Hunting Season Endangers Lives

Sportsmen of Rowan County Urged To Follow Rules of Safety

Already emblazoned in the headlines of papers all over the country one reads "Hunter Killed Accidentally." Yes, that happens every season and it seems that we would take warning and use the necessary caution, but somehow, we don't.

It is said that one generation profits from the mistakes of other generations; that we learn to leave off doing certain things when a glance into the past shows that those things are dangerous, but how true is this saying? It certainly doesn't prove true when it comes to hunting accidents, automobile accidents and the like, does it?

Well, we all get the idea that we couldn't do such a foolish thing. We wouldn't drag a loaded gun over, under or through a fence. No—not us, we have too much sense to do that. We wouldn't get so interested in a hunt as to shoot at a moving bush and perhaps accidentally kill our hunting companion.

Isn't it peculiar that we can never attribute such foolish acts to ourselves and yet right here in Rowan county some one is going to be seriously wounded, or perhaps killed by just such carelessness during the hunting season which is now upon us?

Every season THE WATCHMAN issues a warning to those who are planning to avail themselves of the privileges and pleasures of the hunt. Hundreds of sportsmen read these articles but fail to apply the warning to themselves. We will be adding our bit to the effort to cut down this unnecessary toll of accidents if we offer here some "Don'ts" to the hunters of Rowan County. Here they are:

- 1. Don't point the muzzle of your gun at anything you don't want to kill, whether the safety is on or not.
2. Don't lean your gun against anything where it may slip off, fall down and discharge.
3. Don't handle your gun by the muzzle. The stock was made to take hold of.
4. Don't pull a gun toward you over, through or under a fence, or out of a car, holding on to the barrel.
5. Don't fail to unload your gun before entering camp or your car.
6. When walking with a gun, carry it pointed up, or at the ground, especially so if someone is walking in front or behind you. 7. And, above all, don't shoot at moving shadows or crackling brush. It may be your hunting partner instead of a deer.

Of course, there are many other "don'ts" which could be mentioned, but if all hunters bear the above cautions in mind, there will be fewer hunting accidents during the current season.

Scholarship Awarded To Iredell Club Boy

For making the best record with Jerseys in 4-H calf club work over a period of two or more years, Price Brawley, of Iredell county, has been awarded the four-year scholarship to State College offered by Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Morrison.

Brawley began with a pure bred Jersey, Majestic Sarah, purchased in 1927 at a cost of $165. From the original calf, he has developed a herd of 23 animals. After selling 10 bull calves and butchering one heifer, he now has nine cows and four bulls.

In 1928 he won first place at the Iredell county fair with a calf dropped by Majestic Sarah and later first place in the open class at the State Fair. In 1929, he won one first and one second place at the county show, two firsts in the club show, and one first and one second in the open show at the State Fair.

His record of first and second places at county, district, state and other fairs, in 1930, '31, '32, '33, and '34 is the envy of 4-H calf club members throughout the State, says L. R. Harrill, state club leader.

Brawley has made a profit of $1,122 since he started keeping a record of his herd. In 1934, he sold $360 worth of milk and cream and supplied his home with $120 worth of milk and butter. He sold $160 worth of animals and won $84 in prizes. His expenses for feed and service fees was $212, leaving him a cash gain of $512. In all, he has won $300 in premiums.

In addition to the winnings of his animals, Price won the American Jersey Cattle Club medal for the best judge of Jerseys in the State judging contest, second place for judging beef cattle and sweepstakes for best judge in all classes. He has also won the American Cattle Club gold medal for showmanship in the State contest.

The bareheaded boys say they are saving Father the price of a hat, but they don't say anything about paying the doctor's bills if they get sick.

Transfer Certificates Through Co. Agent

Legal transference of cotton tax-exemption certificates from one grower to another must be made through the county agent's office, warns Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College.

Illegally transferred certificates will be cancelled, he said, and the cotton they were intended to cover will be subject to the Bankhead tax of five and two-thirds cents a pound.

To protect growers from fraud, speculators, or unfair practices in the trading of certificates, provision was made that all exchanges must be made through the county agent and at the rate of four cents a pound.

Schaub pointed out that it is also illegal to sell a certificate to a person who is not a cotton grower. However, it is permissible for ginners to go to the county agent and buy certificates for a grower when the grower gives him written authorization to do so.

When an illegal transfer is discovered, Schaub said, notice will be sent the collector of internal revenue and other persons involved in the transfer, including the county agent.

Schaub also said that every dollar spent for extra tax-exemption certificates goes to help growers who failed to produce the full amount of their allotments.

The sale of surplus gives the underproducer a form of crop insurance by enabling him to realize four cents a pound for that part of his allotment he failed to produce. It also gives the overproducer a chance to sell his excess cotton without paying the full amount of the bankhead tax.

MISSING CHILD FOUND

Four-year-old Jackie Gibbons, missing from his Lexington, Ky., home since Thursday, was found at Chattanooga Sunday with a girl hitch-hiker, who was arrested on a kidnaping charge. The girl who gave the name of Bernice Lou Givens, 18, and said she had lived in Cincinnati until recently, declared that the boy followed her away after she had given him some candy and that he refused to obey her commands to "go back."

Fashion Marches On Foundations Tell Inside Story Of Fashions For Larger Women

by Mme. LANE BRYANT Noted Fashion Counselor

WHAT figure the Larger Woman will cut in the matter of dress is at times determined by her choice of foundation garments. They are the inside story of what she should wear.

To begin with, there are two major types of the Larger Woman. One, we stylize call regular, and the other irregular.

Sketched to the right is a lady of regular proportions, in an all-in-one garment which is the type she should wear. She is 44" bust, and may be anywhere from 46" to 49" hips. And while the lady to the left doesn't meet these measurements, because she is an irregular, she has achieved practically the same results with two separate garments.

But, if you are like the lady to the left and your problem is a large diaphragm, you would be wise to wear a corset a few inches higher at the waistline, and a long brassiere attached to it. And regardless of type, if you are large through the shoulders, you should be wearing a garment with built-up top, instead of shoulder straps for extra control at the bust, there are brassieres of heavier fabrics, or all-in-ones with top of self-material—flat rather than shaped.

Though, if you prefer the more youthful line at the bust, there are shaped or uplift types both in brassiere and all-in-ones. Both types of garments sometimes have inner belts which offer the double advantage of special support, and the nice flat look of an over-all top garment. Some are fitted, with curved elastic bands, to give particular support to pendulous abdomens. The all-in-one shown here is made with coiled wire, instead of ordinary boning. This looks like a regular spring, flattened, and is preferred by women who don't like stiff boning. But whether you prefer the stiff or the flexible boning, the garment you choose should support, and at the same time it should fit the body in motion. It should be so designed with inserts, hookings, and lacings as to give with every move you make. I feel that the Larger Woman should be thoroughly at ease in her clothes—at rest, at play, or even running for a street car.
