THE OUTLOOK FOR PEACE

The abandonment of Ethiopia to the Italians has not made the outlook for peace in Europe any brighter. Mussolini's complete conquest in spite of the protests of the League of Nations has come as a serious disappointment to the pacifists who have clung to the belief that peace can be maintained by persuasion. The hopes that were built upon the supposed power and influence of the League have been rudely shattered.

Italy is now in a position to form new alliances which will strengthen its control of the Mediterranean. Great Britain is unwilling to yield to Italy any control of the approaches to the Suez Canal or the headwaters to the Nile. As matters now stand, Italy could effectively blockade the Canal, and has full control of Lake Tana, from which the Nile derives most of its water. England's supremacy in Egypt is also seriously threatened by the death of King Fuad, leaving the monarchy under a 16-year-old boy.

It is not surprising, then, that there is talk of an alliance between Britain and Italy, who were so lately shaking their fists in each other's faces. Italy is in serious financial distress. Britain could give Mussolini's government monetary assistance at a time when it is most needed. France might join in such an alliance for the sake of preventing an alliance between Italy and Germany. At the same time, there is talk of financial assistance from England to Germany, to keep Hitler from attempting the seizure of Czechoslovakia and Austria. Meantime, European powers are engaged in the greatest armament race in all history.

Perhaps all of this is of no concern to the people of the United States, but it seems almost impossible that a European war would not affect this country seriously. In times like these, the nation that wants to stay out of trouble needs to be prepared to meet trouble if it comes.

PROSPERITY AND THE WEATHER

It is reported from Washington that drought conditions throughout a large section of the wheat country of the West are very far from cheering. It is a little too early, perhaps, to be definite about it, but there has been a serious shortage of rainfall this Spring, the Department of Agriculture reports, with a possibility of material crop curtailment unless there are ample rains before the early part of June.

If the weather is normal in the great agricultural regions the farmers' income this year will be close to $8,000,000,000, the Government estimators believe. This would mean real prosperity. A serious drought might well result in a severe setback to the steady progress of the country. People's memories are short. Few now think of the drought of 1930-31, which was one of the most important elements that contributed to the economic depression in this country. Nature has always had a great deal more to do with economic changes than politics.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

vote-getting timber are Senators Steiwer, of Oregon, who will be the Convention's temporary chairman, and Vandenberg, of Michigan, who is still regarded as in the running as a possible head of the ticket.

Geographically, Senator, Steiwer is considered more available. The Pacific Coast is regarded as more debatable ground than is the State of Michigan. Geographical and other considerations, however, may dictate the choice of a Vice-Presidential candidate from the East. The difficulty is to find an acceptable man who is not too closely tied in with the Republican Old Guard.

LL Lindy And Young G. O. P.

Some attention, more or less serious, has been given lately to the suggestion that young voters would be attracted to the Republican ticket by the nomination for Vice-President of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. That seems quite unlikely, but stranger things have happened in politics.

The Republican leadership is realizing more and more strongly that it is from the younger element and the new voters, the three million boys and girls who have become of age since 1932, that they must gain much of their support if they are to win the election.

The Young Republican organization of the Pacific Coast is not happy over the present situation, and is especially not friendly to Gov. Landon. How far they represent the younger element generally is, however, somewhat doubtful.

She will be the eighth woman president out of the sixty-three who have served. Rowan Memorial Hospital Committee Thanks Editor

To The Editor of The Carolina Watchman:

We deeply appreciate the interest and space your publication has given in the promotion of a Rowan Memorial project. We take this opportunity to thank your paper and through you express our appreciation to all the citizenship of Rowan County for the splendid cooperation and generous donations which has assured Rowan County of a hospital which we believe all our people will point to with pride.

It is the sincere hopes to the Trustees of this hospital that it be opened as soon as possible and a tentative date has been fixed for June 15, 1936 at which time we hope to have sufficient equipment in the building to start operation.

However, two things are necessary to reach our goal. While the campaign being conducted has not reached the $26,000.00 sought to furnish and equip the hospital, we feel that through our school campaign now under way in the city and county that our people will rally and, by now making cash donations, give to this hospital sufficient money to equip it in keeping with its beautiful outside and inside appearance. If the total money is not realized at this time, for the information of the public, the Trustees will take what money they have secured and do the best they can with these funds so that we may open the hospital and at a later date buy what other equipment the funds then available will permit.

We urge each and every family in Rowan County to now make a small donation through their children. We also ask that all those who have been most generous in making pledges to this institution that they pay these pledges at the earliest possible date so that we may utilize this money by making cash payment for the equipment necessary and thereby again save money on our purchases, as we have in the purchase of materials to construct this modern fireproof building.

