Before you get your new permanent wave, be sure the operator knows his business thoroughly. After all the machines are standardized but your hair isn't. And here are a few tips on permanents—if the ends of your hair seem dry rub a little pomade on the ends alone. As for hair tonic, apply it after the shampoo when the pores are open, rather than before. And don't forget your hair brush.

Brushing won't ruin your permanent wave—it's good for it. In fact hair needs to have the oil brushed down to the ends even more after a permanent than before. And brushing is the best daily routine to stimulate scalp circulation. Starting from the base of the neck at the hairline, brush up to the crown, working backward from ear to ear several times until your scalp feels warm and tingling.

Brush with a vibrating movement all around the face, working from the scalp to the ends of the hair to loosen particles of make-up and dust that become embedded with dried perspiration around the front hairline particularly in summer. Then return to the back of the head, space the hair in small sections, pick up one piece at a time and brush from scalp to ends with a turn of the wrist. Start with the brush sideways against the head and roll the full length of the bristles. Be sure you feel the brush on the scalp, and hold the hair up as you brush so that the bristles get underneath instead of just hitting the high-lights.

One more word on hair exercise—be sure you have a good long-bristle brush. The new ones with wave-like bristles that strand the hair are particularly good.

Buttermilk is a gentle and effective bleach for freckles. Rinse your face in it at night after washing and let the buttermilk remain on the skin until morning.

Do your nails shrivel and break? A hot oil manicure once or twice a month will correct this condition. If you do your nails yourself, you'll have to enlist the service of a sister, daughter or friend to tie up your nails for you in bits of cotton soaked in hot olive oil or almond oil. File the nails first; then soak them in the hot oil for five minutes. Then the soaked cotton pads are tied on the finger tips and allowed to remain ten minutes. At the end of that time the nails are scrubbed with warm sudsy water and a nail brush, and the manicure proceeds as usual.

Trailing panels, scarves and elongated godets, multitudinous pleated flounces in shell outlines, shirred apron, are among the latest fashion ideas from Paris.

Summery odors are offered in the luxurious new toilet soaps the famous English firm of Morny is featuring for vacation use. The soaps are boxed in assorted colors and odors, Jasmine, Gardenia, Rose, Lavender, Violet, Cologne and Lilac.

Clean your hair brushes and combs in warm, sudsy water. Follow with a rinsing in two or three ammonia of aromatic spirits of ammonia to cut any grease that may remain. Then rinse again in cold water.

SAYS DICTATORS DOOMED

Atlanta. — John Francis Neylan, San Francisco attorney, forecast doom for dictatorships in a baccalaureate address to Oglethorpe university seniors "Within 10 years there will not be a single dictator in power in any civilized country, whether he be brown, black, red, white or any other variety," Neylan declared.

"How's your wife these days?"

"Not so good; she's had quincy."

"Gosh! How many does that make in your family?"

Four Club Members To Attend National Camp In Washington

Four of North Carolina's outstanding 4-H club members have been selected to represent this State at the national 4-H club camp to be held in Washington, June 17-23.

Selected from among 42,000 club members over the State, the two boys and two girls will be guests of the U. S. Department of Agriculture along with delegates from other States of the Union.

While in Washington they will be given special training in leadership and will be taken on tours to various government departments and other places of interest, said L. R. Harrill, 4-H club leader at N. C. State College.

North Carolina's delegates are: Ray Morrison, Iredell County; Graham Penny, Johnston County; Alice Falls, Cleveland County; and Mary Lily Foard, Iredell County.

Morrison has made a record in cotton and corn projects but is best known for his dairy calves. He has probably won more prizes than any other calf club member of the State. Morrison calves have won the grand championships at the State Fair 4-H calf show three successive years. Last year he was awarded the Cameron Morrison four-year college scholarship for his excellence in calf club work.

Penny has excelled in corn, tobacco, baby beef and pig projects. He won the grand championship of the State Fair 4-H judging contests in 1936. Active in club work, he has shown leadership ability.

Miss Foard, now in her seventh year of club work, has made unusual records in clothing, food conservation, home beautification, gardening and home improvement projects. Her furniture exhibit won first prize at the State Fair.

Miss Falls, completing her fourth year as a club member, was president of the Fallston Club in Cleveland County when it was awarded a banner for the best individual club record in the State for 1936.

Eight dairymen of Yadkin County recently ordered nine bushels of Eureka ensilage corn seed and seven other dairymen later ordered 10 bushels for demonstration purposes.

A Giant Baby Panda At Home—Brookfield, Ill. — Su-Lin, the Giant Baby Panda captured in China and brought to this country, comes through the hollow log especially constructed at the Chicago Zoological Park here to resemble his natural habitat. He is nine months old and weighs 35 pounds. When he grows up, he will weigh 225 pounds.

New Shooting Game—Jean Rogers, Universal's pretty movie player, practices daily with her new Targeteer air pistol. This is the gun that has the whole country trying to pop bull's-eyes and make the birdies spin.

America is Too Serious—Believing that the world is too full of wars, labor disputes, murders, taxation and other current griefs, William Piel, of Brooklyn, N. Y., one of America's greatest brewers, sportsmen and civic leaders, is engaged in a campaign "to put some fun back into American life" and is sponsoring various activities centering around sport and healthful recreation. He believes America is in no danger from labor or political disputes and that we will reach a new understanding and prosperity within the next three years.

World's Tallest Man—Valspar's world's narrowest house, Boston, Mass. Robert Wadlow, nineteen years old, who according to all historical records is the tallest man who ever lived, and still growing, paid a visit to the world's narrowest building on State Street, Boston, a two-story structure housing a luncheon room. The house is 20 feet high, 58 feet deep and 4 feet 7 inches wide, jammed between two modern buildings in the business section. Photo shows Robert Wadlow wielding a paint brush in high section with no difficulty whatever.

Taking It Easy—Mary Carlisle knows the benefit of rest in Hollywood and manages to get as much of it as possible before stepping before a camera. Her Beverly Hills home complete with swimming pool and badminton court is Mary's favorite winter and summer resort.

MODERN WOMEN

MODERN WOMEN — A woman who has a social plan for the development of a new type of human being is Mrs. Minnie Brunner Ross, seventy-year old founder and president of the Home and Life Betterment Society. This plan embraces a local forum center in every community in the United States with regional centers and a national center. Here any person might present for free discussion an idea for education, economic, scientific, recreational or religious betterment. She wants to call these centers "American Action Forums" and establish the first one in New York.

After teaching for fifty years Miss Elizabeth S. Ferrer of Brooklyn is retiring. She favors progressive educational methods over the old-fashioned way and her one regret is that she cannot be on hand to watch how the new ways work.

Four distinguished newspaper women have received prizes for their work during 1936 from the New York Newspaper Women's Club. They are Doris Eileeson of the New York Daily News for the best reportorial work for covering the Republican National Convention; Anne O'Hare McCormick of the New York Times for her story on "Exploring the Hitler Legend;" Dorothy Thompson of the New York Herald Tribune for her column on "An Invitation to Death" on the Hauptmann execution, and Emily Genauer of the New York World-Telegram for a series of articles on Telegram for a series of articles on interior decoration. The five judges, two men and three women, were distinguished newspaper writers and authors with newspaper experience.

The only women now serving the United States as career diplomats are Miss Frances Elizabeth Willis, third secretary of the legation in Brussels who has the rank of consul, and Miss Constance Ray Harvey, vice consul in Milan, Italy. Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of Washington, D. C., has been named
