

Chevrolet Co. Is Given Big Order For Equipment

Chevrolet Motor company was awarded the largest order for automotive equipment ever placed by North Carolina, calling for the delivery of 450 bus chassis for use in school districts throughout the state. Chevrolet was the low bidder at $202,685. At the same joint session of the state division of purchases and the state school commission, at Raleigh, July 27, orders were awarded to various builders for 675 bus bodies, to cost $235,685. These bodies are to be mounted on Chevrolet chassis and on additional long wheelbase chassis to be purchased later, mounting 17 and 19-foot bodies.

The federal government recently granted North Carolina $182,000 for the purchase of transportation units for schools, and the state itself is providing $402,000.

Cannon Mills Get Contracts

It became known here that the Cannon Mills company with headquarters in Kannapolis and large plants in this city and Concord, has been awarded substantial contracts by the Federal Emergency Relief administration. Bed sheets towels and printed goods for covering comforts were included in contracts. It was also learned from authoritative source that the contracts mean additional employees will be put to work immediately in the Cannon plants in this section. Delivery of the goods will extend over the remainder of the calendar year, and while, of course, the orders will not cover the mills output, they represent a substantial portion of the awards just made by the FERA.

STRATOSPHERE FLIERS LAND

The two Belgian scientists who attempted to make a new record in their stratosphere observations were lost for 24 hours, having drifted 600 miles, made a landing without mishap and after failure to make a new altitude record. However, they claim information of values as scientific new data.

President Joins In Farewell To Rainey

Carrollton, Ill.—President Roosevelt, scores of national and state dignitaries and thousands of plain citizens joined Wednesday in an impressive though simple farewell to Speaker Henry T. Rainey. Following brief Episcopal services, attended by the President, at the Rainey country estate, "Walnut Hall," on the outskirts of Carrollton, the body was taken to the Carrollton cemetery and interred beside the bodies of Mr. Rainey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rainey. The President arrived from Washington aboard his special train at 3:35 p. m. (central standard time) and started his return trip to the capitol at 5:34 p. m. Funeral services conducted by Bishop John Canler White of the Episcopal diocese of Springfield, Ill., were held in the front parlor of the rambling red brick Rainey home. Only dignitaries, relatives and close personal friends of the family were admitted to the home, but thousands stood on the large lawn.

Boys Nabbed After 'Kidnaping' Driver

Statesville—Two amateur gangsters, who proved to be Statesville boys, hailed Neill Sherrill, 21, of Catawba for a ride Wednesday morning near Catawba, pulled a pistol on young Sherrill and forced him to drive them for three hours, covering parts of Catawba, Iredell and Alexander counties, finally leaving the car when the gasoline supply ran low on the Chipley Ford road, four miles north of Statesville. Sherrill, as soon as his captors released him, came to Statesville and notified city and county officers. Bloodhounds from Salisbury were brought into service, their trail showing that the holdup youths had headed back toward Statesville. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon the climax of the hunt was reached when the boys were captured. Walter Campbell, 18, was found asleep in a swamp, with his big pistol lying at his head. Rayford James, 16, was arrested half a mile north of where Campbell was caught. Campbell formerly spent some time at the Jackson Training school for store-breaking, but had been at home here recently. James had been charged with a theft, but was acquitted. Both boys admitted to officers that they held up Sherrill, who stopped at the intersection of Highways 10 and 10A and gave them a lift. Then Campbell held the gun on the driver, compelling him to drive over cross roads for three hours. Campbell told Sherrill he and James were from Chicago and "We are tough babies," threatening their captive that if he wanted to live he had better obey orders. Both Campbell and James are confined. Campbell is in the county jail and James in the city lock-up.

'Cullid' Boy Drops Melon And Flees From Nudists

Sumter, S. C.—That nudists do not confine themselves to their colonies is vouched for by a local filling station proprietor, who states that Tuesday morning a car drove up to and stopped at his station for gas. He at once went to serve his customers and was amazed when he got near to see four nude women and one nude man in the car. When the man started to get out the car, the station man warned him that he might be arrested, that he had better remain where he was. The nude traveler responded that they were merely "cooling off." After getting gas, the car drove across the street to where a wagon load of watermelons was standing and the driver told the negro boy to put one in the back. When the car door opened and the negro saw the nude women, he dropped the melon and ran.

Hospital For Dionne Babies Nearly Ready; Work Rushed

Callander, Ont.—Workmen have finished the foundation, walls and roof of the Defoe Hospital which will house the world-famous Dionne quintuplet girls this fall and winter. Thirteen men rushed the work on the remainder of the structure, seeking to complete it before chill weather affects the temperature of the babies' present abode, the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne. Scraps of wood and stone are being carried away as souvenirs by the many visitors to the birthplace of the famous children who have made medical history by living 86 days. Many of them pieces of the material used in construction of the hospital to the picture post cards sold by Oliver Dionne, aged grandfather and one of the guardians of the children.

Cannon Mills Deny Charges

Boston, Mass.—The Cannon Mills Company, which maintains mills in Concord, Kannapolis and Salisbury, N. C., and in York, S. C., filed a denial here of charges brought against the Cannon Mills Company, by the Royal Textile Company of this city which has brought a $75,000 suit against the North Carolina company. The Royal Textile Company charges that the Cannon Mills company interfered with the plaintiff's contract as selling agent for the Virginia Textile Mills, Inc., a Virginia corporation, and also for alleged unlawful appropriation of the plaintiff's numbers and names of and good will in certain tapestry designs. The Cannon Mills specifically denied attempting in any manner to induce the Virginia Mills, Inc., to repudiate any contract with the Royal Textile company. The defendant also denied that the company at any time unlawfully appropriated to its own use any numbers and names and good will belonging to the plaintiff.

