Governor Holden's Impeachment

That nasty tenderness which fondles the poor, dear murderer, and says the ravisher has been only too acutely moved by emotions capable of making him a grenadier in Israel if you let him go, is a work to defend Governor Holden, of North Carolina, against the articles of impeachment exhibited against him by the Legislature of that State as a lawless tyrant, an arrester, an imprisoner, a putter upon the rack of honest men unhappily delivered over by circumstances into his oppressive hands. The charges against him are eight in number, with many specifications, each one blacker than the other, and giving name, day, date, fact, and circumstance, accusing him of inciting civil war, of setting on foot a vagabond standing army, of defying the process of the courts and tearing up with ignominy the writ of habeas corpus—hateful alone to tyrants; of arresting and putting into a stinking iron cage, side by side with a murderer in a few days to be hanged, a most estimable private citizen and an unimpeached honest man; of hanging up by the neck another citizen, and letting him down and then up again; of clapping nineteen citizens in one vicinage into jail and eighty-three citizens in another; of drawing out, contrary to all law or forms of law, many thousands of dollars from the State treasury to keep his truculent soldiery on foot; and of repelling by force and fraud the effort to prevent this or any other wrong by him committed in his career as a despot, a fire brand, a kidnapper, brigand, and robber.

It is to be hoped that, above all things, the exactest justice be adhered to in this impeachment matter; that to the last farthing of his rights by the law this accused receives his own; that he be deemed innocent till proven guilty, but, if guilty, out with him. No man mean and malignant enough to insult in the day of his power other men in their low estate has a right to forbearance. We have had so much of this putting of bayonets to honest men's throats and applying of shackles to honest men's legs and arms, that even in the case of this paltry practitioner it concerns the whole country to see him get the fit punishment for such misdeeds. Men have said that the reason why America endures so many public ignominies from their puffed-up and insolent servants is because we have lost the old British pluck which fired at an insult to one man's liberty as a menace to the freedom of the whole commonwealth; because we have become a composite people, and, with something of Latin fire and suppleness gained, have gained also a touch of the Latin disposition to bow. There is perhaps a better reason than this. A great deal of blood has been lost in this part of the world simultaneous with the antics of men in office; and extensive phlebotomising superinduces debility, we know. We have been too tired to object much, but that day is passing, and if this impeached North Carolina Governor be rightly proven guilty, out with him neck and crop. Non ignarus mali is a good rule, if they will take it, for the North Carolinians. In the slang of the day it means, You know how it is yourself. North Carolina has been persecuted by this man, and that should be a most special reason why he should have every possible legal right at her hands; but if, with these rights, proven guilty, let her lay him by the heels.

The Colored West Point Cadet Again in Trouble.

James W. Smith, the colored cadet at West Point, is again in trouble. He has been the cause of no little annoyance to the other students ever since he entered the Academy. All the white cadets have quietly ignored him, and a constant appreciation of this fact may have contributed to render him anything but amiable. His acquirements before entering the Military Academy showed that he had ability above that of the ordinary negro, but the pursuit of his studies at West Point has thus far failed to indicate any brilliancy in him. The curriculum of the Academy is well calculated to test the intellectual powers of any one. Tried according to this standard, he is pronounced by unimpeachable authority to be rather below the medium ability, while it is represented that the higher branches of mathematics would unquestionably bother him. It is somewhat doubtful, however, whether he will have the opportunity of finishing his course at the Academy. Twice he has been brought before military tribunals, and another ordeal is awaiting him. The first was a court of inquiry, which recommended that he be tried on a charge of making false statements; but in deference to his anomalous position, and in order to give him every opportunity, the War Department condoned this, his first offence, in the hope that the lesson would be useful to him. The second was a court-martial, before which he was arraigned for being an accessory to an affray, and for making false statements.

