

The Tarboro' Southerner. A Family, Political and Newspaper published every Wednesday morning by CHARLES & BIGGS. JAMES G. CHARLES. WILLIAM BIGGS.

The Tarboro' Southerner

VOLUME XLV. TARBORO', EDGECOMBE COUNTY, NORTH CAROLINA, NOVEMBER 25, 1869. NUMBER 52.

PROFESSIONAL. WM. BIGGS. THOS. H. OWEN, JR. Biggs & Owen, ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Tarboro', N. C.

DOSSEY BATTLE, Attorney and Counsellor at Law, ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. Collections made-if possible. CIRCUIT. Wash, Halifax, Wilson and Edgecombe Counties.

ELLIOTT BROTHERS, GENERAL Commission Merchants 59 South Gay Street. BALTIMORE.

HAWKINS, WILLIAMSON & CO., GENERAL Commission Merchants, Office 30 Commerce Street, Norfolk, Va.

Commission Merchants 203 South Street, BALTIMORE. LIBERAL CASH ADVANCES made on Consignments.

M. LOWENBACK & BRO., IMPORTERS OF WINE, BRANDIES, CIGARS, &c., WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

VENI! VIDI! VICI!!! G. W. GAIL & AX'S G. W. GAIL & AX'S G. W. GAIL & AX'S

SCOTCH SNUFF. SCOTCH SNUFF. SCOTCH SNUFF. THE CONQUEROR OF ALL SNUFFS!

SNUFF IN THE MARKET. Do not fail to try it, for you will like it. Ask for it and take no other.

REMOVAL OF GEO. B. LIPSCOMB TO HIS NEW CROCKERY HOUSE!

THE UNDERSIGNED TAKES THIS method of advertising the public generally that he has removed to his new NORFOLK. JAMES R. RICKS. A. G. MILHARD. RICKS & MILHARD, General Commission Merchants.

ESTABLISHED 1847. C. F. GREENWOOD & CO., Watchmakers and Jewelers, DEALERS IN

T. A. WILLIAMS & CO., GENERAL GROCERS & COMMISSION MERCHANTS, 66 ROUNDS SQUARE, NORFOLK, VA.

W. H. G. JORDIN, COTTON FACTOR AND GENERAL Commission Merchant, Office 30 Commerce Street, Norfolk, Va.

J. D. REED, AGT. PRACTICAL HATTER, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Hats, Caps, Straw Goods, Umbrellas, Canes, &c.

DAVID HUMAN & CO., General Commission Merchants, No. 21 Exchange Place, NEW YORK.

L. L. BRICKHOUSE & CO., Wholesale and Retail Dealers in BOOTS, SHOES, Trunks, Valises, Carpet Bags &c.

Cosmopolitan Billiard and Reading Rooms, 21 Main Street, NORFOLK, VA.

DR. GODDIN'S COMPOUND GENTIAN BITTERS, Cures Chills and Fever, Dropsies, Indigestion, Nausea, Headache, Rheumatism, &c.

DR. GODDIN'S COMPOUND GENTIAN BITTERS, A sure, safe, and reliable preventative and cure for all Malaria, dysentery, and all diseases requiring a general tonic impression.

AT OUR CARRIAGE SHOP WE keep on hand a good stock of Light Buggies, top and all kinds of second-hand vehicles.

MISCELLANEOUS. Brown's Cotton Gins, Ingersoll's Cotton Presses, For sale by DAWSON, TEEL & JENNING, Wilmington, N. C.

Notice of Co Partnership. WILMINGTON, N. C. April 15, 1869. WE, the undersigned, have this day entered into co-partnership under the firm name, and style of

TO THE PUBLIC. THE undersigned respectfully announce to the citizens of Edgecombe and adjacent Counties, that he has opened a

Photograph Gallery, In the Town of Tarboro', and is prepared to execute, in an artistic manner, all the various styles of lithographs, such as

Tarboro' Daily Market. I am still prepared to supply the citizens of Tarboro' and vicinity with all kinds of FRESH MEATS, STALLS OPEN EVERY MORNING

REMOVAL. WE HAVE REMOVED OUR HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT to our Carriage Shop, where we intend to keep up the business as heretofore.

