thing to do, of course, is to remove the sting. This can best be done with the point of a knife or needle but care should be taken not to break the skin for fear of infection. Then the next best thing, perhaps, is to apply ammonia water to the affected parts.

In case of bites as well as of stings, when the sting is removed, as a rule a paste of common baking soda applied to the affected parts or those bathed in ammonia water is all that is necessary. Where the poisonous effect is severe, however, send for a doctor. In the meantime, the patient should lie down and keep quiet.

An application of a fifty percent solution of a saturated solution of potassium permanganate which you get at the drug store is very efficient for insect poisons and for the poisons of plants, too, such as poison ivy and sumach. In planning your trip or outing, include one or more of these remedies in the list of preparations.

The best thing to do about poisoning from poison oak is to prevent it. Wear gloves or going where it is and keep hands from face and nose. If, however you get the poisoning, wash it off as soon as possible with strong soap and water. If you are in the woods and soap is not available, use fine sand or mud and rub vigorously in order to remove the oily-like substance. If soap and water or strong soap suds do not check the irritation, use baking soda in water, or paint the affected parts with a solution of potassium permanganate (1 to 2,000). For this treatment, it will be well to call in a doctor.

Women Give Out.

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every Salisbury woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, be glad to heed this Salisbury woman's experience.

Mrs M A Winecoff, 331 E Kerr St, says: "My back ached so much I could hardly drag myself around and mornings I could hardly get out of bed. My kidneys were in bad shape. My nerves were all unstrung and I suffered from headaches and often felt as though I would lose my reason. I tried many medicines but nothing seemed to do me any good until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Co. and took them. They relieved me from the first and I continued taking them until my back didn't ache and my kidneys caused me no trouble." Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs Winecoff had. Foster-Milburn Co Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

SOLDIERS MAY VOTE AT FRONT.

But You Must Register Now Under the Absent Voters' Law. Cannot Register by Mail.

Under date of July 21st, W E Wilson, secretary of the North Carolina Council of Defence, sends out the following information on the subject: Please permit me through your paper to call the attention of your readers to the law enacted at the last session of the General Assembly which permits absent electors to vote.

Soldiers in the National Guard, all men who are called to service under the selective draft, and any other voters who may be absent from their home voting places at the time of the next primary election in May, 1918, or at the general election in November thereafter should by all means see to it now that their names are entered on Absent Voters' Registration Book, unless their names are already on the regular registration books.

The chairman of the county board of elections in each county is the registrar for all such voters who wish to register. The sheriff or any county officer will, upon request, furnish his name and address.

If a voter is now registered, he will be entitled to vote by mail if away from home at the time of the primary or the general election, but there is no provision in the law for registration by mail.

There is no fee for this registration and every voter whose name is not now on the registration books, who may be absent, owes the duty both to himself and to his State to register and register now, for unless he does so register in person before going away, he will not be permitted to vote by mail, and, if away from home, will thus lose his vote.

This law was enacted primarily for the benefit of our soldiers, and it is hoped that they will avail themselves of its privileges.

Are you one of Them?

There are a great many people who would be very much benefited by taking Chamberlain's Tablets for a weak disordered stomach. Are you one of them? Mrs M R Seal, Baldwinville, N. Y., relates her experience in the use of these tablets: I had a bad spell with my stomach about six months ago, and was troubled for two or three weeks with gas and severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Our druggist advised me to take Chamberlain's Tablets. I took a bottle home and the first dose relieved me wonderfully, and I kept on taking them until I was cured. These tablets do not relieve pain but after the pain has been relieved may prevent its recurrence.

Salisbury's Military Organization Gets Ready for Camp.

The Salisbury military organization known as the 4th Company Coast Artillery Corps, North Carolina National Guard, entered the government service today at ten o'clock and ate their first army rations at noon. The men will be quartered in the armory on the third floor of the Washington building, will eat in the vacant store room opposite the old court house and those who reside here will be permitted to sleep at home. This arrangement will continue for about two weeks, and then the company will leave for "summers else."

ROME AND KAISER UP TO SAME TRICKS.

Statistical Reports Indict Southern Ireland, Papal Plot Shows Germany's Hand.

The Menace.
An indication of true conditions in Ireland is found in an article which appeared in the Belfast Evening Telegram of April 11th.

