Buried Gold Reaches Bank In Old Hat

Somerset, Pa.—A man walked into a bank here carrying an old hat, which appeared to be filled with something heavy. He laid his load on the counter and said: "I want to deposit some money."

The contents of the hat were emptied and when the banker had finished counting he had piles of gold coins aggregating over $2,000 in value.

The gold pieces had lost their polish as if they had been buried in the ground.

The man admitted that the money had been buried in the ground under his home for seven years.

"Why did you change your mind?" He said: "On the way down I remembered I put $68 in the bank 5 years ago."
