

Sunday Night Storm Does Much Damage

A terrific wind, rain and electric storm here Sunday night about 7:30 o'clock did large damage to Salisbury and vicinity.

Lightning struck the Park Avenue Methodist church where a young people's meeting was in progress, and after tearing away a section of the roof, ripped through the auditorium and to the basement, rendering unconscious Misses Helen Hall and Maxine Doby. Both were revived in a short time.

The homes of J. W. Kesler of this city, D. L. Parker of Spencer, C. W. Crowell of East Spencer, and J. B. Beck of near the city were struck, chimneys being damaged and sections of the roof being ruined, but no persons were hurt. Numerous trees were struck and broken by the lightning and wind.

Crops were badly washed in some sections, and tall corn was blown down, but, as a whole, the rains were beneficial as crops needed a soaking rain. The total rainfall was 2.10 inches, or more than fell during the entire month of June.

Lightning ran in on a switch at the Klumac cotton mill, sparks jumped from the connection and ignited cotton. The sprinkler system, flooding the place, and water, running into the basement damaged rayon stored there to an estimated extent of $8,000. A barn on C. A. Goodman's place in Steele township was burned, but horses and mules were saved.

R. J. Everest, district manager of the Southern Public Utilities company here, narrowly escaped death by electrocution while attempting to warn others of dangers following the shattering of an electric light pole by lightning.

While near Woodleaf, Mr. Everest heard and saw lightning crash into a key pole and shatter it, throwing high voltage wires across the road behind him. He turned his car so that it would block the highway, left lights burning as a warning, and started towards the other end of the danger zone to establish warning signals for anyone who might come along the road.

By aid of his flashlight, he noted the wires on the ground and thought he had all accounted for. As he was proceeding along, his head bumped into another wire sagging from some poles brought down by the falling wires, a hole was burned into his hat, he was stunned for a few moments, and slight burns suffered on the ear and neck.

He fell away from the wire, which carried 4,400 volts, and soon regained his senses, with no more harm being suffered.

Tar Heels Drink Beer

Raleigh—Thirsty Tar Heels drank 45,101,875 10-ounce mugs of beer during the fiscal year ended June 30, or an average of 14 mugs for each man, woman and child in the state.

These figures were based on gallonage computed from state revenue receipts of $340,991 gained from the $3 tax on each 31-gallon barrel of the beverage and on the state's 1932 population of approximately 3,200,000 persons.

Dividing the total tax collections by $3 shows that North Carolina consumed 113,664 31-gallon barrels or 3,523,584 gallons of beer in the 12-month period. The total gallonage equals 41,108,752 ounces.

The cent-per-bottle tax on beer is not included in these figures.

Maxwell Rules On Slot Machine Law

Owners or operators of slot machines have no kick against the state of North Carolina, even though the state has licensed such machines, if they are seized as illegal gambling devices, Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell states, citing a portion of the revenue act, as follows:

"Upon application being made for a license to operate any machine or apparatus under this section, the commissioner of revenue is hereby authorized to presume that the operator of such machine or apparatus is lawful, and when a license has been issued for the operation thereof, the sum paid for such state license shall not be refunded, notwithstanding that the operation of such machine or apparatus shall afterwards be prohibited."

Black-Draught Good For Biliousness and Bad Taste in Mouth

"I have found Theford's Black-Draught so good for biliousness, bad taste in the mouth and other disagreeable feelings due to constipation," writes Mrs. Mary Garner, of Burleson, Texas. "My mother used it for a number of years and we do not think there is a better medicine. I was pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I sent for it and gave it to my children (as a laxative) for colds and when they felt bad. Soon they felt fine."... SEES NEED FOR OSTRACISM OF BOOTLEGGER

Washington—Joseph H. Cheate, Jr., looking back on the reborn liquor industry's first half year under government supervision, found the crying need to be social ostracism of the bootlegger.

"The greatest weapon against him is public opinion," said the director of the alcohol control administration.

"During prohibition people thought that in buying liquor they were sustaining a man who was fighting a law they thought tyrannical—now that is all out. It takes public opinion some time to get around to the point where a man's friends frown on him for buying from the bootlegger, we shall get on fast.

"I think we should mobilize the profit motive of the legitimate industry against the illegitimate. Instead of doing anything to drive a legitimate man out of business and make it hard for him, I think we should encourage him, because he will give the service that the bootlegger lives by doing.

"He will have a direct personal interest in finding the bootlegger and getting him suppressed by the authorities and he will have a direct personal interest in getting his prices down and his quality up so as to beat the bootlegger."

Unemployment Less

New York—Unemployed workers in the United States in May numbered 7,899,000, a decrease of 6 per cent from the preceding month and 40.2 per cent under the peak month of March, 1933, the national industrial conference board estimated.