Both courts were organized with a special view to entire impartiality, and were composed of officers, none of whom were stationed at West Point, and most of whom were not graduates of the academy. On his trial before the general court-martial of which Major-General Howard, Chief of the Freedmen's Bureau, was president, the Assistant Professor of Law and Ethics at the Military Academy, by request, acted as his counsel, and with such good faith and ability that he was acquitted on the first charge and the War Department remitted the sentence on the second. These facts demonstrate that even-handed justice has been accorded him by the authorities of the institution, as well as by the War Department. But it would seem that himself of veracity may yet prove the ruin of him. He was recently reported in the usual manner for delinquency on drill.—He made a written explanation of the alleged offence, and this explanation is represented to contain undoubted evidence of what appears to be a chronic weakness of this colored youth—falsification of facts. Upon this charge he is to be again arraigned before a new court-martial, which will soon be appointed for the purpose of trying him. Before the third and impending tribunal the case will rest altogether on its merits. Without doing any wrong to the colored cadet, it is but just to the young gentlemen at the Academy to state that, notwithstanding the natural prejudice against appointing negroes as cadets in that Academy, the other students did not unnecessarily annoy him, as some suppose they did, but simply quietly ignored him and refused to associate with him. Smith was appointed from South Carolina, on the recommendation of Mr. Hoge, member of Congress from Columbia, and it is a curious incident that in the recent election Hoge was defeated for Congress by a negro.

The New Empire—Text of the Address of the Reichstag to the Future Emperor of Germany.

The following is the text of the address to be presented by a deputation of the North German Parliament to King William at Versailles. It was adopted by 191 yeas against 6 nays (Social Democrats:)

Most Illustrious and Most Mighty King! Most Gracious King and Master!—At the call of your Majesty, the people have rallied around their leader, and heroically defends, on foreign soil, the fatherland which had been wantonly challenged. The war demands immeasurable sacrifices, but the deep grief at the loss of her sons does not shake the determined resolution of the nation, who will not lay aside her arms till peace is assured by secure and better protected frontiers against the recurring attacks of her jealous neighbor. Thanks to the victories to which your Majesty has led the armies of Germany in faithful companionship of arms, the nation looks forward to an enduring unity. The North German Parliament, in unison with the Princes of Germany, approaches with the prayer that your Majesty will deign to consecrate the work of unification by accepting the Imperial crown of Germany. The Teutonic crown on the head of your Majesty will inaugurate, for the re established Empire of the German nation, an era of power, of peace, of well-being and of liberty, secured under the protection of the laws. The fatherland thanks its leader and the glorious army, at the head of which your Majesty still dwells, on glorious battle-fields. The devotion and the deeds of its sons will be remembered forever. May it soon be vouchsafed that the Emperor, crowned with glory, shall restore peace to the nation. United Germany has proved itself mighty and victorious in war, and for the leadership of its supreme commander. The united German Empire will be mighty and peace-loving under its Emperor.

Your royal Majesty's most humble and most faithful obedient,

THE REICHSTAG,
Of the North German Band.

From the Altar to the Grave.

From the Washington Star, December 27.

MARRIED.—On Wednesday, December 7, 1870, at Lexington, Ky., Maggie B. Beck, to James Corcoran.

DIED.—December 27, in Washington, D. C., Maggie Beck Corcoran, wife of James Corcoran, aged 21 years.

The first of the above notices was published in the Star about three weeks ago; the other appears in our obituary column to day, and together they tell a sorrowful story. Mrs. Corcoran who stood before the altar a bride just twenty days ago, died of typhoid fever at 11:30 o'clock this morning, at No. 1,509 H street, between Fifteenth street and Vermont avenue. She was well known in Washington society, and fashionable circles generally, being the daughter of Hon. James B. Beck, of Kentucky, and was married as above stated, to Mr. James Corcoran, nephew of W. W. Corcoran, Esq., of this city, on the 7th instant. The marriage was attended with great ceremony, and the bridal pair reached this city on Thursday, the 15th instant, when symptoms of typhoid fever, noticed by some of her friends before her marriage, developed to such an extent that she was soon taken down with the disease which has terminated so fatally. The body is laid out in her bridal dress, and will be removed on Thursday morning next to the residence of Mr. W. W. Corcoran, opposite Lafayette square, from whence the funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The remains will be placed in the chapel at Oak Hill Cemetery for the present, previous to interment in Mr. Corcoran's family lot.

