EDITORIAL NOTES.

TWENTY-one out of twenty-one German papers in Iowa support the Democratic ticket.

A STATUE will be erected at the capitol of Texas, to the memory of Gen. Sam Houston.

MRS. LINCOLN continues to improve. It is expected she will shortly visit her sister, Mrs. Edwards, at Springfield, Illinois.

CASSIUS M. CLAY, of Kentucky, will speak at Akron, Ohio, on Thursday, Sept. 30, for the Democracy of that State.

CELLULOID is a new chemical combination said to be indurated gun cotton champhor. It is coming into extensive use for combs, cheap jewelry, harness trimmings, knife handles, and like articles which have hitherto been made of ivory, bone, coral and hard rubber. Its substance is certainly peculiar. A delicately formed finger ring cannot be broken by a heavy blow with a hammer, but when brought in contact with fire it ignites and burns as quickly as a parlor match. This is a rather serious defect in the article, which is handsome as ivory, and can be manufactured of varied colors. A manufactory of celluloid at Newark, last week, exploded, causing loss of life and much damage to property.

THE question of universal suffrage is now being wrestled with in Spain. That romantic country has tried everything in the government line except unlimited suffrage, and it is now proposed to essay that relic of evil policies. It is said that the proposition does not meet with favor from the aristocrats or from the conservatives of Spain, who argue that the peasantry have neither sufficient desire to comprehend the issues of public policy and national needs, or enough direct personal and pecuniary interests in affairs of state to enable them to be lawful and equitable judges of the great question now at issue in that country. The brave assertion that universal suffrage is a good thing on paper, but sometimes a bad thing at the ballot-box, is being ventilated in Spain.

EX SENATOR Doolittle, of Wisconsin, in an address last Wednesday at the Winnebago County (Ill.) Agricultural Fair, proposed a novel scheme for reform in elections. His plan includes the following measures: (1) The subdivision of electoral precincts until not more than 750 votes shall be in any one, a legal requirement that every citizen who cannot give a good excuse shall attend and vote at all elections, and minority representation to elections (popular) of judges and clerks of election; (2) in cities of more than thirty thousand inhabitants the name and residence of each voter to be publicly read before his ballot is deposited, and public proof of his identity and qualification to be given on the spot and under oath, if challenged; and (3) that heads of families shall be allowed two votes, one for themselves and the other as representatives of their families.

JEFFERSON DAVIS began his speech at Fulton, Mo., on Saturday week, with these words: "I would that it were possible for me to say to you anything as acceptable to you as that once familiar shout I heard this morning was to me; that ring of the American voice which, of whatever section, of whatever political party it may belong, is enough to strike terror into the heart of anybody except an American. For yours is the glory to be a people who have run over those that others could not conquer. You marched, a little band, to the City of Mexico, and not all the power of the great military Government of France could reach that city triumphant. Thus it was that you carried on with each other a struggle which, when foreign nations came to an equal conflict, lasted for months, while yours endured for years. Understand me, then, I speak to you as Americans. I lift myself out of whatever there is of sectional or party prejudice, and I hail you all as brethren."

INDUSTRIAL ENTERPRISES.

Many circumstances have combined to turn the attention of our more enterprising and moneyed citizens to new sources of investments for their labor and their capital. Before the war, so well-to-do had our people become by planting, that almost all of our surplus wealth found remunerative and congenial employment and investment in those slaves and broad acres, and very much of the wealth of the South was thus occupied.

The result of the war has, of course, worked considerable change in this respect. Our planters and farmers yet embrace many of our leading citizens, but money heretofore invested in slaves, now seeks other channels. And they find in many cases that fewer acres subserve their purposes. This has forced our planters to seek other sources of investment, and we are glad to know that manufacturing has engaged, and is engaging, their attention to a considerable degree. When conducted with skill and intelligence, it has proved the most profitable and the most beneficial for our section.

During the past few years, factories have been and are being erected all over our State. We are constantly hearing of stock companies being formed to erect factories. One lately formed in this city has now in operation a magnificient establishment, the success of which seems assured. In Richmond county several new enterprises are on foot, some of which will soon be completed. In the Central and Western portions of the State, we hear of others, while the citizens of Newhern are at work to erect a factory in that city. Still the Eastern portion of the State, in which most of the cotton is raised is not giving as much attention to this subject as its importance and its benefits deserve. Still now and then we hear of vast undertakings in this line through individual enterprise of which the public are not advised.

During a recent brief and pleasant trip to Enfield, to visit friends and relatives, and while the guest of our kinsman, Dr. J. T. Bellamy of that place, we rode out to examine his fine factory building, just completed at the falls of Fishing Creek, a few hundred yards west of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad. The building is of a dark gray granite, cut from the banks of the creek near by, three stories high, the floors being seventy by forty feet. The factory is on the south-west bank of the creek, which is about one hundred and fifty yards wide. On the opposite bank is a fine grist and saw mill. The houses for the operatives are on the north-east bank on a high hill, nearly completed, except the church and school house and superintendents quarters. The dam is a substantial one with eleven feet fall. The creek or rather river is navigable above the factory for several miles above into the heart of Nash county.

Dr Bellamy has an American Turbine wheel, which will soon be placed in position, and he is about to contract for the machinery and expects to begin work with the new year or shortly thereafter.

It is just such bold, liberal and enterprising men who are the best friends of North Carolina in her present crisis—men who having the means, have the pluck and the energy to build up the waste places, and while adding to their own estates, give to their less fortunate neighbors. North Carolina will yet be indebted to such true sons for new life and a renewed prosperity. We hope to see such example multiplied.

TAXING MANUFACTURING ENTERPRISES

Our cotemporary, The Morning Star, recommends that the Convention pass an ordinance "exempting for a term of years all manufactories that shall be established in the State." This is a matter of importance, and it was one of the reasons given by THE JOURNAL for the call of the Convention. But it must be recollected that such violent opposition to the movement was disclosed inside and outside of the Democratic party, that the friends of the Convention only succeeded in securing the passage of the act calling the Convention by making many concessions to anti-Convention Democrats and quasi-Convention Republicans in the way of restrictions. Among other matters in which the "Convention shall have no power to consider, debate, adopt or propose any amendment to the existing Constitution," is the following: "nor to alter or amend section three or five of said Constitution." Now section three, article five reads as follows: "Laws shall be passed taxing, by uniform rule all moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint stock companies or otherwise," &c.

We would like very much to see an ordinance passed exempting such property from taxation for a term of years, but we refer to the fact that this is beyond the power of the Convention, to shield them from any censure for a failure to do so. Under the restrictions and their oaths it is impossible to. We regret it, as the delegates themselves doubtless do.

LAGER beer, just received in ice from St. Louis direct. The following is the result of the analysis made by W. G. Conrad, Chemist of the United States Naval Laboratory, New York.
CONCLUSION FROM THE ANALYSIS OF THE QUALITY.

The quality of this beer, as shown by our analysis, is superior by its pureness, as no extraneous matter could be detected. The large amount of extract substance (malt being used in extraordinary great quantities, which, having been roasted, gives the beer that peculiar flavor of fresh bread) makes this beer a very nourishing and highly recommendable drink for medicinal purposes. A such good quality of this beer is that it keeps in good condition under all circumstances.
