following reasons: 1st. The democratic party by reason of its platform and candidates, and by reason of recent occurrences in Pennsylvania and elsewhere tending to verify its utterances, is in the best possible condition for waging an aggressive campaign-a campaign of thought, education, and patriotic sentiment.

UNMERCIFUL, UNJUST, AND IN-

It is claimed by our opponents that protective tariffs benefit all our laboring people. Let us see.

The number of our people to-day who are wholly dependent on foreign markets is larger than those employed in the protected industries. For while the number employed in producing things with which foreign products might in some measure come into competition in the home market is only 1,200,000, there are 1,400,000 engaged in agriculture and 200,000 in manufacturing who depend wholly on foreign sales and the export of the products of their labor for sustenance.

our laboring people who are subject them to the 1,200,000 persons engaged in protected industries, suffer have grown up in the country under injurious in that respect, than it is capital in life; and whatever cripples or wastes that energy is without

It flatly contradiets the Republican theory and false pretense. It completely sustains the Democratic position. It unquivocally condemns Mr. Carnegie and his colleagues in protected industries who have never failed to exhaust the full measure of protection for themselves and then turn their backs on their employes and leave them to protect themselves as they might under the law of supply and demand against outlying and special advantages of protection and cut down to honest business in a world's commercial republic of peace and free trade among nations. But they propose to surrender nothing. They are now implacably intent on clinching McKinleyism more firmly.

But as an exchange remarks: "The tariff idea may have fosterthe baughty spirit of their bosses. They have organization, skill and intelligence, and they are getting mentally clear as to the cynical and frandulent spirit in which class and specialty laws are imposed upon the people. It is a queer problem what will come of the mixed demands for justice and for a share in the profits his club, that an early campaign in of injustice made by the same men Forsyth county this year would re- at the same time."

The Light of Putrefaction. At the convention of the Republicans of the 5th district last Thursday, Tom Settle was nominated for Congress on the first ballot. The delegates from four counties declined to vote and bolted. In the course of submit therewith the reasons, as his speech accepting the nomination they appear to the club, for holding Mr. Settle denounced Mr. Brower very severely, saying among other uncivil things, that "the only light about him was the light of putrefaction." But this is the same light which guided Mr. Settle's steps in 1886, 1888 and 1890. Mr. Settle has known Mr. Brower all along. His statements to Mr. Wray and the Messrs. Glenn two years ago demonstrate that fact. Yet he said in his speech at Winston that he would support Brower and do all he could for his election. "The light of putrefaction" was then the only acceptable light in his party. Why this change? Why gag at Browerism now? And what sort of light will

The Week in Congress.

The Senate has nearly completed work on the appropriation bills in its hands. and the silver question being practically disposed of for this session but little work ed in the steel workers something of remains to prolong the session. A basis of settlement is also being reached on such items of the appropriation bills as are in dispute between the two Houses. An adjustment has been reached on the paval, diplomatic, consular, and legislative bills. The House receded from all of its objections to the Senate amendments to the naval bill, and a battleship. torpedo beats and a number of small zunboats are provided for. The other bills were agreed upon by mutual conssions. Considerable time was taken up in the Senate this week in discussing the World's Fair bill. The Senate added an amendment forbidding the opening of the Fair on Sundays, but voted down the anti liquor amendment. A number of new financial bills have been introduced in both Houses, but they will not come to a vote this session. Among important bills introduced are the following: Representative Scott, of Illinois, introduced a bill prohibiting inter State transportation of Pinkertons. Senator Sherman introduced a bill repealing that part of the present silver act which provides for monthly purchases of bullion, to take effect January 1 next. The committee on contingent expenses reported a comprehensive resolution providing for the investigation by a special Senate committee of the Homestead troubles and the organization and employment of Pinkertons. Mr. Peffer offered a bill in the Senate to stop the coining of gold.

Bad Effects of Liquors combined with its great purity should place the Crescent in every first class hotel, club and cafe in this country.

Dr. H. C. Bowker, one of the highest authorities in America on Mineral Water, says: "The Crescent Mineral Water will be found beneficial to those who are troubled with Dyspepsia, Indigestion or Disarrangement of the Digestive Organs. It will also be beneficial in weakness or iseases of the Urinary Organs, or when the blood is impure from symotic dis-eases, improper habits of living, etc." H. L. Bowker. 297 Franklin St., Boston, Mass. The Crescent Mineral Water is put up in glass only, thus insuring perfect purity. Get it of your Druggist, or should he be out of it order direct from the Spring.
