

County Fair Be Held Week Of Sept. 26 To Oct. 1

FULL WEEK OF DAY AND NIGHT ATTRACTIONS

Catalogue And Premium List Will Be Ready For Distribution Several Weeks In Advance Of The Fair.

The Rowan County Agricultural Fair will be held during the week of Sept. 26 to Oct. 1, according to an announcement by Paul Whitlock, secretary of the association.

Plans are getting under way for a full week of day and night attractions. The dirt track will be put in shape for horse racing and the free act platform will be placed in front of the grandstand as soon as the baseball season is over. The judges stand and platform were moved during the summer in order that the space inside the track might be used for baseball.

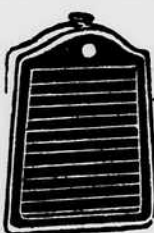

Work on the catalogue and premium list will get under way during the next few days and both will be ready for distribution several weeks in advance of the fair.

WATCH FOR 17-YEAR LOCUST AND REPORT ALL OBSERVATIONS TO ENTOMOLOGIST DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, RALEIGH

Entomologists of the State Department of Agriculture at Raleigh are unusually anxious to know when and where the seventeen-year cicadas are seen and heard in the next few weeks in the State, says Dr. R. W. Leiby, Chief of the Division of Entomology.

This brood of cicadas, falsely known as the 17-year locust, was known to be present in the single county of Henderson the last time it was due to make its appearance which was in 1915. In 1898 however, it was recorded in twelve counties in the mountains, nine counties in the piedmont and four counties in the coastal plain section of the State.

Entomologists all over the United States are anxiously waiting for records of the cicadas' appearance this year, says Dr. Leiby, because they regard North Carolina as a key state in distinguishing the 17-year and the 13-year broods of these unusual six-footed creatures.

he cicadas are not expected to do any damage except perhaps to young apple orchards. They are due to appear any day. They are recognized first by the unusual "singing" noise in a wooded area which may be mistaken for the breeding chorus of an assemblage of toads.
