

Millions Now Being Spent In Recovery Campaign

Every City and Hamlet Helps In War Against Depression.

NRA MAKING BIG SURVEY

Records Show Exact Results of Administration Program.

Brightly dressed store windows, inviting advertisements and well displayed products are evidences seen throughout the nation of the beginning of the "buy now" campaign under way in a mighty effort by government and business to stimulate buying to support the recovery campaign.

Every city, town and hamlet in the country is co-operating under the leadership of Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, in the effort to put the consumer's dollar to work against the depression.

At the end of the first week of the campaign reports from widely scattered sections show the spending of millions of dollars.

Meanwhile, at the direction of President Roosevelt, the recovery administration is making a survey which will show just what are the results of the administration's efforts to increase wages and shorten hours of labor—and thus increase employment—through industrial codes.

Questionnaires have been sent to more than 3,000,000 employers asking them just how much their business has increased and how many workers they have added to their payrolls. The returns will be assembled and tabulated by the census bureau, and then the administration will have its first official tabulation of the results of the war which it began last March against the forces of the depression.

The American Federation of Labor and the Department of Labor estimate that somewhere around 2,000,000 persons have returned to work since March. Government officials think the total may be increased to 3,000,000 and possibly 4,000,000 because the survey now being made will include thousands of employers who have made no previous reports.

Kelly Is Now In Leavenworth

Leavenworth Kas.—George (Machine Gun) Kelly convicted kidnaper is now behind the high walls of Leavenworth federal penitentiary from which he declared he would soon escape.

The associate of Harvey Bailey and Albert Bates, who preceded him to the prison with similar life sentences for the $200,000 ransom abduction of Charles F. Urschel, made his boast at Kansas City. In the train yards there the armored, window-barred coach which brought him from Oklahoma City was transferred to another locomotive for the short run to the prison. Numerous guards were scattered through the yards and union station.

It was in front of the Kansas City union station that four officers and their convict-prisoner, Frank Nash, were slain last June 17, as Nash was being transferred from a train to motor car to be returned to Leavenworth.

Pecan Twig Girdler May Cause Damage

Pecan twig girdlers, most serious pest of pecan trees in North Carolina, are again about their deadly work in pecan groves and in trees planted about homesteads in the State.

The insect is rarely seen but its damage is all too evident. It gnaws about the twig, lays eggs in the soft bark and later the twigs break away from the parent limb through the action of the wind or from its own weight.

"Only the female cuts the twig but both sexes feed upon the tender bark and wood of the tips of the branches," says C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at State College. "The branches are cut by the female to provide suitable conditions for the development of the young larvae. These are unable to exist on wood containing sap. The eggs usually hatch in about three weeks and the winter is spent in the larval state in the twig."

Brannon says the beetle causing the damage is about one-half inch in length. He says about the only way to control the pest is to gather up all the cut branches, including those lodged in the trees, and burn them this fall and winter. Most of the damage is done in late August and through September though the operations of the beetle may continue until cold weather.

To secure effective control, says whole communities should unite in destroying the fallen pecan twigs. In this way all the eggs and larvae which would develop into other beetles next season will be wiped out. The insects also attack persimmon and hickory trees and it might be wise to gather the twigs from these especially where they are near pecan groves, Brannon says.

Give Thought To Halloween

Revival of the old-fashioned barn dance is catching on throughout the country just as another Halloween night of frolic makes its appearance on the calendar. . . . The vogue started in the Hollywood movie colony. Here are shown John Gilbert and his wife, formerly Virginia Bruce, as they were photographed at a recent barn dance party.
