

Club Short Course Was Well Attended

The 500 4-H boys and girls who attended the annual short course at State College last week are back in their homes telling their friends of the good times they had and the things they learned.

The delegates at the short course were selected from the various clubs over the State for their outstanding records in club projects and their potentialities for leadership.

The fundamental purpose of the short course was not only to train the delegates in the essentials of a fuller rural life, but also to train them to go back home and share their benefits with their fellow club members, said L. R. Harrill and Miss Ruth Current, club leaders at State College.

Special attention was given the work of making the program interesting and entertaining. Club leaders sought to make a more vivid impression on the young people's minds by keeping them on the alert.

Classes and lectures were based on problems uppermost in the club members' minds. The lessons studied were of the kind they can put into practice during the coming years. Of particular significance were the demonstrations showing efficient and effective ways to go about different tasks.

Many of the entertainments were of an instructive nature. The play by the Gaston county group Friday night depicted the beginning and development of 4-H club work in North Carolina. Tours about the capital buildings gave the boys and girls a new conception of their State government. The games tended to develop a spirit of co-operation and comradeship and to bring out the ability to lead others in social and group activities.

Before leaving for their homes, many of the club members expressed regret that the short course could not last longer and hope that they may be among those to attend next year.

It is claimed that the crooks of this country get several billions every year, but they don't get much chance to spend it in jail.

It's a fine thing to present an editor with a nice new chair, but a bigger wastebasket might meet his needs still better.

The list of marriages is referred to by some sour pessimists, as the casualty list.

In spite of the stringent regulations against foreign immigration, residents of New York city are still allowed to enter the United States.

The American people say that if the taxes don't come down pretty soon, the political axes will, on somebody's neck.

The boys don't seem to want to be dirt farmers, but the parents say they are dirt boys all right when they come in from play.

The excitement over our attempts to bring Admiral Byrd back to Little America by tractor has caused a great rush of new members to join our club. If you haven't joined yet send a clearly self-addressed, stamped envelope to me at the American headquarters. Address Arthur Abele, Jr., President, Little America Aviation and Exploration Club, Hotel Lexington, 48th Street and Lexington Avenue, New York City. Membership is entirely free and you will be sent a beautiful big working map of the South Polar regions and a membership card with out cost.

DOG TROUBLES!

LITTLE AMERICA, ANTARCTICA, August 7 (via Mackay Radio).—Now that the excitement about the tractor trip which failed to bring Admiral Byrd back to us has given way to the details of another attempt, our life here has once more resumed its normal routine. In spite of the great amount of automotive equipment we have, we are seriously concerned over our loss of dog power. After all, the dogs are still a most important part of our transportation set-up, and, during the past few months, we have lost 40 dogs. Some of these died from natural causes. Some prove an interesting experiment for such eminent scientists. So the scientists are now raising the pup in truly scientific fashion. Its feeding schedule is pasted on its box. Alongside is a set of scales on which it is weighed each day. Photographs are taken of it daily to show its progress and its food is measured and weighed to a fraction of an ounce. This pup, Orphan Annie, is now the pride of the scientific department and will probably wind up with a superiority complex.

Toby—who went AWOL were lost overboard from the flagship Jacob Ruppert on the way down here. One broke away, wandered off and, we were unable to find him.

Our few litters of new pups are being very carefully reared, some even by hand. Commander Noville and Capt. Innes-Taylor adopted two puppies which had been deserted by their mother. These were raised on the bottle and are now growing rapidly. However, they are still living in the little hut with the two foster fathers. Recently, of another litter of eight, only one survived. This one was brought in and left with Capt. Innes-Taylor and Commander Noville. They objected strongly and concocted a diabolical scheme. That night they placed the newly born pup in a box, hung a nursing bottle on the box and stole into the science laboratory where they left it on the desk of Dr. Charles G. Morgan, our leading geologist, from Tulsa, Okla. The next day there was a furious argument between the scientists and the two culprits. The latter were accused of abandonment. They replied that the raising of the puppy should

LOCAL LEADERS IN SOUTH-WIDE MOVEMENT TO ENCOURAGE PURCHASE OF HOME GOODS

Nitrate of Soda Question Creates Strong Interest; Leading Southerners Are United

Scores of prominent men and women in North Carolina have announced their support of the sweeping movement to encourage the purchase of the products of Southern industry by Southerners, whenever it can be done with no sacrifice as to cost or quality. With similar sentiments having been expressed by leaders in other States, the South now presents a solid front on this subject.

Recent discussions on this question were prompted by the disclosure that very few Southern farmers care whether they buy domestic or imported goods, with nitrate of soda being the particular commodity under consideration.

A great many Southern leaders have gone on record as feeling that every effort should be made to educate the South's farmers on this point for their own economic welfare.

"When Southern manufacturers of nitrate of soda make as good quality of merchandise as the manufacturers in other countries can produce, our Southern farmers should purchase southern made products," says N. O. Bartlett, Secretary of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, Kinston, adding, "We hope they will learn more and more to patronize our Southern manufacturers of nitrate of soda."

