They also met the Modoes, Hooker Jim, Long Jim, Curly Headed Doctor, One Eyed Mouse, Bock Dave, Hump Jerry and Mrs. Hooker Jim, who were all implicated in the massacre. While the Indians were gone to the house to find other male victims these women escaped, and traveled night and day, suffering many hardships, and reached the house of Mr. Rapp in a completely exhausted condition. General Davis received the women kindly, heard their story, assigned them to a tent, and promised to assist to recover their stolen goods. This morning Hooker Jim and Steamboat Frank, who had just returned from a scout after three or four missing Modoes, were taken to the tent occupied by these women .-Hooker Jim was identified by Mrs. Boody as one of the Indians concerned in the massacre. In response to a remark about the robbery of her house, Hooker Jim said that Long Jim took the long purse, and that he (Hooker Jim) took the short purse. At this point of the interview the women became excited and commenced crying and lost all control of themselves and started in for desperate work. Mrs. Scheira drew a pistol and went for Steamboat Frank, and Mrs. Boody drew a knife and dashed at Hooker Jim. General Davis interposed and disarmed both women, receiving, in the struggle, a slight wound in the palm of his hand, near the thumb, by a knife. The savages during this scene stood like statues; they never spoke nor

He does not understand the consequences of turning States evidence. This evening he became greatly excited and gave vent to his rage in a flery oration. Dr. Williams thinks that there will be no serious complaint over Gen. McKenzie's incursion after the Kickapoos, Dr. Williams, however, thinks the Mexicans will use Gen. McKenzie's exploit as a precedent and follow some of the Mansueder Indians into United States territory, which will eventually lead to trouble and plunge the frontier into war. Such a result would, however, be hailed by many as desirable, as it would lead to the carving out of another fat slice from the sick man in the southern border.
