SHOWING them how to burn up the track at Vina del Mar in Chile! Racing and polo are exceedingly popular sports in Chile and attract stars of the turf from all over the world.

Races are held in Vina del Mar—a few minutes' ride from Valparaiso, port for the regular cruises from New York and San Francisco to Chile—during January, February and March, the summer months which the wealthy Argentinians, Chileans and Peruvians spend at Vina, the season when gambling at the Casino is in full monte Carlo swing, and the lido-like seaside resorts are the rendezvous for globe-trotters from all over the world.

From March through December races are held in Santiago at the Club Hípico, one of the finest courses in the world, and perhaps the most beautiful. The track and an imposing and attractively designed grandstand are set in gorgeous green lawns studded with flower gardens and fountains, and the whole set-up is ringed round with the snow-capped peaks of the Andes. In this spectacular setting are staged some of the most exciting races in the world—and, at the present rate of exchange as regards the dollar, the entrance fee is but twenty cents; and the price of an excellent seat, one dollar.

MODERN WOMEN

France has a woman columnist about whom I heard a great deal while I was in Paris recently. She is Mme. Genevieve Tabouis and is considered an expert on the present political situation in Europe today and who is read widely by persons in high political and diplomatic positions. Mme. Tabouis, whose column appears in L'Oeuvre, a liberal daily, was a distinguished Egyptologist before she joined the ranks of the scribes and she soon made a tremendous hit with her sagacious comments. The late Jules Cambon, formerly French Ambassador to our own country and to Spain and Germany, was her uncle, and it was the late Aristide Briand who suggested to her that she turn her attention to writing instead of mummies.

A weekly columnist for one of our own rural newspapers, Mrs. Susan Frawley Eisele of Blue Earth, Minn., whose work appears in the Fairmont, Minn., Sentinel, has received the annual award presented by The Country Home Magazine for the best country correspondence this year. Mrs. Eisele lives on a farm, has a husband and three children, works in the fields and looks after the cattle and the pigs, yet finds time to write her weekly column, "With a Penny Pencil."

Mrs. Corbett-Ashley and Dr. Maude Royden have formed in Great Britain a committee called the Women's International Boycott to Prevent War.

Town criers are still to be heard in many of the small towns in England. One of them, Mrs. M. A. Baker, became the official crier of her village of Chertsey when her husband went to the World War. Upon his return he urged her to continue as crier as she had made such a good job of it. She wears a special uniform, black skirt, waistcoat, hat, coat and cravat, such as her husband wore, except for the skirt, and she carries a much lighter bell than he did, though it makes just as much noise.

Farm life appeals to many of the Czechoslovakian country women. With their husbands they own farms, they are active in the co-operative movement in dairies, laundries and bakeries, and they are supporting movements for better housing for country women and to provide improved conditions for mothers and children.

GIRL CRIMINALS HARD TO REFORM
 Boston.—A boy becomes a criminal quicker than does a girl, but it takes longer to reform a girl criminal, according to Dr. Walter O. Beck, visiting psychology professor at Boston University's school of religious and social work.

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up
 Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women to get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength is built up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them back to good health. . . . Mrs. C. E. Ratliff, of Hinton, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to get my strength back. I took Cardui again and was soon sound and well. I have given it to my daughters and recommend it to other ladies." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

EVER TRY OIL TREATMENT FOR CORNS?

These pests often find lodging, under, on top of, or between the toes. Of course (you all know they are your own fault). They couldn't help appearing; you invited them yourself. Corns never intrude themselves into polite society—they are always invited guests that stay longer than they are wanted, once their character is known.

If your feet need soaking—soak them. But that doesn't help corns very much. As soon as you put that heathen shoe on again, the

The office of the Secretary of State for New York has a woman as First Deputy Secretary, Miss Grace A. Reavy who is ensconced in the Capitol at Albany. Miss Reavy is proud of her post. The office of the Secretary of State is the oldest, dating back to the Provinces of the Netherlands, when the Secretary was also Clerk to the Crown. Many of the traditional duties of the Secretary have survived since the days of Queen Anne when the Secretary was Secretary to the Crown. The Secretary's department is the recording and filing bureau of the State government. The Secretary is appointed by the Governor.

Ellen Culver Potter, on whom Rutgers University, N. J. recently conferred the honorary, degree of Doctor of Laws, first studied art, then medicine and later taught at the Women's Medical College in Philadelphia. She devoted thirteen years to the practice of medicine during which time she engaged in administrative and research work. She became Secretary of Welfare in Pennsylvania and was medical director in the Department of Institutions and Agencies in New Jersey.

The first American sculptor, Patience Wright, born in Bordentown, N. J., in 1725, made a wax effigy of William Pitt which occupies a niche in Westminster Abbey. She made a wax bust of George Washington which is considered one of her most important works. Mrs. J. West Roosevelt of New York owns a copy of the Washington bust which has never been out of her family since it was made. The Pitt likeness was purchased a few months after Pitt's death in 1778.

The only woman chancellor in diplomatic circles is Miss Mary Conway, Chancellor of the Spanish Legation in Dublin, Ireland. Miss Conway has been in the United States visiting her brother, Mr. John Conway, who is a Vice-Consul of the Irish Free State.

Gina Kaus, author of that interesting book "Catherine," visited New York last spring and is planning to come again in the fall. She is so interested in women, this vivid young Viennese, that she once wrote, edited and published a newspaper for women dealing entirely with motherhood. Miss Kaus thinks it most important for women to fight to keep their rights and not to submit to being pushed back as the German women have. The only way to prevent future wars, Miss Kaus says, is for women to hold on to their rights.

The Michael Friedsam gold medal awarded annually to the person who has contributed in the greatest degree toward the development of art in industry, has for the first time been bestowed upon a woman. The winner this year is Mrs. Ellen Dunlop Hopkins, founder of the New York School of Applied Design for Women. Her school, founded in 1892, was the pioneer school of the kind for women. The prize was first awarded in 1924.

corns begin to speak up. Pull the shoe off again if you; throw it away, so much the better. Take a small wisp of long-fiber absorbent cotton and wrap it snugly about the toe—as you'd spread it around a lead pencil—so it will stay when you draw on your stocking. Then saturate the cotton above the corn with any kind of good, refined, lubricating oil. Olive oil is excellent; sperm oil is good; if you haven't either, seize your wife's sewing machine oil! I've used it myself, and cured my corns, too.

Dress the toe in this manner morning and night, and wear low heels. Your stocking will get oil on them, of course, but what of it. If you are extra careful, shave the callous thin before applying the dressing. If you'd rather have corns, keep the high heels and narrow toes.

More Reductions In Long Distance Rates

For the seventh time in the past ten years, long distance rates have again been voluntarily reduced.

Effective September 1, the rates for both person-to-person and station-to-station inter-state long distance calls were reduced to points 235 miles or more distant. The amount of the saving on calls ranges from five cents to $1.50 depending upon the distance.

Also on inter-state person-to-person calls the charges for overtime after six minutes of conversation are reduced. (Overtime charges begin after three minutes conversation.)

It is estimated that these reductions will save Bell telephone users $7,350,000 annually.
