CICERO W. HARRIS.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEB. 10, 1877.

IF.

If the Electoral Commission has ruled that Florida must be counted for Hayes because there is no going behind the Governor's certificate it must likewise, to be consistent and logical, rule when the case of Oregon comes up that the vote of Oregon shall be counted for Tilden. There is no escaping this conclusion. As goes Florida so must go Oregon. The Governor's certificate must be as potential in one State as it is in another.

Tilden would be elected by counting Cronin's vote in the Oregon Electoral College.

The decision of the Commission at the time we write has not been promulgated, though it is expected to be in favor of Hayes. Perhaps the night telegrams will put a new face on the matter.

Our feeling is one of confidence that right and justice will prevail. Tilden, we feel quite sure, will get his own if he has to ask it at the hands of the House of Representatives. The Florida decision may be such a one as will not give Oregon and Louisiana to either party, in which event the election will be taken into the House and Tilden be elected. Then the Senate would elect Wheeler Vice President.

THE FLORIDA CASE.

A Northern paper thus succinctly states the argument in the Florida case with a slight criticism on two of the authors of the argument:

"The certificate is the recorded title of election, and must stand unchallenged and unimpeachable, said Everts. From the moment the certificate was sealed, no power could arrest or reverse the vote, and it must be opened and counted as it was deposited, said Everts. The certificate must be true and genuine, argued O'Connor, and the Electoral Commission is empowered to inquire into its authenticity, as Congress, which delegated its powers to the commission, is thus empowered. O'Connor's argument was solid and compact, though it seems not to have been so 'eloquent' or 'rousing' as some people desired it to be. It was all the better, all the more appropriate, and all the stronger, sensible people will say, for the lack of that kind of eloquence which can be manufactured, at short notice. Even Everts, on this occasion, appears to have kept his wings of eloquence more closely folded than usual; and though he tried them now and then, he never soared beyond human control."

THE LOUISIANA INFAMY.

Every day for nearly two weeks a stream of testimony to the rascality of the Returning Board in Louisiana has issued from Washington.

The testimony of Littlefield, Clerk of the Returning Board, of Maddox and of Pickett, which was at first assailed so vehemently by the friends and confederates of the Returning Board, is now fully sustained by the autograph letters of Wells himself, written while he was engaged in making up the vote of the State, and only a fortnight before the Hayes electors were counted in.

Now Wells furiously denies that he meant anything by these letters, and gives the examining lawyer "the infamous lie. But with all his bluster the public are perfectly well satisfied that Wells is an unvarnished scoundrel, that he did practise all the infamy confessed for his letter, and which he now tries to explain away, and that the Returning Board had no ground to stand on, when it declared the electoral vote of Louisiana for Hayes and Wheeler.

THE LAST DAYS OF GRANT.

It is somewhat amusing as the New York "Sun" observes, playing President with a solemn air in the closing weeks of his career, and when the people, irrespective of party, are rejoicing that his official days are numbered. The message he sent to Congress on Saturday in regard to the resumption of specie payments will produce about as much effect as a famous message urging the acquisition of San Domingo as a certain and speedy way of extinguishing the national debt. Grant does not seem to understand that in about twenty days more his power will have departed forever, and that he must sink back into obscurity with Boss Shepherd, Babcock, and the vile set whom he collected around him in the White House. Essentially a man of low instincts, he has made the bed upon which he must lie for the rest of his days.

These reflections of an intelligent newspaper, which is apt to speak the popular sentiment, are saddening but strictly just. Grant's popularity has steadily gone down at the North to zero, and now he commands not even the respect of the partisan crew which stood around his administration as long as it had office and plunder to bestow. The fable of the ass and the sick lion is very apropos.

Mr. T. A. Trollope, in stating causes of the Liberal victory at the recent election in Italy, says that simple discontent, and not any desire for progress or extension of the franchise, was at the bottom of the movement. The members of one party are no more Liberals than the members of the other, and there is no widespread desire among the people for an enlarged electoral suffrage. Mr. Trollope says that of the half a million voters who may go to the polls nothing can induce more than a quarter of a million to do so.

The region about Bradford in Northern Pennsylvania has solved the gas problem. Some time ago, in drilling for oil, a gas vein was struck, and ever since, from two inch jets, flames have belched with terrific noise to a height of from twenty-five to forty feet. The light is said to be so strong that a newspaper may be read by it half a mile away, while, for a considerable distance around the snow is melted away, and in some spots the grass and wild vines have kept green and growing all the winter long.

NEW BOOKS.

We have received from J. B. Lippincott & Co. "My Mother's Manuscript," translated from the French of Alphonse de Lamartine by Maria Louise Helper, and dedicated to Mrs. Emily Beach Polk, formerly of Asheville, this State. The book gives a picture of private life of a French family during many of the most eventful periods of the nineteenth century. A proof of the recognized merit of the original is that it has recently been translated by Lady Herbert in London. The translation before us is an exceedingly pleasant one.

T. B. Peterson & Bros. have furnished us with "White Friars," a historical novel of the days and times of Charles the Second. The book has been compared by English critics with the works of Sir Walter Scott. The reader's interest never flags during the perusal of the volume, and the power of the author is stamped on every page. For sale at Heinberger's book store. Price, 75 cents.

The same Publishing House has just issued "Cyrilla," a love story, by the author of "The Initiator" who is a daughter of Lord Erskine. The characters are original and remarkably true to life. Mr. Heinberger also sells this, bound in paper, for 75 cents.

"Leah and Rupert Hall" are smaller books issued by the same firm and sold at Mr. Heinberger's for respectively, 50 and 75 cents. "Leah" is a thrilling story by Dr. Mosenthal. A beautiful and noble Jewess is the heroine. "Rupert Hall" is by Mrs. Henry Wood, one of the most prolific writers of the age.

Henry Waterson, who was born in Washington while his father was a Representative in Congress, has had a son born to him there under similar circumstances.

Mothers, do not let your darling smile with the Whopping Cough, if you have a remedy so near at hand. Use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, and the little sufferers will soon find relief. Price 50 cents.

THE SUN.

1877. NEW YORK. 1877.
The different editions of THE SUN during the year that has just passed during the year that has just passed. The daily edition will on week days be a sheet of four pages, and on Sundays a sheet of eight pages, or 36 broad columns; while the weekly edition will be a sheet of eight pages of the same dimensions and character that are already familiar to our friends. THE SUN will continue to be the strenuous advocate of reform and reformation, and of the substitution of state-manship, wisdom, and integrity for hollow pretence, imbecility, and fraud in the administration of public affairs. It will contend for the government of the people by the people and for the people, as opposed to government by frauds in the ballot-box and in the counting of votes, enforced by military violence. It will endeavor to supply its readers—a body now not far from a million of souls—with the most careful, complete and trustworthy accounts of current events, and will employ for this purpose a numerous and carefully selected staff of reporters and correspondents. Its reports from Washington, especially, will be full, accurate and fearless, and it will doubtless continue to deserve and enjoy the hatred of those who thrive by plundering the Treasury or by usurping what the law does not give them, while it will endeavor to merit the confidence of the public by defending the rights of the people against the encroachments of an unjustified power. The price of the daily SUN will be 55 cents a month or $6.50 a year, or with the Sunday edition $7.70 a year. The Sunday edition alone, eight pages, $1.30 a year, postpaid.
