LOUISIANA

THE SUB-COMMITTEE IN WASHINGTON.

GRANT URGED TO "BE BRIEF" IN HIS MESSAGE.

THE OUTRAGE COMMITTEE DIS-SATISFIED WITH THE SUB-COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

A SWEEPING REPORT FROM THE SUB-COMMITTEE.

ANOTHER FLAT CONTRADICTION FOR THE REPUBLICAN LIAR.

SCHURZ MAKES A POWERFUL SPEECH IN THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—Noon.—The Sub-Committee appointed by the House Special Committee on Southern Affairs, which has been investigating matters in Louisiana for some weeks past, returned to Washington last night. Its members, Foster, of Ohio, Phelps, of New Jersey, and Potter, of New York, are necessarily reticent as to giving expression to their views in advance of their presentation to the full Committee, and of the maturing and making of its report to the House. Enough is known, however, to authorize the statement that there is no conflict of opinion among the members of the sub-Committee as to the principal points in controversy. The action of the returning Board, in throwing out the returns of certain parishes in which Conservatives were elected, and in giving certificates to some Republicans who were not elected, will be denounced as an illegal, an unwarranted exercise of authority. The testimony taken before the Committee does not sustain the charges of violence and intimidation towards negro voters, but rather tends to establish the fact that large numbers of negroes voted the Democratic ticket from a conviction that in doing so they were advancing their own interests and the interests of the State. It is a mere matter of confidence as to what course of policy the Committee will recommend, but the probabilities are that it will be in the direction of a new election. The excitement in New Orleans when the Committee left that city was intense, but there was no likelihood, whatever, of its being manifested in any general outbreak. The Kellogg government is submitted to only under the pressure of the military power of the United States, and in the expectation and belief that Congress will devise and adopt some means that will restore the Commonwealth to the control of its own citizens.

The message of the President will be very short. He will simply say that the reasons for his action will be found in the accompanying documents. These documents comprise all the papers in the Executive and Attorney General's offices affecting Louisiana. A special meeting of the Cabinet about Louisiana is progressing. The message will not go in to-day. The President's friends urge him to say as little as possible.

The Republican says: "Arms sent to the Republicans of Saturday the majority of the Southern Outrage Committee are entirely dissatisfied with the action of the Sub-Committee which had been sent to New Orleans. As the only possible way of mending the matter, they have agreed to go themselves as an entire Committee and take the necessary testimony. With this end in view they straggled to start for the scene of their labors last night."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—Night.—The statement telegraphed from the Republican that the whole committee had started for New Orleans was wild. There is, however, no doubt of its departure. It is stated as indicative of the character of the report, that Potter, the Democratic member of the Committee, has been selected to phrase it.

The Cabinet meeting was for the consideration of the special message on Louisiana affairs, but that not being ready, the session was devoted to a conversation over orders there.

The message will be considered in the regular Cabinet meeting to-morrow.

The Star says: The full Committee on Southern Affairs met this morning to confer with the Sub-Committee, who went to New Orleans to investigate the condition of affairs in Louisiana. It is indicated through the evidence submitted, that they will report: First, that at the late election in Louisiana there was no intimidation of colored voters; Second, that the White League discussed, but voted down a proposition to discharge servants who voted the Republican ticket; Third, that the Returning Board was a fraud; Fourth, that the U. S. troops executed the orders issued by Marshal Packard on election day; Fifth, that the disorder in the Louisiana Legislature had ceased and the meeting was entirely orderly and quiet at the time Gen. De Trobriand entered the hall to arrest the members; Sixth, that the only request speaker Wiltz made of Gen. De Trobriand was to keep order in the lobby outside of the hall; Seventh, that the people of Louisiana generally have no sympathy with the Kellogg government, and that the colored men who say they are National Republicans, proclaimed themselves as State Democrats in order to get rid of Kellogg; Eighth, that the police forces in New Orleans are demoralized.

SENATE.—A resolution was passed calling for Major Merrill's report of the Couhatta affair. The Major on one hand was denounced as a ruffian, and on the other defended as a rough soldier.

The assassination of Grant was discussed with much laughter, and threats were made to clear the galleries.

Schurz spoke in his resolution, instructing the Judiciary Committee to report what legislation was necessary to secure a Republican form of government to the people of Louisiana.

Schurz, in speaking of the Louisiana troubles, said that he approached the subject in no party spirit, as he was about to retire to private life. The success of no party would benefit him, nor the defeat of any injure him. The subject now before the Senate was so great that passion or prejudice should find no place in the breasts of Senators in discussing it. He did not think the debate of last week premature or an advance of the facts—all the important facts of the case were in possession of the Senators. He then reviewed the scenes in Louisiana of Monday last attending the organization of the Legislature, the interference of the military, &c., and said that if such interference be permitted in Louisiana, who could tell how long it would be before a general of the army might occupy the chair of the Vice President in this body to determine contested election cases. He commented upon the general condition of affairs in the South, and said he would lead the day as a most auspicious one for the colored people of the South, when they threw off the scandalous leadership of those adventurers who, taking advantage of their ignorance, made them tools for their rapacity. The people of the South were not murderers and banditti. There were bad elements among them, but the National Government itself was giving to these bad elements a strength which they never would have possessed otherwise. By its unconstitutional proceedings it put every one of these bad men in the position of being oppressed and pleading for freedom. He argued that Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia, where self-government was mobstrated, were advancing in prosperity, while in Louisiana and in other States where self-government was obstructed, there was no prosperity. He thought the lawlessness of power was becoming far more dangerous than the lawlessness of a mob. The Conservatives of Louisiana did carry the late election and were defrauded of it by the returning Board. No man would be able to obscure the real question before the Senate by any flimsy side issues. He hoped that his motion to instruct the Judiciary Committee would not result in a bill for a new election in Louisiana, with General Sheridan as the chief ruler and a Packard to conduct the campaign. No measure would avail which did not boldly vindicate the constitutional privileges of the land and preserve to the State the right of self-government. Morton followed with his usual speech.

HOUSE.—Among the bills introduced to-day was one by Berry, of Ohio, to abolish the office of Lieutenant-General.

The following, introduced by Hawley, of Illinois, was referred to the Judiciary Committee: A joint resolution requiring that at the election held in November, 1872, in Louisiana, Wm. P. Kellogg claimed to be elected Governor; that he and the other officers holding under him have since exercised all the functions of their several offices; that the President of the United States, in a special message to Congress, on January 23d, 1873, invited attention to the Louisiana question, and to the fact that the Courts had recognized the validity of the Kellogg government; that unless Congress order otherwise the President would continue to recognize the Kellogg government; that, at Kellogg's suggestion, the President furnished United States troops, and as Congress has not taken any action, and therefore recognizing that the existing government in Louisiana, as represented by W. P. Kellogg, as Governor, is the lawful government of said State; that said government is Republican in form, and that Kellogg should be sustained by the United States forces, when called upon to do so, and that persons who have been guilty of disturbances should be punished.

The following confirmations were made to-day: That of Virginia, Commissioner of Patents; Spear, of Maine, Assistant; Hopkins, of Virginia, First Examiner.

Nominations: Booker, Minister to Russia; Theodore Canevas, of Illinois, Consul at Bristol; George Manly, of Tennessee, Minister at Equador.

The Consular Appropriation Bill has passed the House.
