EDITORIAL NOTES. Mr. Hill, Multistate Secretary of State of Mississippi, was nominated for Congress on Saturday, by the Convention at Jackson, on the 15th ballot.

Sax Francisco is to build a separate establishment for the 161 colored children in her limits, as the authorities will not allow them to attend the public schools.

On Cape Horn, on the route to Sacramento, the railroad runs within four or five feet of the edge of a precipice fourteen hundred feet in height, and that round a frightful curve. The iron horse does not get giddy fortunately.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says it is stated on good authority that evidence has been discovered within the past few days which will incipitate great officials, occupying a much higher position than any heretofore mentioned, as being implicated in the late whisky frauds.

This sudden change of tactics by the Ohio Republicans from attacking the Democrats on the currency plank to assisting them on the public school question is attributed to the advice of Morton. At present the campaign is conducted almost entirely upon the religious issue, which is believed to be a point in favor of the Democracy.

It has been sagely said that the newspaper is the handmaid of civilization. No family can hold its place in society without it. The man needs it for information about markets and politics; the woman needs it as a diversion from her household cares and family duties; the young need it for both amusement and instruction.

The New Orleans Picayune in one of its financial articles says: "The people who sit nervously in counting-houses, or behind their goods, waiting for customers to take them by storm, and making no efforts to let the world know the bargains they have to offer, will find the season very unpropitious."

Mrs. Annie Brewster, writing to the Philadelphia Bulletin, given a shocking account of the widow of Maximilian. She says that loving friends have sent forth beautiful fabrics concerning her condition, "but unhappily the reality is as revolting as the romance is attractive. The empress, instead of being better in health, is close at hand. For some time her insanity has taken the most brutish form. She never leaves her bed, and has all the habits of an animal. The poor Queen of Belgium has been unable for two years to bear the disgusting sight of unburied Carlotta, but now, as she cannot live many months, the Queen goes constantly to her. This is the sad truth."

EX-SENATOR HENDERSON, the last standard-bearer of the Republicans in Missouri, accepts the proposed new State Convention framed by the Democracy, and announces his intention of supporting it without reservation. Of 119 papers published in the State, 111 are for the adoption, and three of the remaining eight are opposed to it because, as the St. Louis Republican says, "There is too much sterling Democracy and too little Democratic party in it to be agreeable to them."

At present the tax rate in St. Louis is $3.48. Under the new constitution the highest possible tax rate for all purposes will be $2.85.

The Richmond Whig counsels the southern men who are to be members of the next house of congress to be moderate in their temper and manners. It says that southern men are free and frank in speech; they are men of spirit, and sometimes they are impulsive, and in extemporaneous discussion in congress, unless they are very guarded, they may be betrayed or provoked into imprudent expressions. There was no fault to be found with the representative men of the south in the last congress, and we believe there will be none with those who are in this. Ransom, Gordon, Lamar, and others have set good examples for their southern colleagues who are now coming into active cooperation with them.

THE CONVENTION. Our 3-legible reports give the organization of the Convention so far as it has progressed; and in spite of the petty partisanship of Governor Brogden, by which the people of Orange county were deprived of their full representation, the Democrats have secured control of the body. We suppose, to-day the organization will be completed, and soon the committee will have been appointed and work will be begun in earnest. We are satisfied that if Republican votes are needed to prevent an immediate adjournment, they can be had, some because they earnestly desire Constitutional reform, and others because they earnestly desire their per diem, to say nothing of the honor of sitting in so distinguished a body. Indeed, with comparatively few was there any real purpose to adjourn the Convention.

And now what? Is there a sufficient majority of good men and true to accomplish any substantial work of reform? This we cannot tell with any certainty at present. We hope there is. We know enough of the material of which a large majority of the Democrats are composed, to feel satisfied that there will be an honest and an earnest effort to do something for the permanent welfare of North Carolina, before they will voluntarily surrender back their trusts into the hands of their constituents. It seems hardly possible that a body composed of such men, can fail to do something for the suffering people of the State. We shall look with much anxiety to the earliest outcropping of their purposes, with hope rather than with fear.

GOVERNOR McCreery, of Kentucky, in response to a serenade at Lexington, made a speech, in which he took occasion to refer to the contest in Ohio. He expressed a warm admiration for Governor Allen, and expressed the belief that he would be elected by an overwhelming majority, and that Ohio would sound the note that would carry dismay into the ranks of the Republican party throughout the country.