GAIN IN BANK DEPOSITS

The comptroller of the currency at Washington reports a gain of $3,158,545,000 in bank deposits during the past twelve months. The fact that more than 500 banks re-opened during the year and that deposit insurance is operative are contributive factors to the increase.

Barringer's To Hold Reunion

The first annual reunion of the Barringer family will be held on Tuesday, August 28, at the schoolhouse at St. John's Lutheran church, near Mount Pleasant, on highway 74, six miles east of Concord, according to announcement made by C. P. Barringer, local attorney of this city. This family includes descendants of John Paul Barringer, of the once famous home, "Popular Grove," near Mount Pleasant, donor of the land and principal promoter of the first meeting house of the St. John's church. The following is the program for the occasion: Forenoon—Song, America. Invocation. Family History—W. M. Barringer, Statesville, Rev. B. A. Barringer, Salisbury. Address by Hon. R. L. Beautiful picnic grounds being opened up, but they don't stay beautiful long after the picnic parties use them. The picnic parties love the grassy spots, but after they get through they look like greasy ones.

Gives Outline Of Policies Of New Deal

(Continued from page one) own feet that it is more and more relieving the federal government of "responsibilities which under normal conditions belong to business." Striking the point of his major theme, Roper said the Roosevelt regime is "squarely behind" the principle of continuing the "profit motive" and believed in "just profits for management and capital and an equitable return to labor for its rightful rewards in the economic processes." "No thinking business man desires to have the old order restored," he said. "He does desire and is entitled to have the new order characterized by a better control against economic cataclysms and by the freedom to exercise his initiative in planning for the future of his business in the light of an equitable profit system."

Allen Resigns As Commission Head

Major Matt H. Allen, chairman of the state industrial commission since its organization in May, 1929, has resigned to enter the practice of law in Kinston, his home. Major Allen's resignation is to become effective on September 1, but he informed Governor Ehringhaus that while he would remain at his post until it was convenient for him to arrange for his successor, he wished to be relieved of his state post as soon as possible. The other two members J. Dewey Dorsett and T. A. Wilson, have both been reappointed, Commissioner Dorsett, who was named from Siler City as the representative of industry, being reappointed by Governor Gardner in 1931 for a term expiring in 1937, and Commissioner Wilson, named from Asheville as the representative of labor, being reappointed by Governor Ehringhaus for a term expiring in 1939.

CANADIAN RELEASED

John S. Labatt, wealthy Ontario brewer and Canada's first kidnap victim, is safe at home with police officials professing not to know whether ransom was paid for his release. Some source stated with emphasis that Labatt's abductors released him on the outskirts of Toronto without receiving a single cent of the $150,000 demanded. It was understood that Labatt said he was seized by two men and that he was kept blindfolded until he was released. He said he did not know where he had been taken, and that he did not know who his captors were. He said that the automobile ride preceding his release in Toronto lasted about six hours. It was Canada's first kidnaping. —Buy in Salisbury—

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

(Continued from page one) has come to the point of fearing rising prices may react unfavorably upon the Administration, particularly in foodstuffs and other things consumed by city folks. And there seems to be no escaping the certainty that such prices are on the way up. The AAA, on the other hand, is bent upon getting better prices for farm products; but since Nature took a hand in the shape of the greatest drought in American history, its administrators are not so keen about enforcing all of their plans for crop reduction. One definite result of the apparent continuous swing toward the "left" in the Administration is a further tightening up of private credit. Individuals and institutions with free capital are investing only in Government bonds or other low-interest sound securities, refusing to risk their capital in business or constructive enterprises until they get better assurances that they will be given a chance to make a profit by its use. The trend in the opposite direction which the Government has been trying to stimulate by its home-financing plan under the Housing Act has not yet set in. This may come, however, if the new silver program turns out to be the beginning of a real inflation of the currency. The nationalization of all silver bullion at 50 cents an ounce, and the Government's announcement that it will take silver from all over the world and that price and issue $1.29 of paper money against each ounce is calculated to have a beneficial effect upon Oriental trade exchanges and perhaps lead to a general stabilization and equalization of world currencies. As a means of domestic inflation, however, it is not a very long step. Many conservative members of the Administration think that real inflation is an inevitable next step, and they are advising people to put their funds into commodities and tangibles, certain that dollar values for such things will go many times higher shortly. And the pressure from the great mass of debtors for cheaper money is increasing rather than diminishing.

Drunk Runs Cops Crazy With Calls

Excitement was what Sam Beville, negro, craved Sunday night after imbibing joyful and stimulating beverages, police officers declare. Sam got excitement in a big way. He put in six telephone calls to various places in this city. The net results: Policemen were sent on a wild goose chase to a High Rock filling station 19 miles east of the city on the information that Ralph Davis, notorious outlaw sought for slaying Sheriff Kimball, of Iredell county, was there fixing a flat tire. Two ambulances went screaming down to the same filling station on reports that a man had been killed. A third ambulance refused to make the trip. Police also were informed that a man had met violent death in that section. The fire laddies were called out to extinguish a fire on East Henderson street, and while making the false trip, met the ambulances coming back to the city. All the excitement aroused a number of persons, and consternation prevailed for some time. Fire trucks, policemen, ambulances and private cars all dashed past Beville's house. Officers investigated fully. Beville was arrested and placed in jail.

It is claimed that the people must acquire a more highly developed moral sense, so that they will reject wrong conduct more positively, and anyway they seem to have a quite strong moral sense about the doings of their neighbors.
