

Where And How Loans Are Made Under The New Federal Emergency Farm Mortgage Act

In the first two days after the passage of the Federal Emergency Farm Mortgage Act, applications for relief were received from 1,269 farmers. Most of these applications were sent to Washington, indicating that few farmers know where the Federal Land Banks for their districts are located.

There are twelve of these banks, and in connection with each of them a Loan Commissioner to operate under the new law has been appointed. These new loans are made to refinance farm indebtedness, provide working capital for farm operations and to aid in the redemption of foreclosed farms. They are not, primarily, made for the purpose of refinancing farm mortgages. That is to be done through the Federal Land Banks working in connection with the present holders of first mortgages.

There Are Loans Limits
Loans under the new law are limited to $5,000 to any one farmer. The amount that may be loaned, added to existing mortgages or other debts secured by the farm property cannot be more than sufficient to bring the total debt up to three-quarters of the appraised value of the property. These are second mortgage loans, repayable over a series of years and an agreement has to be obtained from the holder of the first mortgage that he will not proceed against the farmer for failure to pay the principal of the first mortgage.

Applications for loans under the new law should go to the Federal Land Banks for the district in which the farm is located. These districts are:

- First District; Springfield, Mass. Serves the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York and New Jersey. Charles Windholz, Commissioner's agent.
- Second District; Baltimore, Md. For Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, and the District of Columbia. George Stevenson, agent.
- Third District; Columbia, S. C. For North and South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida. Henry S. Johnson, agent.

First Farm Loan to Illinois Farmer

Fourth District; Louisville, Ky. For Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee. Agent not yet appointed; address simply "Federal Land Bank, Louisville."

Fifth District; New Orleans, La. For Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana. William L. Pryor, agent.

Sixth District; St. Louis, Mo. For Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas. Ernest J. Bodman, agent.

Seventh District; St. Paul, Minn. For Michigan, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Minnesota. Jerry P. Riordan, agent.

Eighth District; Omaha, Neb. For Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming. Bert Waddell, agent.

Ninth District; Wichita, Kansas. For Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico. Graves Shull, agent.

Tenth District; Houston, Texas. For the state of Texas alone. A. P. Graves, agent.

Eleventh District; Berkeley, Calif. For California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona. William H. Woolf, agent.

Twelfth District; Spokane, Wash. For Washington, Oregon, Idaho

Salisbury Play Captures Prize

"Sacrifice," a play built on the experience of immigrants to this county on their arrival at Ellis Island, written and produced by a Salisbury group, won first honors over Charlotte players at the spring one-act competition at the Little Theater in Charlotte.

The play, written by Mrs. Arnold Snyder of Salisbury, won the $10 cash prize in the opinions of three judges, but the second of the three-act program, "Hurricane," written by Mrs. Wayne Thomas, won the popular vote of the Little Theater audience.

The play program closed the Little Theater program for 1932-33 season, under the leadership of Mrs. Francis O. Clarkson. The director, Thomas B. Humble, will leave for Texas, where he will visit relatives before going to Hollywood, Cal., to act as a director in motion pictures.

The cast of the play that won the prize was as follows: Rachel, Margaret Jackson; Miriam, Olive Spencer; Ivan Petrovitch, Spencer Murphy; Jacob, Max Barker; Anna Solomon, Geneva Hartman; Samuel Solomon, Raymond Jenkins; Hager, Sara Rose West. The play was produced by Mrs. Robert West, and properties were by Miss Doris Howell.

The first play of the evening's program was "By the Light of the Moon" by Joe Abrams. Judges were Miss Ethel King of Queens-Chicago college; Miss Ethel Rea of Central high school, and Professor Etemann of Davidson college.

GRANTS 217 REPRIEVES

Baton Rouge, La.—Gov. O. K. Allen has issued indefinite reprieves to 217 state prisoners and granted clemency to 43 others, whose alleged offenses ranged from contempt of court to murder. The governor refused to comment on his action. It was understood to be an economy move. The state prison board was said to have recommended the clemency in all cases.

Southerner Pays Off Debt Of Lincoln Estate

Detroit.—The estate of Abraham Lincoln, on which $5.45 has been owing all these years down in Sangamon county, Ill., has been settled, and it took a southerner by birth to do it. Having read of the discovery by Lewis E. Bird, clerk of probate court in Springfield, Ill., that only $25 of the $30.45 court costs in settlement of the estate had been paid, Hubert L. Williams of Detroit sent a money order to cover the long-standing claim. "I'm no relative of Abe's," Williams explained. "I just felt sorry for the old boy, and I know that no damn yankee would take it on himself to do it." "I was born in Richmond, Va.," Williams continued, "and my kin were all rebs. But, when I read that piece in the paper, I just remembered what an awful beating the south got when the north won the Civil war, and just to show there's no hard feelings, I figured I'd better do what you yanks never got around to doing." Williams, an engineer for the Chevrolet Motor Company, said he is the son of John Skelton Williams of Richmond, comptroller of the currency under President Wilson.
