For the Middle States, rising barometer, northerly to westerly winds diminishing in force, and colder, clear or partly cloudy weather will prevail. For the South Atlantic States, Tennessee and the Ohio valley, high barometer, winds veering to northwest and northeast, slightly warmer and clear or partly cloudy weather, except lower temperature in the first district.

Moore's Creek Centennial. We publish elsewhere a patriotic communication of Mr. Harman, Secretary of the Executive Committee for the celebration, which will be read with interest. Ex-Gov. Vance, Gov. Brogden, Mr. Stallings of Duplin and Mr. Ashe of Raleigh will be the orators on the occasion. Every preparation has been or will be made, to make this the greatest event of the Cape Fear Section, in this centennial year.

We publish also an extract from a speech of the great hero, silver-tongued Bannom, delivered in the U. S. Senate, in which he pays an eloquent tribute to the Memory of the heroes of the battle of Moore's creek, and to the patriotism of the men now living in the Cape Fear Section.

Supplanted - The Radical Way. A Mr. Piper has for ten years been in the employment of the Post Office Department as route agent on the W., C. & A. Railroad, and during that time he is said to have filled the position with unexceptionable efficiency and fidelity. The department has made no charges against him, and makes none now. But without cause, and without warning, this servant of the department is summarily lifted out of his position to make room for a South Carolina negro, who is said to be wholly incompetent to discharge the duties of a route agent, and withal, has had to experience as such. This has been done on the demand of the South Carolina Radical delegation in Congress. The coming negro is named Thompson - Thompson with a p.

On yesterday however, another well defined case developed itself, on Front Street, between Orange and Ann streets, in the person of Mr. Fleet, who disappeared the cargo of the infected ship. Mr. Fleet was frequently, and almost constantly in company with the captain of the vessel, Captain M. M. Smith, who all this while was suffering from the fever of the disease. On Sunday is the only case that has not yet appeared on the vessel.

A YOUNG MAN NAMED John La Frenz has been missing for some days from his home in the city, and his family are very uneasy for fear that an accident may have befallen him. It is in the case they would no doubt be thankful or any information as to his situation.

From the Signal office at this place we obtain the following report of the state of the thermometer yesterday afternoon at 5:40 o'clock at the various stations below:

Extract from Senator Ransom's speech. While the bill for the appropriation to the Philadelphia centennial was under consideration Senator Ransom addressed the Senate. From his speech we make the following extract in reference to the Battle of Moore's Creek:
Mr. Ransom - Mr. President, I had not intended to address the Senate on this bill, and should have been content simply to cast my vote for it, but this morning I received the newspapers from Wilmington, North Carolina, containing the account of a patriotic meeting of the citizens of Pender county and the people of the Cape Fear country, for the purpose of commemorating the centennial anniversary of the battle of Moore's Creek, which occurred in that county on the 27th day of February, 1776, before the declaration at Philadelphia. The resolutions of that meeting represent so truly and eloquently the sentiment of the people of North Carolina and of the whole South that I have felt it my duty to lay them before the Senate and this country.

I ask the Clerk to read the resolution which I send to the desk. I would have all the proceedings read, but the resolution indicated is most pertinent to the question before us, and I know, at this very late hour, how impatient Senators must be.
Resolved, That the results of the late war have not abated one jot or tittle of our devotion to the principles of the Constitution upon which the Government is founded; and although the issues at stake were decided adversely to our hopes and expectations, yet being settled, there exists no reason why we should not love the Government which our fathers aided in establishing, and the old flag which they honored and loved, with as much ardor and faith as do the citizens of any section of our common country; and that we consider it a patriotic duty, not alone to cherish affection for the Government, but to teach our children to love it.

I need not remind you, Mr. President, that the battle of Moore's Creek was one of the most interesting of the Revolution, and that the great victory gained there by the patriots gave a decided impulse to our arms; and I must in this place declare my gratification that the worthy children of the noble heroes of that field propose to honor their ancestors and to honor themselves by an appropriate celebration of its hundredth anniversary. Sir, I send them from this Chamber our heartiest sympathies. But, Mr. President, that the Senate may comprehend and fully appreciate the resolution which has just been read, I beg to say that the county of Pender, in which this meeting was held, has been established since the civil war, and was named in honor of General Pender, a gallant and distinguished Confederate soldier who fell at Gettysburg; that the people of the Cape Fear country, in which this new county lies, were not only distinguished during the war for independence for their gallantry and patriotism, but that in the entire South during the unhappy strife of the States no people were more devoted to the Confederate cause.

The resolutions were drawn and presented by Dr. S. S. Satchell, a surgeon in the southern army from the beginning to the end of the war; a gentleman of great intelligence, of eminent position in the medical profession, and of universally admitted scientific attainment and distinction. Among the many persons who were present at the meeting I see the names of the representative men of that section of our State - gentlemen of substance, of character, of high social and political influence, and I also notice that it is contemplated that that entire section of our State, embracing many counties and thousands of people, are to join in the celebration. I mention and call attention, Mr. President, to these circumstances, that it may be known that the sentiments expressed and the spirit pervading these resolutions are the true representative opinions and feelings of the people of North Carolina and the South, and as such I present them to the Senate and to this country.