Wilson Collegiate Seminary, FOR BOYS, WASHINGTON AND WELDON R. R. NEXT SESSION BEGINS SEPT. 13th, 1870.

T. M. ROBINSON & CO., GENERAL Commission Merchants, No. 17 Clearing House, BALTIMORE.

G. H. DOUGHTY, FIRST CLASS Boot & Shoe Maker, TARBORO', N. C.

COTTON PRESSES. WE MANUFACTURE THE BEANLEY COTTON PRESS, THE SIMPLEST, MOST EFFICIENT, AND MOST DURABLE HAND PRESS now in use.

HUSSEY BROS. & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF Carriages and Harness Shops at the Old Stand.

NORFOLK. FREER & CO., WHOLESALE LIQUOR DEALERS, No. 12 Roanoke Square, Norfolk, Va.

STATION, BENNETT & CO., COTTON FACTORS AND Commission Merchants, McPHAILS WHARF, NORFOLK, VA.

MARTIN & ELLIOTT, ATTORNEYS AT LAW, Office No. 24 West Main Street, Norfolk, Va.

J. M. FREEMAN, Watchmaker and Jeweler, No. 29 MAIN STREET, CORNER OF TALBOT STREET, NORFOLK, VA.

DISSOLUTION OF CO-PARTNERSHIP. THE FIRM OF KADLER BIGGS & CO., composed of Kadler Biggs and Joseph J. Biggs, is dissolved this day by mutual consent.

CIVIL AND NAVAL MERCHANT TAILOR, South East Corner Main Street and Market Square, NORFOLK, VA.

THE FINEST CLOTHES, CASSIMERES & VESTINGS, All of which will be made up in the MOST FASHIONABLE STYLE.

FANCY GOODS. West Side Market Square, Norfolk, Va. Sign of the Anvil.

THE Ladies' Bazaar. MRS. R. FEILDENHEIMER begs leave to announce to the Ladies that she has taken the new and elegant

THE Ladies' Bazaar. MRS. R. FEILDENHEIMER begs leave to announce to the Ladies that she has taken the new and elegant

THE Ladies' Bazaar. MRS. R. FEILDENHEIMER begs leave to announce to the Ladies that she has taken the new and elegant

The Tarboro' Southerner. THURSDAY, - - - NOV. 25, 1869. The University - Justice Answered.

Mr. Editor - I am awake - wide awake. I do not know that I shall ever go to sleep again. The following clap of thunder awakened me. "Brother Alumni awake! Our common mother is assailed, and with the exception of here and there a thoughtless or ungrateful son, they are stranger hands that strike her."

Now, Mr. Editor, that my eyes are open and the noise is fading out of my ears, and my nerves are becoming somewhat quiet, I must say that "Justice" never uttered a truer word than when he declared that "stranger hands are striking our mother."

THE GENERAL COMMISSION AND FORWARDING BUSINESS will be continued by Kadler Biggs and Joseph J. Biggs, late of Kadler Biggs & Co.

JOSHUA H. KING, (Successor to George W. Farant.) CIVIL AND NAVAL MERCHANT TAILOR,

THE FINEST CLOTHES, CASSIMERES & VESTINGS, All of which will be made up in the MOST FASHIONABLE STYLE.

FANCY GOODS. West Side Market Square, Norfolk, Va. Sign of the Anvil.

THE Ladies' Bazaar. MRS. R. FEILDENHEIMER begs leave to announce to the Ladies that she has taken the new and elegant

THE Ladies' Bazaar. MRS. R. FEILDENHEIMER begs leave to announce to the Ladies that she has taken the new and elegant

THE Ladies' Bazaar. MRS. R. FEILDENHEIMER begs leave to announce to the Ladies that she has taken the new and elegant chairs professors who had grown gray in the service of our public, men who had just come through the war with means entirely inadequate to the support of their families.

When these carpet-baggers, scalliwags, &c., whom our negroes have hoisted up high enough to grab the University, are asked why they treated with such a manner - they coolly reply - "We only accepted the resignation of the old Faculty, and no one of them asked for a re-election. This reply is indeed a complete lie."

