WAKE FOREST COLLEGE, June 9, '69. Dear Journal:-Before attempting to give you the proceedings proper of the word of the commencement, now in progress at this place, allow me to state a few facts in regard to the present condition of this Institution. At the close of the war it was found that the endowment fund, amounting to more than a hundred thousand dollars, had disappeared, save some two hundred thousand dollars, had disappeared as being soft and plaintive, a little touched with melancholy, and brown curls. She is not yet twenty will see that the treasures affection's garner.

Mr. Sprague is a rich citizen of Chicage, Mr. Sprague is a rich citizen of not more than fifty thousand dollars, apart from buildings, apparatus, &c.

of the Faculty are Rev. W. Royall, D. D.; Professor, W. G. Simmons; Assistant Professors, L. K. Mills and Wm. B. Royall. The number of students for the past year was ninety-eight.

No community is known to your corres perior to that in which this College is located, in moral tone, intelligence or social attractions, and when the health, accessibility, and secluded character of the place are considered, and especially when the adoption of the thorough university Blessing and Enjoyment of Seeing you and of Norris was that of John Raley, who was here. The truth is, Messrs. Editors, our people are not educating as they should.

It is suspected that Norris will have other arrests made. The excitement is very great, and our people are excited and inbelieve there is any necessity for neglect-ing either sex. So highly should the gen-erous and liberal culture of the mind be appreciated, especially in these times, that parents should be willing cheerfully to sacrifice their property, and to endure bless our 2 hearts and soles and be with many privations and hardships in order to educate their children.

In stating that the Institution should have a much larger patronage I did not mean to say that the present or prospective condition of the College is discouraging. On the contrary, the friends of the Institu-tion are full of hope and very sanguine in respect to the future.

The Board of Trustees met on yesterday, and with much other business, elected Rev. J. C. Hiden, of Wilmington, Rev. G. Sauderlin, of Goldsboro, Rev. W. R. Gaultney, of Hillsboro, and W. H Mitchell, of Franklinton, to fill vacancies in the Board. The degree of A. M. was conferred in ty upon Mathew Tyson Yates, of Shanghai, China. Dr. Yates was born in Chatglish merchants of Shanghai, and with other Missionaries from the South.

He proposes to spend some weeks in lecturing in is native State, and should he visit your city go to hear him by all means, for you will be richly repaid. More anon,

A FLIGHT OF NOAH'S DOVE, ETC. Cincinnati, Sept. 5, 1865, Tuesday even-ng.—Dearest and best loved—To-day's post brought me your letter written at Rockford, on Saturday last, and as I have are rather scarce. I feel very sad to think ure. I do not feel happy when I think you are feeling lonely and troubled. I had congratulating myself that my love would enjoy his visit so much. I am very happy to know that thoughts of the absent one are permitted to occupy your mind sometimes. It is very sweet to know that I am loved with a pure and unselfish love. It is the utmost happiness to feel that your heart is entirely mine. My constant prayer is that you may ever love me,

You are the dearest object this world contains to me-how dear and deeply I loved, you may never know. I trust that death may be my fate ere I am made to feel that you have ceased to love me, or your feelings become estranged. Life then will be a burden indeed. I am astonished and hart at the idea you have taken up, that I am dissatisfied with your manner of writing. Your letters are the dearest possession I have with the exception of your miniature. They are my only comfort, and I would not have them in any other The most artistic lines that could be penned by other hands are as nothing to me when compared with the lines of love and affection your fingers have

I will endeavor not to biame you for your seeming coldness and indifference, Axe on for I suppose you cannot help it, and if I could be permitted to read the sentiments of your soul, I trust I should find them to accord with my own. Truth and fidelity, while one pulse of life remains, I hope is written there.

So, my darling, I'll be happy, if heaven upon my Will scatter all the treasures affection's garner

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

WARRENTON, GA., June 8, 1869.

Editors Chronicle & Sentinel: Chap Norris, the notorious scalawag sheriff of this county, who ran away from here several months since when no man was pursuing, returned yesterday with a body guard of one hundred and twentyfive of Uncle Sam's soldiers, which, in addition to the force already here, gives us a garrison of nearly three hundred. Norris brought orders to the commandiag officer from General Terry to recognize him as disliked. This miserable creature com-menced his work of infamy at once, which nary to fill the place of Norris. The foldignant. There is no telling what the re-sult may be if this thing is suffered to go on. Counsel our people to be patient and forbearing under their wrongs. Violence and resistance are to be avoided, but God forbid that our people should be exasperated to desperation. The worst consequences might ensue.

John C. Breckinridge.

The visit of the Hon, John C. Breckinridge to Wisconsin is to look after land which he owns in the northern counties of the State, and in considerable quantities. Mr. Breckinridge appears to be an affable gentleman, and was the centre of attraction at the Newhall yesterday. Several of the old democratic wheel-horses visited him at his room and had a talk with him. One gentleman asked him what he thought of Grant and his administration, and the reply was that the President was smart enough to take care of himself. His cabinet, while none of the best, was just such a one as Grant needed, and was better for his purposes than one of more talent would be. It was not designed to make the administration a brilliant one, and Grant's ambition was to make it an every-day sort of useful affair. He was studying the best way to do this, and Mr. Breckinridge believed he would succeed in a degree suffi-cient to make the people feel easy, although hey would be by no means satisfied.
