

Peacock Confirmed As Postmaster For City

SALISBURY MAN TO TAKE OFFICE HERE AT ONCE

Nomination Confirmed By The Senate Some Days Ago; Will Take Office As Soon As Commission Arrives And Arrangements For Bond Completed.

Philip N. Peacock has been formally appointed postmaster of Salisbury and will assume his new duties in the near future.

Several days ago the nomination was submitted to the senate by President Hoover, where it was confirmed and a commission issued. As soon as the commission is received and a bond arranged for the sum of $32,000, Mr. Peacock will be sworn in for a term of four years to succeed R. C. Jennings, who has been acting postmaster since the death of James H. Ramsey, in 1930.

Mr. Peacock is engaged in the wholesale grocery business in the city and is known and respected by a wide circle of friends who are wishing him a successful administration. Under the Republican administration he served a term as county auditor.

Colored Kitchen Wear Makes Cooking Bright

You can buy pots and pans of colored enamel, and if you wish to give a really colorful tone to your kitchen you can emphasize it with paraphernalia of this kind.

Take, for instance, a kitchen finished in brown stained wood—and some kitchens are, because the stained wood is so much easier to keep clean than white enamel. You can do much to give attractiveness to such a room by using yellow curtains at the windows, yellow painted chairs—and yellow enameled ware.

Red enameled ware looks very well in a cream or yellow kitchen. Then red and white checked gingham curtains at the windows would be in place, and red and white washable rugs where you have a comfortable rocking chair for the maid's moments of rest.

These colored enamel dishes are as easily kept clean as the white ones. They are really made in very lovely colors, too.

Green you might use in a gray-walled kitchen, which should, like any gray-walled room, be sunny and bright. Green would also be attractive in a blue-walled kitchen with white woodwork. And if you go in for colored woodwork green could be used in the kitchen with green-painted woodwork.

Here is a delicious pie crust that anyone can make. It has a rich "caramel-ly" taste. Crumble 12 Graham crackers fine and mix with 1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cup sugar. Grease pan and pat in pie crust. With a very sweet filling, use 1-3 cup butter, 1 tablespoon sugar.

Blueberry Muffins—Add a half cup of blueberries—fresh, in season, but in the winter, drained canned blueberries—to the batter.

Cereal Muffins—Add a half cup of cooked left over cereal to the batter.

Corn Muffins—Mix and sift one cup of flour, a half cup of corn meal, three teaspoons of baking powder, one tablespoon of sugar, a saltspoon of salt. Add gradually three-quarters of a cup of milk, one beaten egg, and one tablespoon of melted fat. Bake in hot oven for twenty-five minutes.

A New Job For Electricity

ELECTRICITY, tireless choreboy of a modern world, has been given another job. It is being used as a soil warmer for growing plants.

"If you had asked me a half dozen years ago what I thought of the prospects for electric hotbeds," says George W. Kable, director of the National Rural Electric Project, in the current issue of The Country Gentleman, "I probably would have said that the idea was interesting theoretically but without any great practical value. I would have told you that it was a little presumptuous to expect electricity to compete with manure in heating a hotbed."

But today, Mr. Kable goes on to explain, electric hotbeds are being used with splendid results by nurserymen and truck farmers throughout the country. Electricity is proving itself a better warming agent than manure and usually is more economical.

The most popular and adaptable warming equipment is a small, flexible, lead-covered cable. The nurseryman simply removes the topsoil and lays the heat-radiating cable in place, doubling it back and forth across the bed with the strands six or seven inches apart. The soil is then replaced and the hotbed is ready for use. Sometimes a thermostat is installed at the edge of the bed for automatic temperature control.

Since the electrical warming of hotbeds has proved so successful, the principle is rapidly being extended to other branches of plant culture.

The proximity of most nurseries to urban centers and the ease with which electric current may be obtained from power lines, coupled with the decline in rates, assure a spectacular development in this field. The Country Gentleman writer believes. The magic of electricity is beginning to serve agriculture in earnest.

Changing Poultry Feed May Destroy Profits

It is a wise plan to use home-grown feeds for poultry but it is a poor policy to substitute poorer feeds in an effort to keep down expenses. To do so may cut deeply into the profits to be expected from the flocks this season.

"Poultry has suffered along with other farm crops but due to the drop in feed prices in proportion to the prices being received for eggs and because of the mild winter permitting production to stay at level, poultrymen have been much encouraged to go ahead with their work," says Roy S. Dearstyne, head of the poultry department at State College. "However, some poultrymen have attempted to increase their margin of profit by decreasing the feeding or substituting certain feeds which do not give as good results. One of the main substitutions being practiced is to use vegetable protein feeds for animal protein feeds. Soybean meal and peanut meal are good if used in limited quantities but they should not entirely displace the animal protein especially at this season of the year when production is heavy and the eggs are being used for hatching."

Any radical change from the usual methods of feeding at this time is likely to be reflected in the hatchability of the eggs or the livability of the chicks, Mr. Dearstyne says. The breeding hens should be fed so that they will produce only the highest quality of eggs.

HOARDED MONEY NOW COMING OUT

Dead dollars are responding already to the government's war on hoarding, calling them from their hiding places in socks.

Thousands of letters radiating confidence and promising support pour in daily into the office of Frank Knox, chairman of President Hoover's anti-hoarding committee and publishers of the Chicago Daily News.

Another point, which Mr. Knox considers almost as important, is that many letters are written by hand on blue-ruled tablet paper suggesting origins in humble homes.

It is to them, Knox said, the idea of putting hoarded cash back into circulation has appealed most strongly.

These penciled notes encourage the committee more than bond stationery and imposing letterheads. Mr. Knox says they indicated the backbone of the country has been stiffened with optimism from the smallest consumers up.

The committee was given an idea of the enormity of its task when a Federal bank examiner reported the condition of a bank in a small western city. Water mains burst, flooding the vaults. They held $500,000 in cash deposits, but an additional $347,000 were found soaked in safe deposit boxes.

A Worthwhile Creed

I believe in the goods I am selling, in the firm I am working for, and in my ability to get results. I believe that honest merchandise can be sold to honest people by honest methods. I believe in working, not weeping; in boosting, not knocking; and the pleasure of my job. I believe that a man gets what he goes after; that one deed done today will be worth two deeds done tomorrow, and that no man is down and out until he has lost faith in himself. I believe in today and the work I am doing; in tomorrow and the work I hope to do, and in the sure reward which the future holds. I believe in courtesy, in kindness, in generosity, in good cheer, in friendship, and in honest competition.—Greenboro Merchants Association Bulletin.