When these carpet-baggers, scalliwags, &c., whom our negroes have hoisted up high enough to grab the University, are asked why they treated with such a manner - they coolly reply - "We only accepted the resignation of the old Faculty, and no one of them asked for a re-election. This reply is indeed a complete lie."

When these carpet-baggers, scalliwags, &c., whom our negroes have hoisted up high enough to grab the University, are asked why they treated with such a manner - they coolly reply - "We only accepted the resignation of the old Faculty, and no one of them asked for a re-election. This reply is indeed a complete lie."

When these carpet-baggers, scalliwags, &c., whom our negroes have hoisted up high enough to grab the University, are asked why they treated with such a manner - they coolly reply - "We only accepted the resignation of the old Faculty, and no one of them asked for a re-election. This reply is indeed a complete lie."

When these carpet-baggers, scalliwags, &c., whom our negroes have hoisted up high enough to grab the University, are asked why they treated with such a manner - they coolly reply - "We only accepted the resignation of the old Faculty, and no one of them asked for a re-election. This reply is indeed a complete lie."

When these carpet-baggers, scalliwags, &c., whom our negroes have hoisted up high enough to grab the University, are asked why they treated with such a manner - they coolly reply - "We only accepted the resignation of the old Faculty, and no one of them asked for a re-election. This reply is indeed a complete lie."

When these carpet-baggers, scalliwags, &c., whom our negroes have hoisted up high enough to grab the University, are asked why they treated with such a manner - they coolly reply - "We only accepted the resignation of the old Faculty, and no one of them asked for a re-election. This reply is indeed a complete lie."

When these carpet-baggers, scalliwags, &c., whom our negroes have hoisted up high enough to grab the University, are asked why they treated with such a manner - they coolly reply - "We only accepted the resignation of the old Faculty, and no one of them asked for a re-election. This reply is indeed a complete lie."

When these carpet-baggers, scalliwags, &c., whom our negroes have hoisted up high enough to grab the University, are asked why they treated with such a manner - they coolly reply - "We only accepted the resignation of the old Faculty, and no one of them asked for a re-election. This reply is indeed a complete lie."

been banished or otherwise punished for this contempt of Court. "The rig" without any proper attempt to ascertain the practicability of the first part of the alternative proposed by Justice Pearson and Settle, and without any proper and public advertisement of what they were going to do, went on, to elect not only four Professors but a President also. This they did so secretly, that intelligent gentlemen in Raleigh desirous of placing before the Trustees names of friends as candidates for the vacancies at Chapel Hill, could not find out whether there would be an election. As far as the public has been informed, the present Board of Trustees, the like of which for dignitaries, &c., has never, according to "Justice," been seen in this continent, has allowed this flagrant disobedience to their instructions to pass unrebuked. At the same time they seem to expect that men of their selection shall be allowed to teach our youth the principles and the practice of obedience.

"Justice" tells us, (and we are assured that he is well posted concerning his statements,) that this constitution-breaking, order-defying set of electors found, at this secret election, that Professor Pool had never resigned his place in the University. And President Pool's attorney seems very anxious to make us remember that his client has been ever since he was appointed Tutor, a member of the Faculty of the University; for he repeats several times that "President Pool never resigned his professorship. This 'Justice' sees, but true to his character as blind, he does not see that President Pool was the only member of the Faculty of 1866, who could not resign, because he had nothing to resign. For he had been dropped, and that before the resignations of 1867 were presented. I can tell that neither of the catalogues of our University for 1867, nor that for 1868, contain his name as a member of the Faculty. These catalogues were published under the eye of Gov. Swain, and we old students know that he used to say, that when he went to the head of the University, he was told that he would be regarded as the captain of a ship, responsible for the success of its sailing, and that he should always have the sailing of his crew. If then Gov. Swain let two successive catalogues be published without Mr. Pool's name as a member of the Faculty, it was because his taking a place in the service of the National Government - and that in a sphere where his labors were in no way akin to those of his profession - was a virtual resignation. Nor was President Pool the first member of the Faculty that ever was thus dropped without a formal resignation. Nor was he, as "Justice" asserts, the first Tutor ever taught the highest classes in the University, although he may have been the first for whom the experiment was not continued nor repeated. Nor has President Pool's "immediate family been represented at the University as its students and patrons for a longer time than, with possibly one exception, any family in the State" - as "Justice" would fain have us believe. A late writer in the "Sentinel" exposes the falsity of this assertion most effectually. He shows that several old families in North Carolina have been represented at the University from the beginning of its work in 1785 down to the latest years thereof. Whenever I read this edition of "Justice," as I do every now and then, I ask: Is it the function of Justice to deliver what is to be taken without faith, or does it deliver what is to be both taken and believed? If this fulsome adulation of President Pool by this specimen of Justice is to be believed, then the Rev. Solomon Pool, who, for the last twenty years, has filled as student, tutor, professor, trustee, and president, the honorable position, under the former and present board of trustees, with any man that ever lived," this wonderful man is, what I have heard the preachers call, "the final cause" of North Carolina.

