

DAILY CAROLINA WATCHMAN.

SALISBURY, N. C., JULY 7, 1864.

NO. 44

TELEGRAPHIC.

REPORTS OF THE PRESS ASSOCIATION.

Entered according to act of Congress in the year 1863, by J. S. THRASHER, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of the Confederate States for the Northern District of Georgia.

MERIDIAN, July 6.

Special dispatch to the Clarion from Brandon, says—Yankees occupied Jackson at noon yesterday. General Slocum says his object is to destroy railroads and bridges and return to Vicksburg. Forces estimated at twenty five hundred. Heavy firing to-day between Jackson and Canton.

CHAMOOCHEE RIVER, July 6th.

All quiet this morning. The enemy, yesterday, burnt Lewelling Junction, on the Atlanta and Decatur Rail Road. Some prisoners were brought in last night, among them Lt. George Scott, of the 100 Indiana.

There has been very little skirmishing to-day. The enemy continues feeling his way. They, yesterday, burnt the paper Mill at Roswell. A yankee Major and 10 privates were brought in this evening.

MACON, GA., July 6th.

The Board of Directors of the Press Association met to-day and transacted considerable business—some of it important. Arrangements have been made to secure the transmission of Press reports when interruption exists on the regular line, and otherwise to facilitate the general objects of the Association.

"NOBODY SCARED."—If any one thinks our people were scared on last Tuesday night when they were aroused from their beds with the announcement that the yankee raiders were expected in Charlotte before daylight, he is simply mistaken. It is true that a stranger might have supposed there was fright exhibited by the crowd in front of the Express Office, judging from the noise of loud talking and seeming confusion, but this resulted from the zeal manifested by those present to organize for defense. Not even the men who appeared on the ground without their shirts were alarmed, but only anxious to answer to roll call. If anybody had been scared, the forming of the Home Guard in the Public Square was enough to dissipate their fears and inspire confidence, especially when they saw the energy displayed by our worthy friends, the O. S. and Captain. No, indeed, nobody was scared and nobody was hurt. And if the yankees don't want to get hurt they had better stay away from Charlotte and the hornets' nest region.—Western Democrat.

THE NEW BRIGADIER GENERALS.—Some weeks ago a list of appointments of Brigadiers was published, and among them some five or six from this State. It was generally supposed that these appointments were permanent, but we learn that they were only temporary, except in one or two cases. The appointments of Grimes and Barringer to the command of Brigades are permanent, because they take the places of officers killed, but Cox, Toon and Lewis only command brigades until the return of wounded or captured officers. So, also in the case of Ramseur's appointment as Major General—he fills the position and draws the pay of a Maj. Gen'l until Maj. Gen. Edw'd Johnson, who was captured, returns to his command.—Western Democrat.

Faith and Unbelief.—Faith makes all evil good to us, and all good better; unbelief makes all good, evil, and all evil worse. Faith laughs at the shaking of the spear; unbelief trembles at the shaking of a leaf; unbelief starves the soul; faith finds food in famine, and a table in the wilderness. In the greatest danger faith says, "I have a great God." When outward strength is broken, faith draws the sting out of every trouble, and takes out the bitterness from every affliction.

THE Southern Literary Messenger FOR 1864.

This long established and well-known Journal of Literature having been recently purchased by the subscribers, will, in future, be conducted exclusively under their control. In all its departments, both business and editorial, the Messenger will be under the management of an entirely new regime, and the Proprietors are sanguine of success in the future, which the Magazine has never yet realized, if their friends and the public shall yield them a support worthy of so important an enterprise, looking to the advancement of the highest literary interest of the Confederacy.

Argument or appeal in behalf of the importance of an elevated literature to our country, the absence of which has hitherto made us a by-word of reproach among the older nations, and even now militates against our interests abroad, need not be addressed to those whom this circular is designed to reach.

But to the attainment of this great end, something more is necessary than mere verbal expressions of sympathy and encouragement.—The friends of Southern Literature must foster the efforts of our literary men to secure for us a worthy position in the world of letters.

We design the Messenger to be an enterprise worthy of support of all classes of our people. We shall aim chiefly to secure for our pages the productions of the highest order of genius and scholarship, and at the same time such articles as will contribute to the instruction and amusement of the public at large. To this end we shall give our attention to and solicit contributions from Southern writers in all the departments of Literature. Poetry, Romance, Review, Criticism, in short, every subject whose prominence is sufficient to entitle it to notice will have its due share of attention.

We earnestly solicit the assistance of our friends throughout the Confederacy in the enlargement of our subscription list, which must be increased to enable us to meet the heavy pecuniary outlay to which we shall be subject.

Terms, $12 for twelve months, $8 for six months. This increase will not affect those who subscribed before the 1st of March. Orders must be accompanied with the money.

Mr. GEORGE C. WEDDERBURN, formerly of New Orleans, now of this city, will control the business interests of the Messenger, and Mr. FRANK H. ALFRED, of this city, will direct its editorial management. Communications connected with the literary conduct of the Messenger will be directed to the editor; other communications should be directed to the proprietors.