Taking this opportunity to express the deep appreciation of the Trustees for the splendid support and community loyalty already shown in this worthwhile non-profit institution and urging your continued support in this our last campaign to raise funds to completely equip this hospital in keeping with its architectural design and plans, we ask and solicit your immediate and final cooperation.

Very truly yours,
A. S. JONES, President,
BRYCE P. BEARD, V.-Pres.

Everyday Cooking Miracles

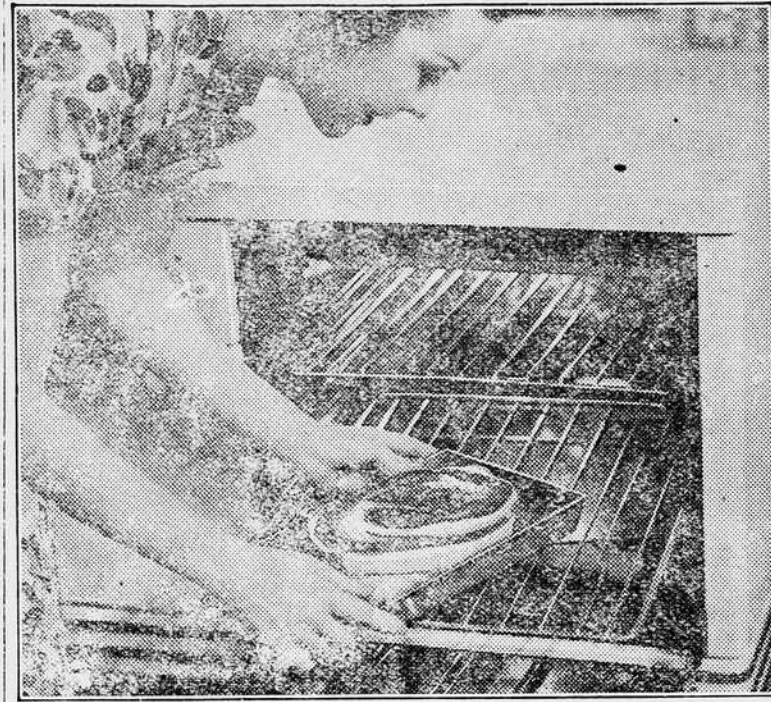

BY VIRGINIA FRANCIS
Director Hospital Electric Cookery Institute

Did you ever hear about the inexperienced bride who basted her first roast with a needle and thread? The cook book said to "baste frequently" so she did—the only way she knew how.

Perhaps this mistake could have been made by any of us a few years ago. However, modern cook books and scientists have performed a they start to roast in a cold electric oven!

The electric oven makes this possible because of its accurate, controlled heat and moist, draftless atmosphere. The advantage, aside from the fact that you don't have to perform the old time-talking, meat roasting ceremonies, is that the meat is more tender, juicy and flavor-great favor to all bridekinds. They have omitted that pitfall—the basting—completely, along with many other meat cooking stumbling blocks.

In the well insulated oven of the electric range, meats are roasted without searing, without water, without basting and without watching.

As a matter of fact, the ever-widening use of modern electric ranges has introduced many "miraculous" things in modern kitchens. Homemakers place complete meals in their cold electric ovens; they go away, come home, and find the meal ready to serve, thanks to the "Chef's Brain" or timer clock of the electric range. And then, these young moderns have taken to baking cakes and pies in an unpreheated electric oven—the "one-step" way, making them excellent, yet easier to prepare. Also, such possibilities as baking beans in the Thrift Cooker without previously soaking the beans and cooking on top of the range without ever using a double boiler, are just a few of the electric range innovations.

The Meat Story
But now, back to the meat story! In the electric oven meats are roasted without searing, without water, without basting, without watching. What's more, meats are roasted in shallow, uncovered roasting pans and some. You "ring up" an order for a "roast beef, medium," "a roast beef, well done," etc., on the controls of your electric oven and that you will get, without any argument.

And now, how will you take your roast beef—well done, medium or rare? Here is the recipe for preparing roast ribs of beef including the electric oven roasting table.

Roast Ribs of Beef

Prepare meat for roasting. Trim and weigh. Sprinkle with salt and brush over with melted butter. Put the roast in a shallow, open roasting pan and place in cold electric oven. Close oven door and switch to Pre-heat. Set Temperature Control for 400° and roast according to the following time chart:

Time—Ribs Rolled.
Rare . . . 20 minutes per pound
Medium . . . 30 minutes per pound
Well Done . . 40 minutes per pound
Time—Ribs Standing.
Rare . . 15-18 minutes per pound
Medium . . 20 minutes per pound
Well Done 20-25 minutes per pound

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theodor's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theodor's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."
