

Co-eds War On Pretty Teachers

Bridgewater.—Forced to compete socially with their own attractive teachers, the fair co-eds of the State Teachers' College here threw down the gauntlet and announced flatly that hereafter no one of their number will dance with any of the institution's male students.

This bolt from the blue came as a result of a dance held by the male students. There are only about 100 men students and 500 girl students in the school. As a result, the girls feel that they have a genuine problem to meet in the matter of getting boys to dance with.

This problem has been met before by various devices, with the co-operation of the boys. But some of the boys startled and shocked the entire institution by inviting some of the very pretty young women teachers.

This bringing the faculty into direct competition with the girls has caused what amounts almost to a furor. The girls state that they can't be too drastic in their reprisals because they fear their marks in school may be affected.

But they can't let the boys get away with it. So they have announced that hereafter they will invite none of the male students to the co-ed dances. The next dance they run there will be no male students admitted. All the men present will be recruited from the outside.

The fact that the dean of women, Miss S. Elizabeth Hope, has only just recently abolished her blacklist of town boys makes this possible for the first time, and may result in a considerable battle between the boys of the school and the boys of Bridgewater.

The blacklist was an arbitrary roll of names of boys outside the school whom the dean of women did not consider proper dancing partners for the girls. At each dance to which they have previously been admitted she carefully surveyed them; and those whom she did not care for she banned. A baseball player, it was stated, "No. 1" on the list.

Now this list is done away with, and the girls may invite whom they please from outside the school.

The men students are maintaining silence, awaiting developments. The atmosphere would appear to be slightly strained.

Anything—almost anything—may happen in the social life of the State Teachers' College from now on.

To Spend Huge Amount On Ads

$2,125,000 Will Be Expended To Advance Cotton Goods Before May Fifteenth

The Cotton Textile institute announced that approximately $2,125,000 will be spent in advertising cotton merchandise before and during National Cotton Week, May 15 to 20.

George A. Sloan, president of the institute, said most of this amount will be expended for newspaper space. He said a survey indicated fully 82,000,000 lines of copy, as complete pages or in half and quarter page sections, will be used by retail merchants in centering the advertising spotlight on cotton and cotton products.

In addition, he said 173 miles of window fronts will be filled with cotton displays.

Sloan stated the number of cotton bales processed in manufacturing establishments of the United States the first quarter of this year was in excess of the number for the same period of 1932 or 1931.

WOMEN MANAGE KITCHEN IN LARGE NEW YORK HOTEL

Experiment with Woman Chef and Cooks Proves Successful at Lexington — (Inset) Manager Charles E. Rochester, Who Had a Modern Idea.

ONE of New York's large hotels has introduced an idea that seems so obvious and is proving so successful that the natural question is being heard, "Why hasn't someone thought of that before?"

It's a woman chef presiding over the kitchens and menus, with a staff of women cooks and assistants, at the Hotel Lexington, one of the hotels under Ralph Hitz direction. Not satisfied with the modern idea carried out in the construction and furnishings, Manager Charles E. Rochester had some modern ideas in management he wanted to try out, and this one is attracting attention.

Woman's place in the kitchen has never been disputed. She knows food and its preparation so well that the height of praise and comparison has always been, "As good as mother used to make," or "Just like home-made."

Miss Charlotte Field, a well known diet expert, is the only woman chef in any large New York hotel. All of her assistants at the Lexington are also women cooks.

More than the ability to get the best quality out of food, the women seem to grasp the idea of kitchen economy, says Mr. Rochester, and they show rare efficiency in planning the service of meals. For instance, although she may serve a thousand guests a day, the chef prepares perhaps a half-dozen small roasts every ten minutes, so that each order when served has been freshly prepared and proves it by its flavor. Only one day's food supply is purchased. Nothing is carried over from day to day.

Miss Field insists upon Grade A milk and newly-laid eggs, specially tested butter and fresh dated coffee. The result is a cuisine that upholds the reputation of women as the finest American cooks.

Reasons Why They Get Fired

Tardiness, dishonesty, lack of courtesy, poor English poor spelling, lack of ability to operate office machines, and disloyalty, are listed as some of the main reasons for the firing of employees by firms throughout the country, to say nothing of plain, ordinary, everyday carelessness, according to a survey recently made by H. Chandler Hunt, assistant principal of the Meriden High School, Meriden, Conn., and a graduate student in Boston University's School of Education.

Business may be poor in many sections of the United States according to Hunt, but he found that an average of 4000 employees of large firms are discharged yearly, and what is more interesting their places taken by others, showing that the depression is not the only reason why many men are losing their jobs at a time when they need them most.

"The lack of proper character traits, and not lack of specific skill, is responsible for both the firing and lack of advancement," Hunt declared. "About 90 per cent of the causes for termination of employment are in character traits, while only 10 per cent are for lack of skill. The ratio is slightly less for lack of advancement, where undesirable character accounts for something over 75 per cent, with nearly 25 per cent making for lack of advancement because of a handicap of specific skill."

Hunt found that tardiness, dishonesty and lack of courtesy were the main causes of men losing their jobs in the financial and insurance groups, while in the publishing business, poor English led the list. Various causes were responsible for the firing of employees in the automobile industry, Hunt finding that the reasons for the most part were poor spelling, lack of ability to handle office machinery and disloyalty.

Falling In Love Urged As Cure For Egoism

Philadelphia.—Falling in love is suggested by Dr. James H. Leuba, professor of psychology at Bryn Mawr College, as a "powerful way of rescuing the neurosthenic and sufferers from the disease of egoism." He said:

"Being in love is the most powerful motive in man. But loving and being loved are two different things."

He told of one woman who regarded herself as an incurable sufferer from fatigue, headaches and irritability, being transformed into a different person—gay, active and happy—by arousing in her a new central interest, the welfare of her family.

Dr. Miles' NERVINE
"Did the work" says Miss Glivar
WHY DON'T YOU TRY IT?

After more than three months of suffering from a nervous ailment, Miss Glivar used Dr. Miles' Nervine which gave her such splendid results that she wrote us an enthusiastic letter.

If you suffer from "Nerves." If you lie awake nights, start at sudden noises, tire easily, are cranky, blue and fidgety, your nerves are probably out of order.

Quiet and relax them with the same medicine that "did the work" for this Colorado girl.

Whether your "Nerves" have troubled you for hours or for years, you'll find this time-tested remedy effective.

At Drug Stores 25c and $1.00.

Got Over Weak, Painful Condition By Taking Cardui

"I was weak and run-down and suffered quite a bit with pains in my side," writes Mrs. Nick Baranco, of Beaumont, Texas. "I was nervous. I did not rest well at night, and my appetite was poor."

"My mother had used Cardui with beneficial result, so I decided to take it. I surely am glad I did, for it stopped the pain in my side and built up my general health. I took seven bottles in all."

"For over 50 years, Cardui has been helping women just as this Texas lady describes above. Cardui is sold at all drug stores."

VETS STATEMENT IS CONFIRMED

Petersburg, Va.—General Homer Atkinson, commander of the United Confederate veterans, has confirmed the statement of Chief of Staff Henry Rene Lee, Nashville, Tenn., that no veterans' reunion likely will be held this year. Depressed financial conditions have made a 1933 reunion virtually impossible, Gen. Atkinson said, "but we will meet in 1934, I'm sure of that."

HOOVER VOTER ABUSED

Washington.—Walter L. Powell abused his wife, "refused to treat her as a wife and lived in a different part of the house" after she voted for re-election of Herbert Hoover for President, Mrs. Powell charged in a suit for divorce.