In recruits to the new armies Ulster has contributed 59,000 while the combined total of the other three provinces is only 51,700. The percentage of males of military age who have recruited are: Ulster, 33.8; Leinster (including Dublin), 17.7; and Munster, 11.7; and Connaught, 4.9.

The above statistical report together with relative matters commented upon by the Protestant Alliance Magazine of England in its issue for June as follows:

As regards the War Loan, we read that "the city of Belfast contributed £25,000,000 and Ulster 85 per cent of the total raised in Ireland for this purpose."

It has been sometimes alleged that the Protestants in the South and West of Ireland receive fair, or even generous treatment from the Romanists in the matter of election as county councillors. Well, let the figures speak and the public judge.

In Connaught there are 23,273 Protestants, but they have not a single representative on the county council.

In Munster, though they number 60,715; they are entirely unrepresented.

In Leinster, owing to the fact that they are grouped rather largely in a few places, they have secured twelve seats, but this representation is utterly inadequate, as the Protestant population of that province is 107,230. Thus outside Ulster there are only twelve Protestant county councillors, while the Romanish members are 789.

This shows a deliberate policy on the part of the latter to exclude Protestants from all participation in local government, notwithstanding their relatively large contributions to the rates. "No taxation without representation" is supposed to be a fundamental principle of democracy, but in three fourths of Ireland well-to-do ratepayers have no influence in the expenditure of the rates, solely because of sectarian animosity.

The subservient and unthinking officials in this country who believe that papal support in Ireland and in America depends on their interference with the question of Home Rule for Ireland, a matter which concerns England only, can certainly gain some enlightenment from the above.

Do our congressman and senators in this country want to put Protestant Ulster under this same yoke, which in all probability would cripple her efficiency in this world war? Little wonder England wants to keep Ulster free from papal domination when in contrast with the rest of Ireland it is doing so much to advance the interest of the entente allies.

Further evidence as to just what kind of a move this move for Irish freedom is, is set forth very clearly in an editorial contained in the Boston Transcript issue for July 7th:

A republic in Ireland could only exist on the basis of England's complete conquest, on land and sea by the Germans; for Irish independence of England could be maintained only by Germany or by some other power as strong as Great Britain.

Let us see what the situation is. Great Britain and England lie side by side. They are separate but closely neighbored portions of the same island group. Their lands are on opposite sides of the North Channel, are only twenty-five miles apart. The western shores of England and Scotland make a bend which strategically holds Ireland within its lines, and at the same time presents Ireland as a cantile sticking into Great Britain. Great Britain's sea road to the world lies past Ireland's door; in fact Ireland is England's Atlantic door.

Ireland completely blankets the English coast. It is independent and leagued with an unfriendly power, England-Scotland would be but a pawn in Europe's game. If England's ships could not ride in their own harbor at Queenstown, they might as well keep off the sea altogether.

Now this is the very thing no doubt that Darrell Figgis and his fellow Sinn Feiners would like to see; but the question is; How do they expect ever to bring it about, so long as there is an ounce of strength left in the British nation.

The population of England, Scotland and Wales is 41,689,384 that of Ireland is 4,375,654 including Ulster. The disparity of strength and resource is vastly greater than that of population. Great Britain has an enormous navy— Ireland not a ship. Great Britain has an immense army— Ireland scarce a single musket. Nothing ever more impossible to England was ever suggested than the independence of Ireland and nothing was ever more Quixotic than the suggestion that Ireland will be able to gain complete independence alone. For the fact that they must always have some political connection with England, Irishmen have only the Almighty to thank, who placed their smaller and poorer island in the physical arms of a greater and richer island.

This being indisputably the case, the only possible hope for Mr Darrell's entirely independent Irish republic in two years, or in two hundred years, rests upon the overthrow of England and is what makes an agitation for independence now a hostile and a warlike act, a German act, against Great Britain. It is what makes the advocacy of independence for Ireland just now in the United States a proceeding of a warlike nature against a country with which the United States is allied.

It is consequently a very mischievous agitation, from America's point of view and any indulgence in it on the part of American citizens gives a measure of their loyalty, or lack of loyalty, to this country, and shows us that they are willing to this which is distinctly on the side of our enemy, Germany.

From the showing it seems clear that those "Friends of Irish Freedom" in this country who are demanding "Freedom for Ireland now, are steering a course as directly in opposition to the allied cause, the settlement of which in accordance with their views would without doubt be a calamity to the entente government and as unjust to Ulster as it is in accordance with the program Germany would direct were she given free range to do so.
