WILMINGTON, N. C. THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1868.

Reported for this Journal. ADDRESS Delivered before the Democratic Club at Cherry Grove, Columbus County, N. C., by Mr. John L. Harden.

Men of Columbus County—I have been solicited to come here to-day to address you concerning the dangers which threaten to destroy the Constitution of our fathers.

"Oh! for a tongue to damn the slave, Whose treason lies a deadly bight, O'ercome our country's name, And blast them in the hour of night.

Men of North Carolina, read the Democratic platform. Who framed its principles? Were they all Democrats of the old school? Not only Democrats, but honest men of all parties, who earnestly desired the welfare of the Union and the overthrow of the Radical party.

Before proceeding further, let us take a hasty glance at the source from whence our troubles sprang, and see how badly, basely and treacherously we have been treated.

In our late civil war you all beheld the two great sections engaged in a struggle for constitutional liberty. It is not my province to-day to say which was right or which wrong, but suffice it to say that we lost. It was promised us that upon the cessation of hostilities, we should have peace, and the Union should be restored.

Actuated by this assurance, the Southern States, as soon as they could do so, held elections. And in conventional assemblies they annulled their law which sprang up with the so-called rebellion; disavowed all policies of the Federal government; abolished slavery, and with one voice implored admission. How were they met? Our petitions were slighted, and our Congressmen, whom we elected legally and constitutionally, were spurned with contempt from the seat of government!

What stigma, then, shall we affix to those who say we are the war party? An assertion so desperately base that it refutes itself. We who are for the Constitution of our fathers, how can we mean war? How can we mean war by protesting against the employment of Holden's militia in time of peace, a measure directly opposite to the old Constitution, and even all the bastard offspring of a similar name spawned forth by motley reconstruction Legislatures.

men only consist of the privilege lately accorded to an ignorant class of voting for men who know not their interests. Poor, benighted countrymen, of the Radical party, you have been deluded by a party crying Union and peace, who are interested to destroy our country.

But they can rain a mottled seed, And sown to couch a spear; St. George, a stirring life they'll lead, Which they have such neighbors near."

Gentlemen, allow me to portray to your view the three grand elements of which the Radical party is composed. There are three parts to it, and although one may be a little less culpable than the others, yet I find them all in one heap of festering carrion that sends its deadly miasma up the nostrils of every honest, brave and patriotic citizen.

The first class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The second class are those who have some degree of information, but who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The third class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The fourth class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The fifth class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The sixth class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The seventh class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The eighth class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The ninth class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The tenth class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

The eleventh class are those who are ignorant, and who are ignorant of the principles of the Constitution. Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

Tools of the leaders, some of them perhaps might be honest, but their information is so small, and their prejudices so strong, that they stand ready to do anything dishonest, however it may be that their leaders tell them.

any, speak, for him have I intended to offend. I hope I have offended none.

I behold in you the offspring of a virtuous, wise and honest ancestry. I behold in you all the noble qualities which are to restore our country to its former glory.

Once more I invite you to a united action. If we succeed in electing our noble champions, misery, want and woe, which appear every where upon the face of our unhappy country, will vanish like the leaves of autumn.

But once forget you are free, and fall to the hands of your oppressors, and you are unworthy of your ancestry. There is no middle ground. To the rescue, every man of you, and all will yet be well; but if that damnable faction is to continue its course of rule and ruin, and at last fasten within its snaky folds our remaining liberty.

Then, men, our souls, to secure seats on high, and let our gross flesh sink downward here to die.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Adopted by the National Democratic Convention, at New York, July 3, 1868.

The Democratic party, in National Convention assembled, in the spirit of the intelligence, patriotism and courage which have distinguished its ranks, stands upon the Constitution as the foundation and limitation of the powers of the Government, and the guaranteeing the liberties of the citizen, and resolutely opposing any and every attempt to subvert the principles of the Constitution, and to restore to the people the right of self-government.

First. The immediate restoration of all the States to their rights in the Union under the Constitution, and of civil government to the American people.

Second. Amnesty for all past political offenses and the regulation of the elective franchise in the States by their legislatures.

Third. The payment of the public debt of the United States as soon as practicable; and that all moneys drawn from the people by taxation, and the obligations of the Government, be not expressly stated upon their face, or the law under which they are issued does not provide that they shall be paid in gold, they ought, in right and in justice, to be paid in the lawful money of the United States.

Fourth. Equal taxation of every species of property according to its real value, including Government bonds and other public securities.

Fifth. One currency for the Government and the people, and the prohibition of the issue of any other currency by the Government, and the prohibition of the issue of any other currency by the Government, and the prohibition of the issue of any other currency by the Government.

Sixth. Economy in the administration of the Government; the reduction of the standing army and navy; the abolition of the Freedmen's Bureau, and all political instrumentalities designed to oppress the colored people, and the simplification of the system, and discontinuance of injurious modes of assessing and collecting Internal Revenue, so that the burden of taxation may be equalized and lessened; the credit of the Government and the currency made good; the repeal of all enactments for enrolling the State militia into national forces in time of peace; the abolition of all duties on foreign imports, and such equal taxation upon the Internal Revenue laws as will afford incidental protection to domestic manufactures, and will not impairing the revenue, impose an undue burden upon and best promote and encourage the great industrial interests of the country.

Seventh. Reform of abuses in the administration, the expulsion of corrupt men from office, the abolition of sinecure offices, the restoration of rightful authority to the executive and judicial departments of the Government, the subordination of the military to the civil power, to the end that the usurpation of Congress and the despotism of the sword may cease.

Eighth. Equal rights and protection for naturalized and native-born citizens at home and abroad, the sacredness of American nationality, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers.

Ninth. The maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers.

Tenth. The maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers.

Eleventh. The maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers, and the maintenance of the respect for foreign powers.
