

POETRY.

The World is Full of Beauty.
There is beauty in the forest,
Where the trees are green and fair,
There is beauty in the meadow,
Where the wild flowers scent the air,
There is beauty in the sunlight,
And a soft blue beam above,
Oh, the world is full of beauty,
When the heart is full of love.

There is beauty in the fountain,
Singing gaily at its play,
While the rainbow hues are glittering
On its silver shining spray;
There is beauty in the streamlet,
Murmuring softly through the grove,
Oh! the world is full of beauty,
When the heart is full of love.

There is beauty in the moonlight,
When it falls upon the sea,
When the blue-fawn crested billows
Dance and frolic joyously;

There's beauty in the lightning's gleam,
That over the dark waves roar,
Oh! the world is full of beauty,
When the heart is full of love.

There is beauty in the brightness,
Beaming from a loving eye,
In the warm blush of affection,
In the tear of sympathy;
In the sweet low voice whose accents
Reveal spirits gladness prove;

Oh! the world is full of beauty,
When the heart is full of love.

TOM CORWIN'S WIT.

While this capital joker was a member of the General Assembly of the Ohio States he brought in a bill for the abolition of public punishment at the whipping post. He made a speech thereon, to which an elderly member replied somewhat as follows:

"The gentleman is not as old as I am, and has not seen so much of the practical operation of the system of punishment which he desires to abolish. When I lived in Connecticut, if a fellow stole a horse or cut up any Justice, we used to tie him right up and give him a real good thrashing; and he always cleared right out, and we never saw him any more. It's the best way of getting rid of rogues that ever was tried, and without expense to the States."

Cowin rose and replied:

"Mr. Speaker I have often been puzzled to account for the vast emigration from Connecticut to the West, but the gentleman just up has explained it to my entire satisfaction."

The bill was passed without further discussion.

PRETTY GOOD.

A party of negroes gave a grand ball near Albany last week. Six distinguished colored gentlemen were driven thither by a white coachman. In a spirit of courtesy they invited him to enter the hall. He accepted the invitation, and was a pleased spectator, until the aroma arising from the salubrious became somewhat pungent, and as it grew more powerful he prepared to leave. Just at that moment one of the colored managers approached with much politeness, and said the ladies desired the coachman to leave the room. The manager regretted to make the request, but the ladies insisted, because, they said, he smelled so much of the stable.

A NICE LITTLE "ON DIT."

A millionaire of Paris wrote to Scribe: "My dear sir, I have a great desire to be associated with you in some dramatic composition. Will you do me the favor to write a comedy, and permit me to add to it a few lines of my own? I will then have it produced in the most costly and splendid style upon the stage, at my own expense, and we will share the glory!" To which Scribe answers: "My dear sir, I must decline your flattering proposal, because religion teaches me it is not proper that a horse and an ass should be yoked together;" to which the millionaire replies: "Sir, I have received your impudent epistle. By what authority do you call me a horse?" — Wire Press.

No, sir?

What do you support Brookings?

No! I shan't the scoundrel. I support Boston and the children, and its mighty hard scratchin' to go along at that, with corn at seventy cents a bushel.

"I would rather vote for the devil than you,"

was the reply. "But in case your friend is not a candidate," said the solicitor, "I might be elected."

"Yes, ma'am, to be sure it was, and if he don't behave himself I'll crack him again."

In olden times, women were prohibited from marrying until they had spun a set of bed furniture, and hence they were called spinsters until they were married. Now-a-days they spin street yarn.
