Lady Went Back To Taking CARDUI and Was Helped

For severe periodic pains, cramps or nervousness, try Cardui which so many women have praised, for over fifty years. Mrs. Dora Dungan, of Science Hill, Ky., writes: "Several years ago, when I was teaching school, I got run-down and suffered intensely during menstruation periods. I took Cardui and was all right again. After I was married, when I felt all run-down and was irregular, I always resorted to Cardui and was helped."

(Continued from page three) come home" she warned Tony. "I shouldn't think," said Tony, "that you'd have to tell him any more. Alven's got sense."

Costly Saving

If you are doing without a telephone to save money, have you considered what it is costing in inconvenience, discomfort and lack of protection?

The protection that a telephone in your home affords in case of emergencies alone outweighs the small cost. In addition a telephone gives quick personal contacts with your friends and relatives both in and out-of-town.

When you compare the little you actually save with the convenience, comfort, protection and pleasure that the telephone offers, you will probably agree that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it. Why wait longer? Order your telephone today.

ting, Tony left Ellen at her door. This time he kissed the tips of her fingers as lightly as it is possible for a man to kiss the tips of any girl's fingers.

"I'm not suggesting," he said, "that we dine together tonight. We're both worn out." It was his one reference to the night before.

And Ellen, with the pulse in her throat choking her, managed to nod a quick affirmative. "We poor working girls," she said, "like our moments of vacation with our rich relatives."

The next evening they drove out to the country, to a little inn. If their talk were a trifle less formal, now, it wasn't because they were speaking to each other as married couples speak. It was because they were beginning to have a slight basis of reminiscence upon which to build conversations.

Ellen could almost settle herself into the red roadster as if she belonged in it. And Tony didn't look quite so finely drawn as he had at the house party, when they had had their encounter with Jane.
