OCTOBER

Hazy dawn,
Sparkling noon,
Tingling air,
Harvest moon;
Reddened oaks,
Maples gold,
Threat of frost
Upon the wild;
Rosy cheeks,
Smiling eyes,
Early nights,
Starry skies;
Pumpkins ripe,
Apples, too,
Golden rod—
Ah-ah-kerchoo!
Birds a-wing
Headed south,
Hope, at last,
Of ended drouth;
Politics
Upon the scene;
Ghosts and spooks
At Halloween.

MISTAKES

When a garage man makes a mistake, he adds it on your bill.
When a carpenter makes a mistake, it's just what he expected.
When a preacher makes a mistake, nobody knows the difference.

When a lawyer makes a mistake, it is just what he wanted, because he has a chance to try the case all over again.

When a judge makes a mistake, it becomes the law of the land.

When a doctor makes a mistake, he buries it.
But when the editor makes a mistake—GOOD NIGHT.

What a man—what a man!

Small boy—"Dad, what are the holes in the board for?"
Dad—"Those are knot holes."
Small boy (after consideration)—"Well, if they are not holes, what are they?"

"See that woman over there? She's a payroll bandit."
"How do you know?"
"I married her."

She: Have you seen the best sellers this month?
Shaw: Seen them? I've been in them.

With thy turned down silken hose
And thy thin, transparent clothes.
With thy red lips reddened more
Smeared with lipstick from the store,
With thy powder on thy face
And thy bobbed hair's jaunty grace.
From my heart I give
Glad that I was born a boy.

Wife: Henry, how is it that there's a long fair hair on your coat, when mine is golden-brown?
Husband: "Darling, you forget that I haven't worn this coat for three months."

"Listen, big boy, I wouldn't marry you if you were the last man in on earth."
"Baby, if I were the last man on earth I wouldn't have to get married."

"You look flustered, man."
"I am. My girl threw me down."
"You should worry; there's plenty more."
"Yeah, but this one threw me down that cliff."

Say Libby Can Set Will Aside

Salisbury lawyers, in commenting to a Watchman reporter, expressed doubts as to the validity of the Smith Reynolds will, filed for probate in New York, and listed six major reasons.

The young tobacco heir was killed at the Reynolds family estate in Winston-Salem July 6. His Broadway bride, Libby Holman Reynolds, and friend, Ab Walker, are charged with murdering him.

Lawyers Give Reasons
Reason given by attorneys for doubting the validity of the will are:

1. North Carolina statutes do not permit a minor to make a valid will. Reynolds was under 21 when he made the will.

2. Provisions of the will of R. J. Reynolds, founder of the estate provide his son would not inherit from him until he was 28 years old. He was to receive only $50,000 a year until then.

3. Reynolds married Libby Holman after the will was drawn up. Under North Carolina law the wife may disaffirm the will and inherit as if no will was made—which provides the wife in any event must receive one-third her husband's real and personal property.

4. Corpus of the estate lies in North Carolina, Maryland and New Jersey, and the estate must be disposed of according to the laws of those States.

5. Doubt as to legality of Anne Cannon's (Reynolds' first wife) signing away her infant daughter's claim to her father's estate.

6. Doubt as to the success of the attempt in the will to establish that Smith Reynolds was a legal resident of New York instead of North Carolina.

Also it was pointed out that if Libby Holman has a child within ten months of the death of Smith Reynolds, the will would be invalid, as the will would tend, in effect, to disinherit that child.

If Walker or Libby are convicted of anything in connection with Reynolds' death, they cannot inherit, under North Carolina law, even though Walker is specially mentioned, attorneys said.

Some lawyers said Miss Holman was entitled to a dower third under North Carolina law. They said her expected child, and Reynolds' daughter by a previous marriage, might share in the fund.

The will was executed August 31, 1931, and listed Reynolds as a New York resident. At that time the tobacco heir, who was planning an airplane trip around the world, had a cottage near Miss Holman's Port Washington (L. I.) home. They were married the following November.
