Woman Says Father of Slain Co-ed Had Ominous Dream Night of Death

Asheville.—Disturbing dreams, vaguely involving his daughter in disaster, tortured J. F. Clevenger during the night his only child, Helen, met a violent death in her hotel room here, Mrs. C. W. Pegram said.

Clevenger, a chemist in the New York food and drug administration, who lives at Staten Island, was a guest of the Pegrams when he was summoned here by the slaying of his daughter. The girl and her uncle, Prof. W. L. Clevenger, of State college, Raleigh, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pegram the night before the 18-year-old co-ed was shot and clubbed to death.

Mrs. Pegram said Clevenger told her he was awakened the night of July 15 by an ominous dream, portending ill for Helen. Later when he again went to sleep, the dream returned.

Details of neither dream were fixed in his mind, Mrs. Pegram said Clevenger told her, but in both Helen was a central figure, and seemed to be seeking his help.

In one he recalled conversing with the daughter and recalling her saying she "know her old daddy would understand," he was quoted as saying.

The next morning, Clevenger went to his office, with a feeling of vague apprehension, and against his better judgment, according to Mrs. Pegram.

About noon a telegram reached his home from Asheville authorities, asking him his relationship to Helen Clevenger. He rushed home, and heard the tragic news.

General Fund Lists Balance

The North Carolina general fund, from which all general State expenditures are made, closed the fiscal year on June 30 with a credit balance of $949,927, the Budget bureau announced.

The highway fund, Chairman C. M. Waynick said, had a cash balance of between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000, but only $6,000,000 to $7,000,000 was "unencumbered" due to unspent allotments already made.

For 1933-34, the first year of the Ehringhaus administration, the general fund listed a $74,072 credit balance, and for the fiscal year 1934-35 the figure was $712,253.

Revenue collections last fiscal year, as reported on June 1, totalled $53,608,780, a new record, with the general fund receipts of $28,743,737 being 19.14 per cent more than in 1934-35.

The general fund last fiscal year received $32,151,632 from all sources, including $1,000,000 from the highway funds as "sales tax on gasoline" and $1,415,025 from non-tax revenue sources such as earnings, fees, dividends, etc.

Experiments aggregated $31,201,705.

The sales tax produced $10,181,373 of the revenue and income taxes yielded another $8,088,119.

The public schools cost $20,223,211 of the money spent; debt service cost $4,281,233; educational institutions $1,784,488; charitable and correctional institutions, 1,597,221; pensions $580,169; executive and administrative, $1,550,507; judicial $367,029, and State aid and obligations $803,882.

The general fund credit balance consisted of $600,787 in cash and $349,140 in income taxes assessed but deferred on the installment plan.

Farm Questions

Answered At STATE COLLEGE

Question: Do you recommend the Austrian Winter pea for soil improvement in North Carolina?

Answer: Yes. The winter pea was first grown in this state about eight years ago and is increasing in popularity each year. It produces nodules more abundantly than vetch; it is easy to grow; produces plenty of vegetation; and may be planted any time from September 1 to December 1 in the same way as vetch. At least 30 pounds of seed should be used to the acre. If the land is not inoculated by vetch, it would be well to get some dirt from a field that has grown one of the two crops and use this to inoculate the seed or the field.

Question: When is the best time of the year to plant a winter grazing crop for poultry?

Answer: Italian rye grass planted in September or early October should give excellent grazing during the winter and early spring if normal weather prevails. A mixed crop, fine for poultry, can be obtained by planting rye grass and crimson clover at the same time. Full details as to grazing crops for poultry may be had in Experiment Station Bulletin No. 282 which may be had free of charge on application to the Agricultural Editor at State College.

Question: When should hairy vetch be planted for best results?

Answer: Vetch may be sown from August 15th to December 1 but September planting usually gives best results. The crop will grow on practically all soils in North Carolina from heavy clays to coarse sands but the soil must be inoculated. When used for hay, vetch should be planted with oats, barley or wheat. For soil improvement, it is often planted with rye. Use about 25 pounds of vetch seed to the acre.

Extension workers at State College point out that now is the time to prepare to seed alfalfa and other legumes this fall.