MOORE'S CREEK BRIDGE, PENDER CO., N. C., Feb. 16, 1876.
Editors Journal:
GENTLEMEN: IN ANSWER to numerous inquiries from various sections of the Cape Fear country, permit me to say that the indications are every way favorable for a successful celebration on Saturday, the 26th inst., upon this sacred old battle ground, of the centennial of the battle of Moore's Creek. The work of preparation is going vigorously forward. All things are nearly ready among the country people. They go to the grounds with their axes, hoes, hammers, nails, lumber, &c., and urged on by a noble veneration for the memory of their forefathers, as well as by a patriotic devotion to the government and the old flag, they are working with the true spirit of American citizens to make the demonstration a grand success. The various committees in the rural districts are at work. The executive committee will hold another meeting upon the grounds on Saturday next, and a full and prompt attendance at 11 o'clock A. M. is earnestly requested. We hear nothing from the Wilmington committee. Will you please inform us whether the important work assigned to this committee has been accomplished. Reliable information authorizes me to say that a large crowd will be present. Thousands upon thousands will be present, not only from Pender and adjoining counties, but from all parts of the Cape Fear and other portions of the State. The true centennial spirit is aroused. The people are coming in large crowds to the Moore's Creek centennial celebration. They are coming too, not as Democrats or Republicans, not merely as citizens of Pender, of the Cape Fear, and of North Carolina, but as American citizens, proud of the sacrifices and achievements of their forefathers, and determined to stand by the Constitution, the government, and the old flag. The ladies are invited to come. Order and good conduct will be maintained by proper authorities. No liquor will be sold on the ground. The authority to furnish "refreshments" excludes permission to sell anything that will intoxicate. No doubts may be had on the subject. All applications to sell ardent spirits have been and will be rejected. The managers appreciate the importance of good order and society on this occasion, and the same will be insisted upon, and, if necessary, enforced by proper authority.

The stand for the speaker, chairman and others, is already erected in a few yards of the monument erected in honor of the heroes of the battle of Moore's Creek. From that stand distinguished speakers of both political parties will address the assembled multitude. Governor Vance and Governor Brogden have both been invited. It is hoped they will sit on that stand together side by side and address the people. Vance is expected. Among the invited speakers, outside of these two gentlemen, answers have only been received from Messrs. John N. Stallings and Samuel A. Ashe. These two gentlemen, one, as you are aware, from Duplin and the other from Raleigh, have accepted and will deliver addresses on the occasion.

The spirit and letter of our preliminary proceedings, had at our meeting at Lillington on the 15th inst., is the key note to the great upheaval of public sentiment now overspreading this whole Cape Fear country in relation to this centennial and also the Philadelphia centennial. In a letter from our Representative in Congress, Mr. Waddell, in reference to the Lillington centennial meeting, he says, "a part of your proceedings were read the other day in the Senate during a patriotic speech by Senator Ransom, and has the attention of the Senate and the country was called out to the historical event and the spirit which animates our North Carolina people in this centennial year."
Hoping and believing that the Moore's Creek centennial, even though the time for preparation has been so short, will be a great success.
I am yours respectfully,
JAMES A. HARMAN,
Sec'y of the Ex. Com.

Monfort Hall, BY G. A. WATFIELD. VIA, ON THE SECRET OF POWER. OWEN GWYNNE'S GREAT WORK. A Novel. PRINCES OF THULE. A Novel. BY THE DEVIL'S CHAIN. BY Edward Jenkin, M. P., Author of 'Gina's Baby', 'The Captive', 'The Yarnspinner', A Novel, by Mary Cecil Day. All for sale at HEINSBERGER'S LIVE BOOK AND MUSIC STORE. The Novel of the Season! CHRISTIAN REID'S 'A QUESTION OF HONOR.' A Question of Honor, by Christian Reid, is praised by the press as a work of high credit of American literature. The selected extracts herefrom very favorably criticised are always acceptable. A Question of Honor, is a story of Southern society, with a well-constructed and well-maintained plot, and with finish which will be unappreciated by most readers. From the New Haven Register: 'An admirably told story, full of incident and plot, that are in no respect overestimated, and carrying intense interest as the threads of the narrative are caught up and joined together.' From the Louisville Courier-Journal: 'The story is an exciting and is fully worthy of the author's reputation; indeed, it has won the approval and notice of all that are his true readers.' 'Equally clear in style and elevated in tone, and is worth more than one careful reading.' From the Union Herald: 'The author has wrought with care, and with a good ethical and artistic purpose, and these are the essential needs in the building up of an American literature.' From the Boston Globe: 'A Question of Honor' will more than maintain the already won reputation of its author.' From the Buffalo Courier: 'The author of this story has tried to do the most successful of those who have tried to construct novel out of the crude material of American life.'
