A recent writer expressed the opintion that we ought judiciously to combine utility with beauty on our lawns and among our roadsides by planting nut-bearing trees instead of those which only serve the single purpose of shade. What, he asks, can be more stately than the column of green formed by a well grown tree of the common shelbark hickory? What more beautiful than the young trees, with their tiful than the young trees, with their smooth, gray bark and gracefully curved limbs? The nut is well known as unsurpassed in flavor; and no doubt by careful selection of the seed, trees might be produced combining the high-est beauty of form with the greatest excellence of fruit.

DEAR SIRE: During a long residence in China I have used your sainable Pain. Either, both in my own family and among the Chinese, and have found it a most excellent medicine. In the Summers of 1803 and 1863, while resisting in the Summers of 1800 and 1803, while resisting in Snanghal, I found it an almost certain cure for cheiera, if used it time. Indeed, using it in a great many instances, I do not remember failing in a single case. For three years I have been residing in this prace, more than fitty miles from a physician, and have been obliged often to fail upon my own resources in case of sickness. The Chinese come to us in great numbers for medican and advice. Though without knowledge cureives, the few simple remedies we can command are so much in advance even of their physicians, that we have almost d-liy applications. We allow them to come, because it broags us in contact with them and opens a door of usefulness. In distribus, vonit ain, cholten, conjug, cholten, congles, etc., your s ain-Killer has been my chief medicine. Tours, very truly, REV. T. P. GRAW FORD, Tungchow, China.
