THE WILSON ADVANCE.

WILSON, FRIDAY, April 14th, 1882

POETRY.

THE OLD STORY.

I was weeping, sad and weary,
And the night was long and dreary,
Endless seeming to my child heart
Longing for the morning light.
Pain and woe full sore were o'er me
And the shaded lamp before me
Seemed to mock my bitter yearning,
Long ago, one winter night.

Tell my mother's soft caressing
Fell upon me like a blessing,
As she told of one who suffered
Bitter throes on Calvary;
Till I hushed my sobs and crying,
On her gentle bosom lying,
While she told me of the Savior
And His death upon the tree.

Told me o'er and o'er the story
Of the Christ child and His glory—
Of the shepherd's wondrous vision
And the star of promise bright;
Of the humble shed and manger
Cradling the holy stranger;
Of the angels, praising singing,
Long ago, one winter night.

Still grew my heart's quick beating
As he told me of the meeting,
At the tomb, one Sabbath morning,
Of the angels' fair and bright.
Then, at last, the story ended,
Up to God a prayer ascended—
Ah, it all came back so plainly
To my fevered brain to-night!

As upon my couch I languish,
Soothly upon my anguish,
Like a star that breaks the darkness,
Or a ray of morning light,
Comes the thought of that sweet story
Of the Christ child and His glory,
That was told to hush my waiting,
Long ago, one winter night.

Ah! my burden seemeth lighter
And the darkness growth brighter
Pain and grief no longer o'er me
Their dark wings of sorrow cast;
Christ, my King, forever reigneth,
And my soul no more complaineth;
Christ hath raised the veil of shadows
From my weary heart at last.

The Baby's Grave.

"You see the item in one of the papers about taming young alligators I reckon," said a Gravesend man, capturing the city editor by the buttonhole and drawing him into a doorway. "You know the paper said it was the fashionable thing to do."

"I don't remember," said the city editor. "What of it?" asked the city editor.

"I tried it," said the Gravesend man. "A friend of mine brought me one from New Orleans, and I'm taming that alligator for the children to play with."

"How does the experiment come along?" asked the city editor.

"I don't know about the experiment; the alligator is thriving. He was six weeks old when I got him two months ago, and he is seven years old now. People in our parts say he's all the alligator I'll ever need."

"What does he do?"

"Well, it's here. When he came he was a sportive little cuss and just waddled around friendly. He was chiefly mouth and we used to feed him for the fun of seeing him eat. Now he skinned around when we see him coming for the fun of seeing him growl."

"Is he dangerous?" asked the city editor.

"I haven't been close enough to see. He eat up my dog, and when I left this mornin' he was in the sty arguin' the question of pork as a diet with the pig. My wife thinks if the pig has any luck he will find the cow we lost."

"Great scott!" ejaculated the city editor.

"Oh, yes, it's lively down there. When he puts himself up he's business. He's the lightest alligator for a tame one you ever saw. When we first got him we used him for a tack hammer, drew nails with him but now he's the head of the family, except payin' the rent. When there is any mysterious disappearance around Gravesend the Coroner comes and views the alligator. That ends it. When the baby was snatched they held the inquest in a tree. The jury was all on one limb and the alligator underneath looking up. Bimely the limb broke, and the jury disappeared in a row, just as they sat. We didn't wait for any verdict. The Coroner gave me a permit, and after the funeral we shied an empty coffin at the alligator. Then the minister said out to dust, and we all dusted. Do you remember whether that item said what a real tame alligator ought to be fed on?"

"Don't recollect seeing it at all. Aren't you afraid he'll eat up some more of your family?"

"Think he's liable to?" asked the Gravesend man, with a curious expression of visage.

"He might. Suppose he should get your wife?"

"Ah!" said the Gravesend man. "He might get her, mightn't he? You think I'd better keep him then?" and the Gravesend man leaned against the door and gave himself up to reflection. "So he might, so he might," the city editor heard him say as he drew away and left him there. "That beautiful young tame alligator may get her yet," and the gloom of night-fall enveloped the frame dilating with a new hope.—Brooklyn Eagle.

American and European Girls.

In Europe every girl learns cooking as an art, and that part of her education is as essential as that of reading or writing. Every restaurant and hotel has a number of these volunteers, who pay for the privilege of learning under the tuition of a chef, in addition to which they do work around the kitchen. No matter how rich a man is, his daughters must learn in this manner, so that they can supervise the household and learn to cook well and economically. This custom has been imported to this country in a different form, and is now permeating the East in the shape of the schools of cookery. In Europe the girls are also taught cookery in the schools, and the consequence is that they are wives in fact as well as in name. When girls in this country stop looking down on housewifery as dishonorable and begin to learn cooking as an art, they will all pass out of single blessedness, but until that time the crop of old maids will continue to increase alarmingly. The heard of remark that two can live as cheaply as one, is rank nonsense. Any young man can live like a fighting cock, dress well and smoke the best cigars on $1,000 per year. He cannot marry on $1,500 and do the same.—Kansas City Times.