Now that "the good old North State" has afforded an arena in which President Pool has been conceived, born, suckled, reared, spanked, scolded, collected, graduated, tutored, professional, publicized, presided, and, in general, reprobated, let her work it home. She may now "quit and go home." "See her out."

Resolved, That the Executive Committee be instructed to ascertain whether a sufficient number of teachers competent to carry on the exercises of the University can be induced, in consideration of the use and occupation of the college buildings, apparatus, &c., without charge for a term not to exceed five years, to take charge of the instruction, with the understanding that should the State send young men to the University to be instructed as teachers of common schools, the State will pay the ordinary room rent and tuition fees to the teachers, and in case then nor now, this Board, before it selected these Trustees, suspended the instructions at the University. The Board of Trustees might have done so, after it was organized. But, until this organization, that appointing Board of Education had just your functions as Editor, as to suspend the Faculty of the University from their functions as Professors.

Nor does this blind old man see that this Board has not only done what it was not commanded to do, but it has also not done what it was commanded to do. From some counties it has elected two, and even three Trustees, while other counties are entirely unrepresented among the managers of the University. "Justice" will not believe that a jury so packed will commit injustice. In his eyes it is only a mistake, a casual error, then, and not an unmerciful partizan turn out of their

been banished or otherwise punished for this contempt of Court. "The rig" without any proper attempt to ascertain the practicability of the first part of the alternative proposed by Justice Pearson and Settle, and without any proper and public advertisement of what they were going to do, went on, to elect not only four Professors but a President also. This they did so secretly, that intelligent gentlemen in Raleigh desirous of placing before the Trustees names of friends as candidates for the vacancies at Chapel Hill, could not find out whether there would be an election. As far as the public has been informed, the present Board of Trustees, the like of which for dignitaries, &c., has never, according to "Justice," been seen in this continent, has allowed this flagrant disobedience to their instructions to pass unrebuked. At the same time they seem to expect that men of their selection shall be allowed to teach our youth the principles and the practice of obedience.

"Justice" tells us, (and we are assured that he is well posted concerning his statements,) that this constitution-breaking, order-defying set of electors found, at this secret election, that Professor Pool had never resigned his place in the University. And President Pool's attorney seems very anxious to make us remember that his client has been ever since he was appointed Tutor, a member of the Faculty of the University; for he repeats several times that "President Pool never resigned his professorship. This 'Justice' sees, but true to his character as blind, he does not see that President Pool was the only member of the Faculty of 1866, who could not resign, because he had nothing to resign. For he had been dropped, and that before the resignations of 1867 were presented. I can tell that neither of the catalogues of our University for 1867, nor that for 1868, contain his name as a member of the Faculty. These catalogues were published under the eye of Gov. Swain, and we old students know that he used to say, that when he went to the head of the University, he was told that he would be regarded as the captain of a ship, responsible for the success of its sailing, and that he should always have the sailing of his crew. If then Gov. Swain let two successive catalogues be published without Mr. Pool's name as a member of the Faculty, it was because his taking a place in the service of the National Government - and that in a sphere where his labors were in no way akin to those of his profession - was a virtual resignation. Nor was President Pool the first member of the Faculty that ever was thus dropped without a formal resignation. Nor was he, as "Justice" asserts, the first Tutor ever taught the highest classes in the University, although he may have been the first for whom the experiment was not continued nor repeated. Nor has President Pool's "immediate family been represented at the University as its students and patrons for a longer time than, with possibly one exception, any family in the State" - as "Justice" would fain have us believe. A late writer in the "Sentinel" exposes the falsity of this assertion most effectually. He shows that several old families in North Carolina have been represented at the University from the beginning of its work in 1785 down to the latest years thereof. Whenever I read this edition of "Justice," as I do every now and then, I ask: Is it the function of Justice to deliver what is to be taken without faith, or does it deliver what is to be both taken and believed? If this fulsome adulation of President Pool by this specimen of Justice is to be believed, then the Rev. Solomon Pool, who, for the last twenty years, has filled as student, tutor, professor, trustee, and president, the honorable position, under the former and present board of trustees, with any man that ever lived," this wonderful man is, what I have heard the preachers call, "the final cause" of North Carolina.

