General Amnesty_Railroad Schemes before the Legislature_Work Houses_Election of Counsellors of State_U. S. Senator_Rumors in Regard to Federal Matters, &c.

RALEIGH, Dec. 3d, 1866. Dear Journal:-Many subjects of imporsome particular. As enrolled, it will be forwarded.

The subject of railroads is the great question of public interest. Finance and taxation are quiet as yet, waiting the publication of the Revenue bill and report of the Public Treasurer, which will not be laid on the desks of members until to-morrow. But the railroads are in full blast. The officials of every railroad in the State, built, in course of construction, or proposed, save the two roads running North and South through Wilmington, have been in attendance upon the session of the General Assembly since its meeting. I am glad to say that a proper spirit is manifested to encourage all the works where completion will develop the great wealth and resources of the

Our Relations to the Negro.

We are now brought to consider another subject relating to the negro's condition and one upon which his usefulness in the broad field of Southern industry will very greatly depend. The Legislature is now in session, and we feel confident that in devising laws for his government, that body will not let escape its mature consideration the principal means by which the negro may be improved in his own condition, and thereby made a more useful member of the community. With this conviction, we deem it not out of time to present, briefly, some views upon the men of the South taking hold of the negro's education.

Under our former system, when every necessary want of the slave was provided for without his exercising any forethought, no mental development was required, beefficiently for the slave.
