

WATCHMAN BREVITIES

Mr. C. W. Sell, noted clown who traveled for a number of years with the Barnum and Bailey circus, will be in the toy department of the Charles Stores in Salisbury on Friday and Saturday to amuse the kiddies. Come out children and see this noted actor "strut his stuff."

Mr. W. T. Gardner and sons, G. W., J. P., and S. B. Gardner, of Cleveland, route one, were business visitors in Salisbury on Monday. While in town Mr. Gardner dropped in and renewed his subscription to The Carolina Watchman. Thanks, Mr. Gardner, come again.

Among the Salisburians shopping in Charlotte this week were Mrs. Lee Overman Gregory, Mrs. Arthur Reynolds, Mrs. Henry Hobson, Miss Jane Ridecutte and Mrs. Sam McCubbins.

Mr. J. A. Boggs and daughter, Miss Louise, and granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Boggs, of near High Rock, were shoppers in Salisbury Saturday. While in the city Mr. Boggs called at The Watchman Office and left us a dollar for subscription, for which he has our thanks.

Charles H. Neal, formerly of Winston-Salem, but a resident of this city for a year, has been promoted to an assistant state manager of the North Carolina branch of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. Announcement of Mr. Neal's appointment was made by Thomas C. Abernathy, state manager.

The coming of the dawn used to be the signal for man to get up and go to work, but now it is frequently his call to go home and go to bed.

They ask why marriages go "on the rocks." Well, in many cases because they loaded the old boat below the water line with debts for things they didn't need.
