A Case in Point.

Some fifty-three or fifty-four members of the North Carolina State Convention chose to take upon themselves the duty of bringing out Mr. Holden as a candidate for Governer. Not long since the State Convention of Mississippi nominated a candidate for Governor, Mr. Fisher; and an independent candidate, General Humphreys is elected by a large majority over the Convention's candidate. It is very evident from this that the people of Mississippi did not send, delegates to the convention to nominate a governor for them. Neither did the people of North Carolina. The people of Mississippi knew how to rebuke such interference. The people of North Carolina will show at the proper time that they knew what is due to their own self-respect. They will know how to choose a governor of their own selection.

O, Shame where is thy Biush!

The State Convention of Alabama one day repudiates a debt to her people, and the next issues her bonds and ask the public to loan the State two hundred theusand dollars Alabama reminds us of a man we once heard of in these parts. He was arrested by a man whose horse he had sto-en, and when he found he couldn't lie out of the scrape, parts. he acknowledged the theft, and with the most refreshing impudence, asked the owner of the horse to lead him the dollars, to pay his way home on the cars 1 Milledgeväle, Ga., Federal Union, 17th inst.

We regret to have it to say that Alabama no longer stands alone. The Federal Union has learned by this time that North Carolina keeps her company in repudiation.

The Augusta Constitutionalist urges upon the Convention of Georgia the same course which we advocated in this State in reference to the obligations incurred during the war, namely, their paymont at their actual specie value when contracted, and no more. We think this is the position of the more respectable and conservative papers in Georgia.

On making enquiry, we carned that the consignees here, Mesare, Harris & Howell had not received any advices to this effect. The Enell had not reserved any access to the discrete the vessels terps was due here The disy forenoen, and as the vessels of this line have always been so punctual, some unemai-ness has been and is fell at her non-appearance, esperial-ly as any vessel out must have experienced very rough veather in the earlier part of the week.

From the same source we are also informed that the river was again gradually falling.

MISCHIEF .-- Wo'understand that one or two merchanis on the wharf looked in vain yesterday morning for the signs above their doors. Some fast persons must have removed them on the previous night, but for what purpose it is difficult to concave, unless from motives of pure mischief. "They will have their reward."