Now that "the good old North State" has afforded an arena in which President Pool has been conceived, born, suckled, reared, spanked, scolded, collected, graduated, tutored, professional, publicized, presided, and, in general, reprobated, let her work it home. She may now "quit and go home." "See her out."

Resolved, That the Executive Committee be instructed to ascertain whether a sufficient number of teachers competent to carry on the exercises of the University can be induced, in consideration of the use and occupation of the college buildings, apparatus, &c., without charge for a term not to exceed five years, to take charge of the instruction, with the understanding that should the State send young men to the University to be instructed as teachers of common schools, the State will pay the ordinary room rent and tuition fees to the teachers, and in case then nor now, this Board, before it selected these Trustees, suspended the instructions at the University. The Board of Trustees might have done so, after it was organized. But, until this organization, that appointing Board of Education had just your functions as Editor, as to suspend the Faculty of the University from their functions as Professors.

Nor does this blind old man see that this Board has not only done what it was not commanded to do, but it has also not done what it was commanded to do. From some counties it has elected two, and even three Trustees, while other counties are entirely unrepresented among the managers of the University. "Justice" will not believe that a jury so packed will commit injustice. In his eyes it is only a mistake, a casual error, then, and not an unmerciful partizan turn out of their

The Tarboro' Southerner. A Medium for Business Communications. Presenting facilities and inducements unsurpassed by reason of its location in the best agricultural section of the South. The Southerner will insert advertisements representing business of respectability, character and standing, at the following rates for any specified time not less than three months.

Written for the Southerner. WOMAN'S RIGHTS. Room in Mrs. Squintly's house - Equally standing in the centre.

MR. SQUINTLY - The device is to pay on these premises, and the whole house is turned topsy turvy. I thought I was master, but Mrs. Squintly is now of the masculine gender so far as I am concerned in its management.

Mrs. Squintly - Where are you going Mr. Squintly? I heard you had fared well to Mrs. Squintly, and speak of being gone - are you on the eve of a long journey?

MR. SQUINTLY - I contemplated taking the iron tube and gun powder rail road, Mrs. Squintly; destination unknown.

Mrs. Squintly - You seem disposed to be facetious; may I ask the occasion of its indulgence at this time, Mr. Squintly?

MR. SQUINTLY - Never more serious, madam!

Mrs. Squintly - Indeed, sir, I left in ignorance of any such intention on your part until the present. Am I not worthy to be consulted in regard to such a movement?

MR. SQUINTLY - I would not dare to leave without your sanction, Mrs. Squintly, except under pressing circumstances; such, I considered the present - though -

Mrs. Squintly - Though, what, sir?

MR. SQUINTLY - Though I may have overrated the urgency of the case, and the journey may be dispensed with.

Mrs. Squintly - You are mysterious, Mr. Squintly; perhaps you can give me some idea of what you mean, but allow me to inform you, Mr. Squintly, that, however much you may feel disposed to see independent of my will or wishes, it suits my convenience that you should remain at home for the next three or four days.

MR. SQUINTLY - (Very humbly) Your will, Mrs. Squintly, has all the power of command; but may I ask the reason - no offence, my dear wife - Mrs. Squintly - Cease such childish and silly terms when you address me, sir, and remember, that you are speaking to a woman who can rise superior to the petty resentments which male arrogance and presumption lavishes so profusely upon those whom they, falsely, call the weaker sex; proceed, sir.