Furloughs End For Postal Men

Payless Vacations No Longer Required, Postmaster General Announces.

Coming close behind return of five per cent of the total of 15 per cent pay cut received by postal employees, the employees at the Salisbury postoffice have been given the news that they would no longer be required to take payless furloughs of four days each month, the form in which the latest salary decrease was put into effect.

The furloughs were to have been continued until the last of June, the close of the fiscal year. In making announcement of the elimination of the payless furlough, Postmaster General James A. Farley declared the move had been made possible by the very substantial increase in business.

The announcement was also made by the postmaster general that very substantial improvements by increasing the number of deliveries have been made possible by the increase in the volume of postal business.

In the near future deliveries in residential sections will be made twice daily, in business districts three and four times daily, and in mixed business and residential districts three times daily.

"The increase in volume of mail," he said, "is regarded as an accurate barometer of improved business conditions throughout the country, which, I am confident, will bring much satisfaction to the people generally."

Roach Is Named To Succeed Pou

Raleigh—The North Carolina Highway and Public Works commission named Jack Roach of Statesville to head its prison division.

Roach succeeds George Ross Pou, whose formal resignation was accepted. Pou quit the post to enter the race for congress from the fourth district to succeed his late father, Representative Edward W. Pou, dean of the house, who died April 1.

No successor was named to Roach, who served under Pou as assistant head of the prison division. Roach's former duties will be apportioned to prison inspectors.

What Is On Your Table?

Every housewife is, no doubt, interested in what goes on the table at meal time. It isn't easy to decide always just what should be served at every meal. When one member of a family wants one variety of food another desiring something else makes it difficult for the one who does the planning to know just what to serve. Then, too, one naturally has to take into consideration a variety of foods which are properly balanced.

A great deal of thought has been given to the proper balancing of food—still, on many tables, may be found food entirely suitable for grown people, but wholly unsuited for children, although children may be expected to partake of the food just as though it had been prepared especially for them.

A very important thing in the life of a growing child is to have a well rounded-out diet, one which builds bone and muscle, and, of course, in selecting the proper food for the entire family, especially where the family is composed of growing children as well as grown-ups, and off times elderly people, makes the problem more difficult. Another thing to remember in the selection of food is to see that all foods selected are fresh and of good quality. This part of the task may be solved without any difficulties what-so-ever, just phone No. 34 and tell Ray what you want and in almost no time the order will be filled and every part of it will be of the very best the market affords. Ray Ketner's Cash Market has a reputation of always having the best. Quality is a paramount thought with Ray. He carries a full line of fresh vegetables, meats and standard brands of canned goods; in fact, everything one could desire to set a table fit for a King.

Ray Ketner's Cash Market has been located at 109-111 E. Fisher Street three years, and during that time, the business has grown to where it takes, sometimes, eight people to wait on the ever growing number of customers and promptly fill the orders.

Ray has a way about him which makes friends and customers. It is a pleasure to go into his store. Immediately one recognizes the fact that to trade where all the employees are nice and courteous and with everything fresh and orderly stocked is about the most desirable place one could hope to find in which to buy groceries. After all, even though, one is satisfied that everything is fresh and of the best quality, "Service with a smile" is always appreciated. All one needs to do, if not a regular customer of Ray Ketner's Cash Market is to make one visit to the store or call phone No. 34 and be convinced.

Dying Order Of Woman To Kill Dog Stirs Town

Topeka, Kans.—A dog with a hero's record, a trunkload of blue ribbons and an Irish name has Topeka gripped in a debate over whether he shall live or die.

His mistress, Mrs. Rolla J. Parkins, left behind a request that he follow her in death. She feared the Airdale would fall into unsympathetic hands. A veterinarian, Dr. Charles W. Bower, is ready to chloroform him.

But hundreds of dog lovers have demanded that he be permitted to live. They point out that Pal O'Grasman is only six years old, too young to die. They also insist he is too fine a dog to die.

Once when his mistress fainted in her hotel room, he restored her to consciousness by licking her face. He was cited for heroism. He carried away more than 100 blue ribbons in dog shows.

John Sweet, manager of the hotel where Mrs. Parker lived, feels certain the dog could be given a good home.

Getting Ready For Rental Payments

The adjustment of cotton reduction contracts to make the claims of past acreage and poundage conform to the known figures for the production in each county should be completed within the next few weeks, according to Dean I. O. Schaub of State College.

Efforts are being made to start the rental payments by the latter part of April, so that the money may be available to the farmers for use in the cultivation of the present crop.

The checks will be sent out from Washington, headquarters of the AAA, as fast as the revised contracts are accepted.
