THE GREAT ANXIETY.

History revoles no instance of such ragreat and long protracted anxiety about the life of any human being, as that now fe't throughout the civilized world, for the preservation of the life of'P esident Garfield. Day after day for a month and a half, the bulletins as nouncing his conditionthe indications for and against his restoration health and assumption of his official duties, have been eagerly sought for and read with alternate hope and fear in all parts of this coun- the manufacturer is not required to try and Europe. People everywhere are beginning to ask themselves when is this tong season of waiting and watching to end? They have been often encouraged by the attending physicians to hope for a favorable issue, and the President himself has always appeared hopeful of "pulling them, and if this is made to depend through." But within the last few days an unfarable change occurred, and a feeling of despondency succeeded in painful contrast to the feelings of joy and gladness at his prospective recovery. On Wednesday last the end was thought to be rapidly approaching and Dr. Agnew the chief surgeon informed Mrs. Garfield that she might prepare for the worst .-Since then we are informed that the President has rallied again, and that his condition has so much improved as to warrant hopes of his ultimate

To this defense the is obvious. The license being limited to the city of Richmond gave no authority to the Company to sell the machines elsewhere and of course gave none to its agent. The right conferred by the patent laws of the United States to sell their inventions and discoveries, does not take the tangible property, in which the invention or discovery may be exhibited or carried into effect, from the operation of the tax and license laws of the State.
