THE MEDICAL MEETING AT LOUISVILLE.

FRUIT TREES IN WASHINGTON UNINJURED.

CONGRESSMAN KELLEY'S RETURN FROM A SOUTHERN TOUR.

UNQUALIFIED TESTIMONY IN FAVOR OF THE SOUTH.

NO MORE NEED FOR TROOPS THERE THAN IN PENNSYLVANIA OR OHIO.

THE COUNTRY TREMBLING ON THE VERGE OF FINANCIAL RUIN.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—Night.—The Navy Department has assigned a staff to represent it at the meeting of the American Medical Association, to be held at Louisville on the 4th proximo. The fruit trees in this vicinity are uninjured. The recent rains have helped the wheat.

Judge William D. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, returned from a six weeks tour in the South to-day, and bears most emphatic testimony against the Southern policy of his own party in the last Congress. When asked to-night what the thought of the political condition of the South, he used these words: "The vote I most regret during my fourteen years in Congress, is that which I cast last winter in favor of the Force Bill." He further said that so far as his observation went, during his extended tour, there was no more necessity for the use of Federal military force than there is in Pennsylvania or Ohio. He talked with Confederate soldiers, with Northern men, negroes, carpet-baggers and travelers, and he was surprised at the good feeling existing. He said he should hereafter take little stock in Southern outrages, especially if they are reported as occurring in the sections he visited.

He gave an example of the feeling in the South by relating what he himself saw in Augusta, being himself unknown. He happened to be in that city on the day chosen for decorating the graves of the Confederate dead. He remained and observed closely the proceedings. A long procession marched through the streets with engines, civic organizations, &c., it being treated as a general holiday. Judge Kelley observed the significant fact that while men and women were gathered for the purpose of paying tribute to the memory of the dead Confederate soldiers, the principal music on the occasion was furnished by the band belonging to a regular U. S. Infantry regiment stationed in the vicinity. There were no tannets, no insults, no complaints, and no appearance of ill-feeling anywhere visible.

While absent, Judge Kelley spent from two days to a week in each of the following cities, stopping frequently at places of less consequence, viz: Richmond, Charleston, Columbia, Savannah, Jacksonville, Atlanta, Augusta and Aiken.

The most of his time was spent in Florida. He says, so far as he saw, and he went with eyes and ears open, there was no feeling of fear or distrust on the part of the colored people, and he could not, for the life of him, see what use there was for force bills.

He was very glad to have made the trip, for it has enabled him to understand the condition of the South better than he has ever understood it before. He said it was not the Ku Klux that was ruining the South, nor was their unhappy condition to be attributed to the hatred of the Southern people to the people of the North, nor was any political question involved; he thinks the whole trouble in the South arises from financial and industrial causes, and he believes that the South will not improve until Congress repeals the financial legislation of the forty-third, until the industries of the country are ruined and we are forced to live within our income, the South will grow wiser instead of better. As matters are going now, the Judge thinks that not only that the South and Southwest will be involved in ruin, but the country itself will be hopelessly insolvent. The treasury he thinks is already empty, work is stopping in the navy yards, on the public works, buildings, &c., for the money has run out. The receipts are not equal to the expenditures, and a day of settlement is not far off.

He was asked how long the Treasury would hold out, and he answered that unless there is an improvement in the customs and internal revenue receipts the Treasury will be empty by September next. Judge Kelley called on Secretary Bristow, and had a long talk on financial matters, but did not succeed in obtaining any new information from the Secretary. The Judge asked him how soon he would begin to buy currency again. The Secretary did not seem to like the way of stating it, but he was told by the Judge that he thought he had used the right term. He did not think it was selling gold, but buying currency, which is necessary for daily use. He told the Secretary that the South, the West and the whole country would never recover while the effort was being made to bring about specie payments by contracting the currency.
