Serviced by Carriers in the city at SEVENTY-FIVE cents per month, or TWO DOLLARS and TWENTY-FIVE cents per quarter.

EDITORIAL NOTES. A MILITARY funeral took place at Mount on Sunday at the Protestant cemetery. The French Canadians of the city made the mistake of believing it to be unburied General's funeral and swarmed to the cemetery in thousands. Grave as the occasion was, it led to a lively fight and much excitement ensued.

THE CREW PRINCE OF GERMANY will certainly be one of the many wonders of the Centennial. It is announced that the eighteen-gun corvette Elizabeth is to bring him to America. Every American will be delighted to welcome the splendid soldier Prince to our shores. As to the Germans in the United States—well, it will be fortunate if the Prince's visit does not occasion a famine in lager.

THE MASSACHUSETTS election is also for Governor, that official being chosen annually. William Gaston, the present Governor, who is the candidate for re-election, was chosen last year by 7,452 majority over Thomas Talbot, Republican. Mr. Talbot, who had been Governor for an unexpired term, was a strict temperance advocate, and was opposed by the entire liquor interest, their opposition not being made against the balance of the Republican State ticket, which was chosen by majorities ranging from 12,000 to nearly 23,000.

FOR MANY YEARS past, in Maryland, the Democrats have uniformly carried the elections, their majority at the last General State election, that of 1873, when a State Comptroller was chosen, having been 19,983. This year the Democratic candidate for Governor is John Lee Carroll, who was nominated by the Democratic Convention after a bitter contest. Accusations of corruption were made against his supporters, who were also charged with not conducting the affairs of the State government as they ought and the party divided, a faction, the strength of which is not very clearly estimated, forming a coalition with the Republicans, and nominating J. Morrison Harris as the Democratic Reform and Republican candidate. The chances favor the election of Carroll.

AS TO NEW YORK, the Democrats elected Gov. Tilden last year by 50,317 majority. This year the candidates for Secretary of State, the chief officer to be voted for, are John Bigelow, Democrat, and Frederick W. Seward, Republican. Much of the interest in the New York election is just now absorbed in the contest in New York city for the local offices, where the various parties opposed to Tammany Hall have united upon a ticket in opposition to the one put in the field by that organization. In Minnesota, the Republicans elected Chief Justice McMillan last year by 9,885 majority, and Gov. Davis, in 1873, by 5,519 majority. There is a Governor to be chosen this year. In Wisconsin, in 1873, the Democrats and Liberal Republicans were successful over the Regular Republicans, and elected Gov. Taylor by 15,412 majority, and a Governor is also to be chosen this year. Minnesota and Wisconsin are what have heretofore been known as "Granger" States, and in each, in 1873, the "Patrons of Husbandry" or "Grangers" were allied with the successful party. As a political force, however, the "Grangers" are not now regarded as of so much importance as they were some time ago, and this may affect the elections next month. These six States will hold the most important of the November elections, from a political standpoint. In New Jersey there will be members of the Legislature chosen, and their selection is of local importance, owing to the legislation rendered necessary by the recent adoption of amendments to the New Jersey Constitution.

THE ELECTIONS NEXT MONTH.

The Nashville American gives some interesting information concerning the elections which will take place next month. About one half the States of the Union are getting ready for the elections yet to come of this year. The most of these elections will be held November 2d, but three States are yet to vote this month. Next Monday Oregon is to elect a member of Congress, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Geo. A. La Dow, Democrat, who was chosen at the last Oregon election. Besides Henry Warren, Republican, and Lafayette Lane, Democrat, the candidates of the regular parties, there is an independent candidate in the field, Mr. George W. Whitely. Next Monday Colorado will also hold an election for members of the Convention to frame the Constitution for that State, preparatory to her admission to the Union next year. On October 30th Missouri will vote for or against the ratification of the new Constitution adopted by her Convention last August.

Nearly all the interest attaches to the November elections. On the 2d a large number of States choose members of their Legislatures and county and municipal officers, while in six States, where State officers are to be chosen, the elections are of most importance. These six States are Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maryland, Wisconsin, Minnesota and New York—all having Governors to elect excepting New York, where the chief officer to be filled is Secretary of State. At the last general elections in each of these States, excepting Minnesota, the Democrats were successful, and in order to judge intelligently of the prospects of each at the approaching November election, we will give a brief statement of the elections in each State. In Pennsylvania, Judge Cyrus L. Parshing is the Democratic candidate for Governor, Governor Hartranft, the Republican candidate for re-election, and R. A. Browne, the Temperance candidate. For State Treasurer, the other State office to be filled, the candidates are Henry B. Weir, Republican, Victor E. Fiollet, Democrat, and Elijah F. Pennypacker, Temperance. Last year Lieutenant-Governor Latta, Democrat, was elected by 4,679 majority, the Temperance party, then as now, having a third candidate in the field, Benjar in Rush Bradford, who got 4,632 votes.

This year the Republican candidate for Governor is Alexander H. Rice, of Boston, and the Labor Reformers and Temperance party have also placed tickets in the field, so that the Massachusetts voters will have four candidates to choose from.

WHAT GENERAL HANCOCK SAID.

North Carolina has no more gallant and able son, and Virginia no more true and noble friend, than General J. W. Lee, our United States Senator, who spoke here last Wednesday night, in support of the Conservative Legislative "ticket" General Hancock especially displayed the introduction of a resolution and personal preferences to the party at this time of all time when there exists the most urgent necessity for harmony and united action. He referred to the recent Democratic defeat in Ohio, but thought that might prove of ultimate advantage to Conservatism. The struggle in Petersburg involved graver possibilities to the party than the Ohio election, and to be beaten here would prove the entering wedge of disaster, which might lead to the defeat of the Democratic Presidential candidate in the centennial year. Therefore, he adjured all our people to lay aside questions of personal liking and dislike, and combine to elect their ticket, North Carolina, which had been so encouraged and enthused by the noble and manly struggle which our people made in the spring of 1874, to achieve their freedom, was now watching their action with eager attention. Conservative defeat would here be attended with the direst results, and would be hailed with exultation by the Radicals from Maine to California. Let our people reflect that so clear-headed a statesman as Senator Hancock, tells them that this is the initial skirmish of the great presidential battle, and that the loss of their city may prove even greater injury to the cause of Conservatism, victory than the loss of the great Commonwealth of Ohio.
