Building Is Increasing

Activity Shows Gains In South

Contracts totaling $19,472,00 were awarded in southern states during the first month of 1933 for building engineering, and construction projects, figures compiled and released by The Manufacturers' Record show.

These figures cover only those jobs for which figures are available and exclude hundreds of residential projects involving an expenditure of less than $10,000 each.

However, the total compares with $18,287,000 for January, 1932, and with $17,604,000 in February of last year. The valuation of projected new construction and building jobs last month a mounted to $65,302,000 as compared with $39,020,000 January
