Regre Trial Justice at Chester Instempt of Court.

On Salarday afternoon last us wit-nessed on the streets of Chester a sight which we had thought never to have seen. We saw a respectable white lady being dragged to all by a negro constable for an alleged contempt of a negro court. The lady was Mrs. Wil-liam M. Robins, and the circum-stances under which this shameful in-dignity was perpetrated upon her were diguity was perpetrated upon her were as follows: She had been arrested on Terrible prairie fires are raging through Northwestern Iowa. O'Brien of one Nathan McAhley, another necessary Russian, (Tuday) a county farmers are losing their entire gro, that she had made an assault that of Mrs. Alongo Smith, who, with appearance for trial was being preher little babe, during the absence of pared, she and her counsel were standing at the door of the office conversing.

her husband, and confined to her bed Mrs. Robins remarked that she was by sickness, was burned to a crisp and done with negroes on her plantation; past recognition. Other deaths are that they gave her so much trouble that she did not intend to have any more of them about her. At this SENATOR THURMAN.

Michael flew into a rage, accused her of having insulted him, and ordered that she should be confined in the common jail of the county for twelve hours for a contempt of his court. In vain did she disclaim having said a word about the court; in vain did she deny any purpose to insult the trial justice; in vain her counsel, Gen. Walker, assured the trial justice that the remark had no reference to either him or his court; the commitment was written out, placed in the hands of Isom Grier, a negro, and orders given to him to carry the prisoner to jail.— The poor woman was led off terror-stricken at the idea of being incarcerated in jail, and at the unparalleled His speeches in the Senate show a outrage that was being perpetrated upon her, and this manifestation of fear on her part gave occasion to a growd of savage and fleudish negro women to gather around the constable and exult in the spectacle. The husband of the unfortunate lady could think of nothing else to do than to run to Judge Mackey for assistance. The indge came upon the scene and by some means induced Michael to countermand his order and discharge the prisoner. This is the plain, unvar-nished story. We will not trust ourself to make any comments, but will leave it for every white man who reads it to indulge in such reflections as the HANDSAPOLIO bare recital of the facts may call up in

It is also urged as an additional reason for delay that the influence of the accused parties has been exerted to postpone action as long as possible. However this may be, the possible. However this may be, the committee met on Thursday evening of last week, when the subject was brought up and the propriety of proceeding fully discussed. After a protracted debate it was resolved that the matter should be disposed of with as little further delay as possible; and it was also decided that but one case should be taken up at a time. It was then decided to take up the charges against Mr. Thodore Tilton first, and the clerk was instructed to issue the proper distion to that gentleman to appear before the committee and make his answer to the charges. This will bring the case against him directly to to issue, when the investigation can proceed without the waste of more committee met on Thursday evening to issue, when the investigation can proceed without the waste of more

A Strange Story from Cape May-A Long Lost Son Returns.

A special dispatch to the Philadelphia Bulletin from Cape May city, Oc-toher 23d, says; About twenty years ago Captain Baymore, lying with his vessel in the port of New Orleans, had with him his little son, three years of age, who, while playing around the docks, was suddenly missed. Every effort was used to find him, even to searching in the river, but all was unavailing, and he was given up as drowned. A day or two ago a stranger, with a heavy black beard, and language of strong German accent, made his appearance and claimed to be the long lost son .-From his story it seems that he was stolen by a Dutch captain, who cared for him and educated him as his own The boy always supposed that he was his father until otherwise informed by the Dutch skipper on his death bed, who gave him his real father's name and told him that he used to live somewhere in Cape May county, N.
