Contracts for longer periods and longer source made upon liberal terms. ENGRIHARD & SAUNDERS. Wilmington, N. O. HON. A M. WADDELL. We publish the first balf to-day and will conclude to-morrow the speech of make him a prominent figure, our able representative in Congress, delivered at the recent Fair of the Cumberland County Agricultural Society. He has shown good judgment in the selection of his subject, and ability in its treatment. The question of finances, more than any other, will claim the attention of Congress, and will probably shape the next Presidential canvass. Colonel Waddell, therefore, in addressing his constituents chose wheely in selecting a subject of chose wisely in selecting a subject of strength. The fact is members, espe chose wisely in selecting a subject of so much interest to them. The people mined in their own minds as to the of the South, more than those of any way they will vote. Many of them other section of the Union, have suffered from the financial legislation of the country. Having already been public sentiment before acting. A prostrated and needing the protection prominent Southwestern member of wise and just legislation, they were illy prepared for the crisis through that the Speakership should not go East, and says that so far as he has obwhich the country is being served the first choice of his section is which the country is being served the first choice of his acction is forced. Colonel Waddell's views for a Western or Southern man. Kerr. upon this important matter Saylor of Ohio, Lamar or Hanceck which we have heretofore published in a series of able and interesting letters.

There is evidently the feeling among Western men here that their section should be honored, but they seem to have first mean no one candidate. Cumberland speech are those of the wiser and more Conservative statesmen of the South and West, and will meet the south and West, and will meet the south and South might be the south and the south a the views of the people of this State.

We are struck with the great similarity of the cause a keep interest. ned in the speech we publish to-day, and those held by dell as an inflationist We hope our Representative will press his views upon Congress. The condition of the South is such that without some decided change in the financial system of the country her people will become bankrupt, and her fields will become rank with grass and her business enterprises will languish and die. If all the members of Congress of both parties who desire reform can reconcile their views and unite their strength, something can be done to relieve present distress. We certainly are well pleased that Colonel Waddell is giving so much attention to this matter.

In its report of the proceedings of the Texas Pacific Railroad Convention, at St. Louis, the Globe Democrat gives the following exciting scene:

At this point a delegate arcse, and remarking that he observed the presence of General Joe Johnston in the house, moved that he be invited to a sent on the platform. The motion was carried unanimously, and General Johnston moved forward to the platform amid great cheering. As General Johnston stepped on the stage, he was met by General Sherman, who extended his arm, and the two veterans shook hands amid tumultuous and long continued cheering, men standing up in their seats and shouting until they were hourse. In the same spirit Goneral Beauregard was invited to a seat on the patform, and was kindly re-ceived, but with less violent enthusi-

Col. Broadhead moved for a recess to enable the committee on permanent

Mr. Trimble, of Kentucky, said that distinguished men from all parts of the country had been invited to a seatupon the platform. No one in the country had done more to arouse an interest in the widening of the month of the Mississippi, and the increase of the commerce of the west, and the great cause that we are here assembled to promote than Mr. Davia Mr. Trimble had no personal or politic l feeling toward Mr. Davia, and he made the motion simply as an act of justice. He hoped the convention would banish all feeling of section—east, west, north and south.

The question was put and was carried although not without a considerable amount of not y opposition.

Mr. Davis was observed on the floor but was unable to eatch the ear of the chairman until the chair decided that the motion field prevailed.

It takes but a few mosaid lives of advertising type,) One inch one insertion. ONE DOLLAR; two insertions ONE DOLLAR; two insertions ONE DOLLARS; four insertions is any definite data on a bigh to base calculations, but it is evident that unless combinations and withdrawals take place no candidate can count upon take pla a majority of the Democratic caucus. Wood will have no strength, and may be counted out of the fight; so may flancock, of Texas, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate. Walker of Virginia, has a bare chance, and will remain in the backgrounds with a third man's hopes and possibilities, while the real fight goes on between Kerr and Randall.