On J street, in Sacramento, Cal., there is a store at which a St. Bernard dog is kept to watch at night for burglars. One day last month, this dog was half asleep on a rug in the store, when a number of rough characters entered, and began to examine some comic valentines on a counter. The proprietor was busy, and paid no attention to the dogs. After a while the latter started out, but before they could reach the door the dog had blocked the way. He stood growling and showed his teeth, evidently determined that the boys should not pass out. The proprietors' attention was at once attracted, and he ordered the dog to keep quiet. The intelligent animal kept up his growling, however, and when the storekeeper advanced to protect the dogs he saw that the dog was right. In fact, he espied a package of valentines sticking from the pocket of one of the strangers. He immediately searched them, and found that they had slipped a number of articles into their pockets. The dog, on the rug, had seen the theft, and was bright enough to know that they were wrong.

A few days ago, while the fly-wheel of the Winchester Arms Manufactory, in New Haven, was revolving so rapidly that the spokes could not be distinguished, the engineer noticed a white blotch revolving with it. He at first thought that the blotch was caused by sunlight, but he decided finally that something had fallen into the wheel. He stopped the engine, and to his amazement found that what he had seen was a white cat, which had been clinging to one of the spokes. The cat had wandered into the wheel, and had failed to get out when the wheel was started shortly before. She was dazed, and hardly knew how to act for several minutes after the rescue, but she recovered.

The Hon. Mr. Sullivan offers to fight any man in America for $10,000. Speaking for one, we can't raise the money, and besides we have such entire respect for the Hon. Mr. Sullivan that we wouldn't mutilate him or the world.—Ex.

Tony Pastor in Trouble.

Tony Pastor, of New York, who is now with his inimitable variety combination, making a tour of the principal cities of the Union, is recognized as the leading character vocalist and variety performer of the United States. He owns and runs a first class theatre on Broadway, New York City, and has gathered about him the best troupe of variety artists that could be obtained. The company has just completed a brilliant engagement at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, and after the first four they will reappear in Tony Pastor's own theatre in New York City. Mr. Pastor is the originator of his peculiar school of character singing, and has made himself immensely popular, having realized by his talents a large fortune.

The writer of this article met Mr. Pastor recently at the Bingham House, in Philadelphia, and found him as genial in private as he is amusing before the public. During our conversation I inquired as to his physical health, and he replied that notwithstanding the strain upon him in the discharge of his professional duties, it was excellent. He had occasionally severe pains, either the result of rheumatic attacks or colds, but any complaints of that character never troubled him long, as he had found out a remedy for all such annoying affections. I asked him what the remedy was, and he replied "St. Jacobs Oil." I then learned from Mr. Pastor that he considered the Great German Remedy an excellent preparation for the cure or relief of rheumatism, and that it was about the only thing used among professional people for that distressing complaint. He took bottles of it with him whenever he went traveling, and would not be without it, and knew that it was very popular with a number of members of his own company. A conversation held subsequently with various members of the organization revealed the fact that St. Jacobs Oil had been performing most invaluable service for them in the way of curing them of rheumatism. Nearly every artist in the troupe used it, and was enthusiastic in its praise, and the writer was really forced to the conclusion that Tony Pastor was certainly in luck in having so valuable an article known and employed by his inimitable good company of performers, for it enabled every one to be always in his place, thus insuring comfort to the management and genuine satisfaction to the public. Tony Pastor would certainly be in trouble without St. Jacobs Oil. At least, other managers whose artists have been temporarily unsupplied, have noticed the difference between St. Jacobs Oil in stock and St. Jacobs Oil out of stock—among the members of their companies.—N. Y. Clipper.

Never Saw a Colored Man.

A Philadelphia exchange says that most of the Jewish refugees arriving in this country never saw a colored man until they landed.

"What's the matter with those men?" asked one of the refugees of a committeeman in Philadelphia.

"Nothing," was the answer.

"Ain't they sick?"

"No."

"Well, what makes them so black?"

"They are negroes."

The foreigner shook his head and proceeded to examine the colored men closer. A crowd soon gathered around and enjoyed the sight immensely. Some of them shook hands with the Africans, but the most of them refused and shrunk when the dusky hands were offered them. The children and some of the women ran in alarm when the colored men approached them. The youngsters clung in terror to the skirts of their mothers, while the adult females were not so certain but that the darkies were sent into the room to scare them or eat them up. The young colored men enjoyed the sport themselves, and tried to talk gibberish to the exiles.
