postal revenues, amounting to several hundred dollars. This is the fourth successive Postmaster who has been prosecuted for embezzlement during the past four years.

What the Nervous Stequire. What the nervous require more than anything else, is invigoration, Scdatives alone will not cure nervousness. The reason that the nerves are so susceptible is that they are weak. Com-pensate for this deficiency of strength, and over-acute nervous sensibility disappears. The most rational, wholesome, and agreeable tonic is Hostet-ter's Stomsca Bitters. Medical men recommend its use for the cure of general debility, knowing it to possess strength-giving properties of the high-est order, and at the same time to be a means of reforming those bodi y irregularities which induce nervousness and loss of vigor. It is the bes known remedy for dyspepsis, whether nervous or bilious, and is powerfully conservative of a regular habit of body. As it is notorious that those who are afflicted with weak nerves, biliousness or constipation, are pecuria, it is invaluable to such persons on account of its preventive efficacy. It endows the body with health, and the mind with cheerfulness.

Of the same name with himself he wrote to him immediately and since then they had kept up a very pleasant correspondence, and at Dr. Pritchard's invitation the young stranger had joined them in their Southern Convention at Charleston, and had come to this city, and would now have something to say to the congregation. Mr. Pritchard then delivered a short and earnest discourse which was worded beautifully, and full of good matter, and at its close Dr. Pritchard asked the brethren up to get acquainted and shake hands with the young stranger. All this came from wearing the same name.
