

New Style Train Makes Record Run

First Sunrise to Sunset Non-Stop Run Finished

Chicago—Ending the first sunrise to sunset non-stop run in American railroad history, the Zephyr of the Burlington railroad swept into Chicago at 7:09 P. M. (CST) Saturday night at 96 miles an hour.

The rushing little stainless steel train more than doubled the proud record of Britain's Royal Scot for non-stop runs, its own record for short run speed and set a new American mark for sustained high speed.

It had traveled from Denver to Chicago without stopping, a distance of 1,015.4 miles, in 13 hours 15 minutes, between sunrise in the Colorado capital and sunset in Chicago.

The Royal Scot's record of 56 miles an hour for 401 miles was replaced by a new mark of 77.5 for the 1,011.1 miles.

The Zephyr sped 96.3 miles at a sustained velocity of 90 miles and had reached a peak speed of 112.5 miles per hour which it held for three miles, beating its own previous mark by three miles.

The 660 horsepower, Diesel motor pushed the modernistic train along, the better than thirteen hours between the breaking of a timer's tape at Denver union terminal and a similar one at Halsted street station here without a miss.

Consistently the three coach train which weighs less than 100 tons, had accepted race challenges from airplanes and beaten them.

It was said, President Ralph Budd of the Burlington, a great day in American rail history.

Every inch of the long route was policed. Every highway and country lane was roped off to give Zephyr the clearest right of way an American train ever had.

The trip, said President Budd, demonstrated three things: "That the morale of the men and officers of the Burlington is proved by the way the run has been planned and carried out, second, the efficient condition of the railroad has been shown, third that the train performs fully up to expectations."

Uncounted thousands of persons lined the right of way as the Zephyr sped across eastern Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois.

The crowds were in evidence until the new style train breezed into its stall at the wings of a century building on the grounds of a Century of Progress where it will be an exhibit forecasting improvement of American railroads during the coming 100 years.

Feels a Lot Better When Black-Draught Relieves Constipation
From many states come reports like the following from Mr. W. M. Henderson, of Jasper, Fla: "I have been taking Thedford's Black-Draught twenty years. I take it for constipation that gives me a dull, tired, aching feeling, and I have headache, too. Black-Draught relieves me of this trouble. After a few doses, I feel as good as new. I keep it in my home. I have a big family. When one of us is ailing (from constipation), we take Black-Draught and almost always feel a lot better. It has been worth its weight in gold to my family" . . . Sold in 25¢ packages. "Children like the Syrup."

Many people say they are tired of living, and after they are dead a million years, they'll be tired of that.

Stepping on the gas may be all right for our hours of recreation, but we also need stepping on the spade in the back garden.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

The Tomato
What article of food has enjoyed a more phenomenal rise in popularity than the tomato? And from all accounts it is a most deserving ascendency. By all means encourage it, both in your own diet and for the children. Consider these values. The tomato is a rich source of vitamins—A, B, and C.

It is economical and available all the year. Like the orange, its reaction in the body is alkaline, and so it tends to correct acid conditions. In fact, physicians are finding many uses for the tomato in special diets. For some persons it acts as roughage and therefore laxative.

Tomato juice and stewed tomatoes in a mason jar are excellent additions to the school lunch box. Moreover, tomato juice and milk are wholly compatible; that is, they can be taken together at the same meal. And fortunately most children like the tomato, for it lends itself well to many pleasing and tasty dishes.

The first line against disease in the daily morning inspection, says Dr. Ireland in his next article.