"Most Southern products have equal merit with those manufactured elsewhere" is the opinion of Fred L. Weede, Manager of the Asheville Chamber of Commerce. The Rotary Club of High Point is another organization of the opinion that all things being equal, Southerners should buy Southern products, according to Secretary W. C. Iddel. "The development of a strong nitrate industry in the South would minister to our economic well-being," reports W. G. Gaston, Executive Secretary of the Gastonia Chamber of Commerce.

Public officials who share the sentiments include W. F. Calhoun, Mayor of the City of Durham; D. W. Newsom, Durham County Manager who says, "We cannot afford to give our business to foreign people at the expense of our dependents."

Other prominent North Carolina citizens endorsing the movement include T. Windgate Andrews, Superintendent of Schools, High Point; R. W. Allen, Superintendent of Education in Anson County; J. W. Medford of the Oxford National Bank; Representative R. P. Bander of Pollockville; J. G. Morrison of the Lincoln County Mutual Exchange; C. W. Hollowbush of Wilmington, President of the Greater Ten Counties Fair; Representative H. H. Leake, of King; Mrs. L. B. Dula, Wilkesboro clubwoman; Miss Anamerie Arant, Alamance County Home Demonstration Agent; H. L. Joslyn, Superintendent of the Morehead City Graded School; G. C. Davidson, Superintendent of Schools, Roxboro; M. S. Beam, Superintendent of Schools, Albemarle.

In other Southern States, an equally strong feeling has been disclosed and even experienced observers of public opinion have been surprised at the widespread interest in the subject. Bankers, public officials, editors, clubwomen, prominent farmers and farm authorities, merchants and members of business and fraternal organizations fill the long list of names of those who feel that the farmer can contribute to his own economic welfare by purchasing the products of Southern industry, with nitrate of soda being a typical commodity. Many economists state that if the people of the South, and especially the farmers, heed this call for action on the part of the leaders of the South, the South's day of economic prosperity will be hastened.

1,230 Colored Lawyers In U. S.

Research conducted by the school of law of Howard University has indicated one colored lawyer for 9,667 of colored population, or 1,230 colored lawyers in the United States, as contrasted with 159,375 white attorneys. While colored population is approximately one-tenth in this country, the colored lawyers represents but .007 of that profession.

There is a white lawyer for each 695 white Americans. There are 2,799 white lawyers in Georgia, and only 14 colored lawyers although colored population there is more than 1,000,000. It is calculated that this State has one colored lawyer to every 76,509 of colored population, and one white lawyer to every 655 of white population.

In Mississippi, where colored population is preponderant by approximately 9,000, and where more than 1,000,000 colored persons reside, there are six colored lawyers to 1,243 white lawyers, or one colored lawyer to every 168,286 of colored population, and to each 7,810 square miles, as contrasted with one white lawyer for every 804 of white population, and each 38.8 square miles.

Although more than 80 per cent of colored population is concentrated in the South, approximately 8,407,000, only 201 colored lawyers, or one-sixth of the total, are located in that section, allowing one colored lawyer to each 41,826 of colored population.

They Quit Advertising

You may have been here 40 years and everyone knows you are here, but do they think of you when they need merchandise? Likely they do not. Think of the fellow who is constantly after them reminding that he has the goods and service.

Here are some things that "have been here 40 years," until they quit advertising. Now they are either off the market entirely or sales are limited.

- Pears Soap.
- Pearlint
- Sapolio
- Silk Soap
- Sweet Caporalis
- Egg-O-See
- Lion Coffee
- Rubifoam
- Agri-Cola.

And, dear reader, how many really meritorious articles can you think of that are off the market today, or practically so, because they quit advertising even if they "had been here 40 years?"

And, if we wanted to be supercilious, we could mention the names of several local firms that have ceased to exist because they were "too well established to advertise."

The crooks may think they can avoid detection by getting their faces lifted, but that won't prevent their whole bodies from being lifted into the public hearse if they keep on as they have been going for the past few years.

The people have been complaining bitterly about the heat, but the thermometer is up around 100, they can console themselves with the thought that they don't have to lug in any wood, or split up any kindling in order to keep warm.

Urges Middle Course For Farming Progress

Adoption of an eventual middle course between rugged individualism and regimentation through co-operation among themselves and a sympathetic administration as a means of farm progress was urged by Frank H. Jeter, agricultural editor of State college and principal speaker at the annual picnic of the Rowan County Pomona Grange here Wednesday.

Mr. Jeter cited the benefits to agriculture through the aid of the present administration, saying that this county already had received more than $90,000 in rental payments by the government this year.

They are now talking about building houses without closets. In former days they would not have thought it possible to bring up junior, without some such place into which he could be retired and given an opportunity for reflection.

Our people are urged to relax, but they are being re-taxed so much that it is hard to follow that excellent advice.

Some people think Friday is an unlucky day, while others here in Salisbury say that any day which is not pay day is unlucky.

The speculators who used to think they got in "on the ground floor" frequently found themselves falling through into the cellar.

Seems to be a terrible shock to some folks, after they have bought goods, to learn they are expected to pay for them.

It is claimed the American people are the cleanest folks in the world, and possibly they are Saturday night.
