

Here's Corn That Will Make Money

CORN, being one of the major items produced on American farms, deserves ample fertilization.

Above we picture a section of the corn field of B. C. Holland, of Holland, Va. "Junior" seems as well pleased as his father with the splendid condition of this corn.

In this field the rows were dressed with Arcadian Nitrate of Soda which accounts for its perfect condition.

While soil conditions vary in different sections of the South, better corn and bigger profits will result from side-dressing with approximately 150 lbs. of Nitrate of Soda about six weeks after planting when the stalks should be about eighteen to twenty inches high. Carefully supervised tests have proved that net profits are increased amazingly if this is done.

Perjury Charges Will Fail, It Is Believed

LAWYERS DOUBT CONVICTION OF YOUNCE-BRINKLEY

Do Not Think Coroner's Jury Was Legally Constituted When Defendants Were Sworn And Testified.

Geo. A. Younce, Greensboro, former solicitor, and W. F. Brinkley, prominent Lexington attorney, cleared of charges of manslaughter in Davidson superior court in connection with the death of Sheriff James Leonard of Davidson, will never be convicted of the remaining charges of perjury for several very good reasons, prominent attorneys familiar with this case and with perjury trials in general, state.

While such attorneys admit that the two men "told lies," they remind that perjury is defined as swearing falsely to a material fact in an action before a duly or legally constituted court, and, with this in view, they say the perjury charges will not stand, for several reasons:

1. When Sheriff Leonard was killed, the county coroner automatically and immediately became sheriff of the county, and, as such, he was no longer the coroner, so he had no authority to hold a coroner's inquest. His court, therefore, was not a duly constituted court, so the testimony offered at the first coroner's hearing, not being before a legal court, was not perjury.

2. A coroner's jury must be empaneled and sit in the presence of the body. The hearing was at the office of the chief of police of Lexington and the body was not present at the first hearing. Also, on that score, the coroner's jury was not a legally constituted body.

3. The jurors, composing this first so-called jury, are said to have been sworn in by holding up their hands, not by touching and kissing the Bible, the legal form prescribed for an oath. The jurors were, therefore, not sworn.

4. The witnesses, including Younce and Brinkley, were also sworn by holding hands, were not sworn at all. It is pointed out that the higher courts have held that when a witness holds the Bible in his hand while being sworn, and fails to kiss the Book, he has not been properly sworn, so, these not being properly sworn, could not swear a falsehood.

Either of these reasons, it is pointed out, is sufficient to cause the perjury charges to fail, while still other defects are said to exist in the alleged evidence against the men.

Farmers Must Plan For Profits

WHEN selling prices are low, the only sure road to profits is the one which leads to lower production costs. The farmer cannot control market buying prices. But he can control his own operating costs and he can plan to maintain a fair margin of profit.

To reduce production cost (even though the farmer cultivates fewer acres) PER ACRE PRODUCTION MUST BE INCREASED.

This calls for more intensive fertilization which will make every acre under cultivation give maximum results. Since labor costs remain about the same per acre, regardless of production volume, increased per acre production really means a proportionate saving in labor cost. Better fertilizing means also better quality which in turn means higher selling prices.

This is not mere theory. It has been proved over and over again in numberless practical farm tests.

Nitrogen is the growth element in all fertilizers. Arcadian Nitrate of Soda used as top dressing or side dressing supplies this growth element in a quickly available form at a time when this type of plant food is vitally needed.

Only the short sighted farmer will neglect to give his fields adequate nitrogen if he hopes to make a profit.

1931 Banner Year For Ice Industry

Akron, Ohio—Nineteen-thirty-one was a banner year for the ice industry, despite the increasing use of electric refrigeration and the depression, according to Leslie S. Smith, national secretary of the National Association of Ice Industries.

More ice was sold that year than in any other year in history, Smith said.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE COLUMN

By R. E. L. NIEL

"We will need easy shipping facilities and we are thinking of Salisbury as a location because of its railroad facilities both to the East and to the West", writes an inquirer seeking an available location for an industry in a letter received by the Salisbury Chamber of Commerce during the past week. Evidently there is still drawing power in railroad facilities despite the inroads made by commercial trucks taking advantage of improved highways, and Salisbury does not have to take second place to any community in the matter of rail accommodations and connections in addition to its ideal situation on main intersecting highways.

The "nibble" for the establishment of a new industry in this city may not materialize into a real "bite" but the fact that there is a functioning chamber of commerce to receive and follow up such prospects should be an incentive for renewed and substantial support for the Salisbury organization which has been, is and will ever be alive to every opportunity looking to the progress and development of the community.