Sale of Bank Effects.

The assets of the old Exchange Bank of Virginia were sold yesterday by Geo. W. Camp, of Norfolk, receiver. The sale was made by Messrs. Cook & Laughton. The articles sold consisted mainly of notes and other evidences of debt, bonds, mostly Confederate, but some few Virginia and North Carolina bonds issued during the war. The sale was made for cash, or notes of the Exchange Bank at fifty cents in the dollar. The aggregate amount of sales was about $150,000, the largest purchasers being Gen. Bradley T. Johnson and Thos Branch, the latter investing about $100,000. Among the articles sold was five millions of dollars in Confederate bonds, which brought $70; one million of dollars of Confederate notes sold for $30; thirteen thousand five hundred dollars in Virginia and North Carolina bonds, issued during the war, sold for $30. The banking-house and lot of the Clarksville branch sold for $3,500, and that at Weston, with nine acres of ground, on which there was a lein of $20,000, sold for $1,500. The individual bonds sold very low as a general thing; two of $25,000 each brought $250 apiece. The attendance was very good, and the bidding on some of the articles very spirited.—Richmond Dispatch.

Extent of the Girard Estate.

From the Doylestown (Pa.) Democrat.

The number of stores and dwellings in the city of Philadelphia belonging to the Girard estate is 187; the number of farms (in the Fifth ward) 15, together yielding a rental of nearly $260 000 per annum. There are also about 13,000 acres of land in Schuylkill and Columbia counties, valuable for coal, farming, and timber purposes. The personal property of the Girard estate consists of stocks and loans having an approximate par value of $618,683.94. The income arising from these sources, is expended for the maintaining of the Girard College for orphans, for the repairing of the real estate, and for the salaries of the officers of the estate, which about absorbs the whole of it. Besides this, Girard left two separate funds—one of $500,000 (executor's valuation), "for the improvement of the eastern front of the city and Delaware avenue," and another of $10,000 (which has since decreased to a little over $9,000) "to purchase fuel for poor white housekeepers." The income arising from both these funds has been regularly appropriated to the prescribed uses.

Jeff. Long, elected to Congress from the Macon district of Georgia, is a negro in the ordinary ranks of negro life in the Southern States, and no doubt to be Radical tenshun, being it is said, impudent, coarse, ignorant, and vulgar. He has been a noisy local whipper-in to the Radical party at all elections held there since the war, and having learned politics and the art of election trickery to a fine, and being personally available, now gets his reward by being sent to Congress.

What the City Press Says:

FREE DRAWING.—Quite a crowd assembled at the theatre yesterday morning to witness the Drawing of the North Carolina Beneficial Association. There were 10,000 numbers put in the wheel, and rolls of paper containing three were placed in a similar wheel, opposite the former. Between the two were a table, at which sat the Judge and Miss Johnstone, Commissioner of Deeds, who drew one roll from each wheel, and read aloud what those rolls contained, until the drawing was finished. The plan of drawing was novel and ingenious, and was done by means of two little boys, who were each blindfolded and drew a roll from each wheel, the wheels and hats of the parties in charge being changed with it. There is no question but that the drawing was done in perfect fairness.—Wilmington Daily Journal, Dec. 31st.

THE GRAND DRAWING INTERESTS.—The grand single distribution of the North Carolina Beneficial Association, which took place at the theatre yesterday, at 1 o'clock, was the largest crowd during the day. The drawing was done in public, a committee having been appointed by the audience to act with the managers in the keeping and execution of the drawing. The crowd was present to witness the drawing, and the following numbers were drawn:

No. 8810, $5,000; No. [illegible], $2,500; No. [illegible], $1,000; No. [illegible], $500; No. 1407, was sold to a negro for $5, and drew $500; No. [illegible], $250; No. [illegible], $250; No. [illegible], $250
