

Good Farm Seeds Are Essential To Success

Heavy Loss From Poor Seed Felt

Plant And Animal Breeder Utilize The Same Natural Laws.

Farmers Constantly Victimized By Some Seed Sellers

If we are ever to secure maximum results in the production of quantity, quality and money value for all of our agricultural crops, we must devise ways and means of continuously making available to all crop producers the best and latest scientific results of that small body of trained men who are constantly working to discover and propagate more useful and profitable strains of commercial plants.

Valuable new varieties or strains cannot be effectively and quickly distributed throughout the agricultural field by the plant breeders themselves. In the first place, the supply of the newest and best strains is usually too small and the advertising cost too great to reach more than a few thousand growers. Then, the breeder must do scientific work on a large scale and grow the seed of thousands of individual plants in separate plant-rows if their work is to have constant and increasing value, and the great expense of this requires them to price their new strains of seed at several times the cost of normally good planting seed.

The plant breeder and the animal breeder both utilize the same natural laws and it has always seemed strange to me that the work of the animal breeder is so much more generally appreciated than that of the plant breeder, whereas in our section plant breeding is far more important than animal breeding. Outstanding animals, which have demonstrated their ability to produce the highest qualities of the breed, have sometimes sold at one hundred times the price that ordinary individuals of the same breed would bring. But it has always been difficult for plant breeders to get three or four times the price of ordinary seed for their new pedigrees, which have cost years of effort and thousands of dollars to produce and will in some instances more than double the profits of the farmers.

Loss From Poor Seed

The farmers are constantly being victimized by some seedsmen. Not a year passes that we do not hear of losses of many thousands of dollars by farmers who buy from seed catalogs without adequate knowledge of the characters of the seed they purchase. Take wheat, for instance; a large proportion of the varieties advertised by seedsmen are not adapted to North and South Carolina. A few years ago a wheat called Kan-Red was introduced quite extensively in North Carolina and proved to be a total failure although it had done excellently in Kansas. I know a farmer who planted 50 acres of wheat last fall from seed bought from a general seedsmen. He wrote me that it was almost a total failure. His loss on the crop must have approximated $1,000.

ELABORATE FABRICS MAKE EVENING GOWNS

Paris.—Broche (worked) fabrics are novelties in this year's winter evening mode. Black failles embroidered in silver triangles or quartered dots and white mousselines striped with silver are used for many smart dance frocks.

Most of the gowns fashioned from these elaborate fabrics are simple in design with close fitting bodies and full skirt.
