The Watchman Joins Century Club Of The American Press

The Carolina Watchman has been added to the membership list of The American Press century club, according to information reaching the publishers from the New York publication.

The American Press has compiled a list of all papers, daily and weekly, that have been published for more than 100 years. The Watchman is the only paper that has been continuously published in this state for that period of time.

According to the list compiled by The American Press, there are very few papers whose life has extended to or beyond the century mark.

The Watchman is now entering upon its one hundredth year of publication. Later in the year, The Watchman will publish a Century Edition. In that issue, the life of The Watchman, and the exciting periods through which it has passed, will be given in detail.

SAYS CHILDREN LACK ADEQUATE TRAINING

New York—Lack of a sense of responsibility, said Mrs. Cecile Pilpel, is what is wrong with most children.

Mrs. Pilpel, director of the study groups of the Child Study Association of America, mother of four children and grandmother of three, went on to explain.

"It is all right to teach children to be self-reliant. It is all right to teach them initiative. But most parents are learning that these things do not develop a sense of responsibility in the children toward themselves or other people."

City parents complain to Mrs. Pilpel that their children are not nice toward others; that they "take all and give nothing."

This attitude, she said, is due to the fact that children who live in metropolitan areas rarely see the effort that goes into the production of the things they want.

"Country children see cause and effect before their very eyes," she explained.

"Artificially giving children chores to do in city homes doesn't work very well. The child sees through the propaganda," Mrs. Pilpel added.

"The only way to develop responsibility in children, is to teach them to do things, not because these things are good for them, but because it is their duty to do their share toward helping other people be responsible. It works better than any other theory," Mrs. Pilpel said.

bility in children, is to teach them to do things, not because these things are good for them, but because it is their duty to do their share toward helping other people be responsible. It works better than any other theory," Mrs. Pilpel said.

BROOKS IS BOOSTED

Greensboro—A. L. Brooks is being boosted by prominent North Carolinians for the United States Supreme court seat which is being vacated by Oliver Wendell Holmes. Political leaders declare that Mr. Brooks has a splendid chance to get the place.

SMITH BELIEVES DRY LAW REPEAL IS IMPOSSIBLE

New York — The Prohibition Amendment, Alfred E. Smith—one of its most severe critics—believes, is in the Constitution to stay.

"I believe, however, that another amendment can be added which will provide that any State may, with the approval of the people, take control of such matters itself," he said.

"When the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted the people thought that all you had to do was to forbid something and that no one would do it. We have been at it twelve years, and the President's own commission says prohibition is unenforceable because it lacks public support."

"There has been no organized plan to defeat the prohibition law. We have an opposition without a plan—we are just 'against' something."

The former Governor and 1928 Democratic Presidential candidate said prohibition is a political question.

"They even elect county clerks on it," he said. He suggested, however, that it should be taken from politics and left to the American people themselves to decide. A decision on this question, one way or another, he said, would "greatly benefit business in this country."

"Liquor is flowing freely throughout the country," he added. "If you don't know it any other way, then you'll discover it by reading the report of the Wickersham committee."

Historic Painting of Washington Restored to View

The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City has yielded to demands that it restore the painting, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," to its walls. Recently the trustees decided the painting was not a real work of art and ordered it to be stored in the basement. The painting was made by Emanuel Leutze, a German artist of the American school, in 1851.

SALARY FIGURES FOR OFFICIALS OF NORTH CAROLINA COMPILED

While salary cuts of state officials is the most important topic in Raleigh, it is interesting to know just what some of the state officials and employees are drawing.