"I want to compliment you on the first issue of The Salisbury after its period of suspension," said a well known citizen to the editor of that modest candidate for public favor. His kind words called to mind a few lines noted in a recent magazine which read:—

Give tribute to the living, knowing that
A little compliment about a hat
Is worth more to the soul than great things said
In solemn, stately tones about the dead.

Speaking about "prospects" there has been an exchange of no less than three letters lately with one of our citizens about Salisbury and Rowan county. In the last letter received by the Chamber of Commerce dated March 31st among the questions propounded was "Have you had any bank or building & loan failures in the past two years?" Again is Salisbury fortunate in being able to assure the writer of the letter that not only has there been no such failures in two years nor in five years. Another question propounded by the inquirer was "Is there a Presbyterian church in Salisbury?" And still again this was an easy one to answer with the two fine Presbyterian churches here and one in Spencer to say nothing of the several in near by localities. Information on schools and colleges had already been supplied and Salisbury can well boast of its educational institutions and advantages.

It won't be long now until Salisbury takes on its dress of green; until stately oaks, graceful elms and maples make leafy bowers of street and yard and vari-hued roses fragrantly adorn each walk and bed. Already tiny shoots peep forth, certain harbingers of Spring, and give promise of the beauty and attractiveness to come. Of Salisbury can be said what Rev. De Witt Talmage denominated the home town of the writer, "It is a City built in a Park." Visitors can but find the charm that exists here, and particularly in the spring-time. So bountifully blessed by nature, surrounded by so fertile a section and peopled with the very finest of God's creatures can there be any doubt of the ultimate future of this community? What if lean years come? Certain it is that lean years also go and Salisbury and Rowan county will march on leading the cities of the Old North State and the new South to greater achievements and lasting prosperity.

Over in Salisbury's sister city of Charlotte April has been termed "Loyalty Month" for the chamber of commerce. It is proposed that 400 new members be given that organization during the month. Every month should be "loyalty month" in Salisbury for support and encouragement of the Chamber of Commerce. Something like an even hundred new members pledging their confidence and aid to this organization would enable the new administration to carry out its ambitious program and would undoubtedly rebound to the benefit of the whole community.

Lack Of Hay Is Poor Dairy Farming

A hay mow filled with nothing but air by March 1 is too common an occurrence in North Carolina and is fatal to success in dairy farming.

"A dairyman had better have too much hay than too little," says John A. Arey, dairy extension specialist at State College. "This means that a good acreage should be put to legumes during the spring and summer so that each cow will have at least two tons for feed next winter. Some of the cows may not need all of this especially if they get plenty of other feed but it is best to have a little hay left over by the end of February. The difference will be seen in the milk pail."

Mr. Arey finds from his work with the progressive dairymen of North Carolina that those who have a balance on the profit side of the ledger usually provide plenty of hay. To do so will keep the cows from the permanent pasture before it is ready. When a pasture is still soaked with winter rain and the grass is nearly all water, is a poor time to turn the cows on it, Arey says. To do so will ruin the sod and cause a decrease in growth of grass later in the summer. Then, too, the grass early in the season has little food value.

What We Need

Standing beside the grave of the Unknown Soldier, President Coolidge said: "We do not need more national development;

We need more spiritual development.

We do not need more intellectual power;

We need more spiritual power.

We do not need more knowledge;

We need more character.

We do not need more government;

We need more culture.

We do not need more law;

We need more religion."—EX.

The Shipping Qualities of Tomatoes Improved Prices

IN TESTS conducted by the West Tennessee Experiment Station, tomato plants that received heavy applications of Nitrate of Soda in addition to mixed fertilizer made high yields and produced as well fruit of improved shipping quality.

A commercial shipping test was made to a receiving point in the North, where they were examined. The fruit from the heavily fertilized plants were found to be superior.

Growers have long recognized that side-dressing with Arcadian Nitrate of Soda brought increased yield. Now they know that fruit of good shipping quality which obtains better selling prices calls for heavy fertilization.

Today much of the responsibility for promoting the welfare and prosperity of our state rests upon the shoulders of banker-leaders in each community. They can favorably influence the income of rural sections by business-like guidance in the vital problem of fertilizing crops.

This season more than ever before bankers are recommending the use of the American-made Nitrate of Soda. This product by innumerable tests has proved its real value and since it is made in this country, employing American labor, its use by farmers aids in promoting American prosperity.
